PUT PRICE ON BOMBER'S HEAD

LAWLER AND WIFE, BLAST VICTIMS, HAVE CHANCE OF LIFE; POLICE SEEK CLEWS

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association last night offered a reward of $5000 for the arrest and conviction of the fiends who placed the bombs at the home of Oscar Lawler, destroying the residence and frightfully injuring Mr. and Mrs. Lawler.

[The Times heartily approves of this action of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. Another reward should be offered by the City Council and still another by the Board of Supervisors. Such a course would reflect the spirit of the community. Make this an unhealthy climate for bombers. Pile up the rewards until they set the whole sleuthing talent of the Southwest at work on the case—and of the nation, too. Put a big price on the head of the author of yesterday's outrage, and get him.—Editor Times.]

"Mr. Lawler is resting comfortably. His condition is very satisfactory," said Dr. Thomas C. Myers, the Lawler physician, early this morning. "Mrs. Lawler will no doubt recover."

Dr. Andrew S. Lobingier, who is assisting Dr. Myers, amplified this statement by saying:

"We finished dressing their burns at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lawler is suffering from deep burns over nearly half the area of his body. His back is a solid mass of burns, and his arms are completely covered with burns from the shoulders down to the finger tips. He is burned considerably about the head, the deepest burns probably being those around his eyebrows. The lower part of his body is not burned extensively, and he seems to be bearing up under the shock a little better than we expected.

"When we examined his head we discovered a star-shaped scalp wound, which must have been inflicted in a fall upon the steps, where neighbors found him.

"Mrs. Lawler's most severe burns are on the fingers, although she is more or less singed and blistered on other parts of the body, the arms especially. Her burns are of a secondary nature. She has a fracture of the left clavicle, which she probably suffered when her husband dropped her out of a window."

Dr. Lobingier states that it is impossible to determine the result of severe burns during the first twenty-four hours. The attending physicians hope for improvement in the condition of their patients today.

The paraffine treatment for burns, which was originated during the war as an emergency treatment for Allied soldiers who were victims of liquid-fire attacks, was resorted to at the Sisters' Hospital yesterday in an effort to save lives of Mr. and Mrs. Lawler.

By this method of treatment the burned area of a patient's body is given a sort of asphaltum surface. The compound is applied hot, and it forms an air-tight protection for the wounds, keeping out air and infection and preventing a great deal of suffering. The method is usually so satisfactory that skin grafting is unnecessary.

TELL OF EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

"I was not sleepy and was waiting up for my son about the time the explosion occurred," Mrs. W. H. Kiger, 648 South New Hampshire avenue, said yesterday morning, regarding the Lawler tragedy. I had just gone to the window to look into the street when the explosion broke the stillness and threw me off my feet. I saw a great column of fire shoot up the walls of the Lawler house for at least forty feet, I thought. The fire burned fiercely into the wooden walls of the structure. Then I called for help and rushed downstairs."

It was to Mrs. Kiger's home that the terribly burned man and woman were carried by Mr. Heilman and other helpers. There they were given what help could be extended until the arrival of the Receiving Hospital ambulance in charge of Nurse Priester and Driver Withers.

William Lacy, of 3200 Wilshire boulevard, told a simple but dramatic story of his timely rescue of the child and nurse from the second story of the burning house.

"The shock of the explosion threw me to the floor, but I could see at a glance that the lives of every one in the house were in immediate danger," the ironmaster said. "I dashed out into the street, and as I crossed Wilshire boulevard and approached the back part of the Lawler residence, two other men joined me. We could see up above the nurse rushing around the inclosed sleeping porch and beating frantically against the wire screen.

"We looked around and saw a ladder. Choosing the eastern end of the sleeping porch, which was the furthest from the middle of the house where the flames were raging, we placed the ladder and climbed up. The screen had to be torn, but that was the work of a few seconds. Then we carried down the child and the nurse."

The back sleeping porch where the rescues were staged was not badly burned, but the ferocity of the flames filled the little room with intense heat and smoke, which would have snuffed out the lives of the woman and little boy, if help had not been at hand.

Long after the last smoldering beam was cooled by the streams of water and the detectives located the bits of the bomb and other evidence, the entrance to this room was cleared from the hall, and a touching contrast to the great tragedy of a few hours before was brought into view.

On the grass rug of the spacious room, in picturesque array, were the toys of Oscar ("Patsy,") Jr. Bright-colored trains, half-submerged in water and charcoal, shiny tracks and other tokens told of a child's play the night before the tragedy.

E. Pulford, who helped Mr. Lacy in the rescue of the nurse and the boy, was driving past the corner of Wilshire boulevard and New Hampshire avenue when the explosion took place. He brought his car to a stop directly opposite the home of Louis M. Cole, at the southeast corner of the intersection. He then ran into the back yard and there was joined by Mr. Lacy. He also told the police of hearing two distinct explosions.

The probable movements of the criminal or criminals just prior to the placing of the bombs were indicated by the story told to Detective Hamilton by Mrs. Willard Arnot, 640 South New Hampshire avenue. Her home adjoins the ill-fated Lawler residence on the south, and is separated from it by a narrow al ley.

Mrs. Arnot told the officer sh

FANATICS USE TWO BOMBS

Pieces of Six-inch Projectiles Found Amid Debris of Burned Home.

Measurements taken by Detective Sergeants Wood, Murphy, Jim Cline and James F. Bean, after the debris and charred remnants of the Lawler house and furniture were cleared away showed the following facts in connection with the location of the various marks made by the fragments of the bursting bombs:

The depression made in the concrete walk directly underneath the sleeping porch where Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were asleep is of a jagged oval shape, 18x19 inches. From the edge of the first east step to the edge of the depression is thirty-three inches. From the top of the first east step to the first brick chip right above, apparently caused by a bomb splinter, the distance is forty inches; to the second chip, just above, fifty-eight inches. There is another brick chip five inches to the west and sixty-five inches from the top of the step at the foot of which the bomb apparently was placed.

South of the brick wall, on the east step, there is a depression in the concrete ten inches wide and thirty inches away from the wall. On the third step from the south wall is a depression forty-one and one-half inches to the south end of the depression, which is twelve and one-half inches wide.

On the outer brick pillar there is a depression chip sixty inches from the top of the first step.

DISC BLOWN 152 FEET.

The distance from the center of the downward depression where the bomb rested to the wall in the Herman Buckhart home on Vermont avenue, which was hit by a disc, is 142 feet, 9 inches. The large disc, supposedly the top or bottom of the bomb, cut through three low hedges, and then through a board fence and into the brick wall. From the center of the place where the bomb rested to the first hedge the distance is 17 feet, 2 inches; the second hedge is distant from the first, 13 more feet; from the second to third hedge is 22 feet and 10 inches, and from the third hedge to the board fence is 23 feet. There a hole 5 inches wide and 19 inches from the ground was torn by the projectile. From this fence to the brick wall the distance is 66 feet 9 inches.

Dr. W. H. Kiger, of 647 South New Hampshire avenue, found the first piece of the bombs when he picked up the top of a 4-inch iron cap. Detectives Murphy, Woods, Bean, Cline, Patrolman Therkorn and Capt. E. H. Enos of the fire prevention and arson bureau of the fire department, and his assistant, George T. Price, found other pieces of the bombs.

When all the pieces were matched together it was shown that there were evidently two bombs used, each composed of 4-inch iron pipe, the ends closed with 4-inch caps. Through one of the ends two holes had been bored, indicating, the police say, that the bombs were exploded by means of a fuse.

SIX-INCH BOMBS.

Judging from the pieces of pipe picked up, the bombs were about 8 inches long, and were made of 4-inch iron nipples, which were 8 inches over all. An inch and a half of threads were found, which when screwed into the caps made the bombs approximately 6 inches long.

Bits of the Lombs were found on the southeastern corner lot of Vermont avenue and Wilshire boulevard, a distance of more than 1000 feet from the center of the explosion.

The distance from the top of the first step, where the bomb lay, to the first stringer under the sleeping porch is 13 feet 3 inches. It is considered remarkable that Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were not killed outright. The beds on which they slept crashed through the charred flooring.

ARE IDENTICAL.

The bombs reconstructed by the police from the fragments recovered in the vicinity are identical in type.

It was stated last night, with the mysterious bomb that was exploded with terrific force in the vicinity of Temple and Hoover streets on the night of December 13, 1917. The explosion was never completely solved, though Chief Home, then Captain of Detectives, reconstructed the bomb and made a satisfactory estimate of its formula.

What significance this similarity may have with the present theories of the crime the authorities did not explain, however.

A committee of explosive experts, including Dr. Julius Koebig, Frank Garbutt and William Mullholland, chief engineer of Los Angeles, began a study of the composition of the bombs yesterday. Nitroglycerine is now believed to have been the explosive element.

DIST.-ATTY. WOOLWINE SCORES FIENDS.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday issued the following statement denouncing the fiends in human form who perpetrated the outrage at the Lawler home:

It is difficult to find language by which to characterize the cowardly and dastardly outrage perpetrated upon Mr. Lawler and his family.

Assassins, dynamiters and anarchists are incited and encouraged in the commission of these crimes by the weak and vacillating attitude of officials, law officers and politicians throughout the United States.

Offenders of this nature should be handled with a mailed fist and an iron hand. They should be utterly crushed and should receive the extreme penalty allowed by law in every instance.

I trust my own attitude in relation to these fiends in human form does not require further comment.

SAYS WILSON WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE.

LYNCH THINKS M'ADOO, PALMER OR COX LIKELIEST DEMOCRAT CHOICE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—President Wilson will not be a candidate for a third term in the opinion of Frederick B. Lynch of Minnesota, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee.

"I do not believe President Wilson will run again," Mr. Lynch said. "While there is no opposition to him in the party, it is my belief that he does not want to run. He has had a tremendous responsibility and a great deal of hard work during the last six years and nobody will dispute his right to be relieved of the burden if he so desires.

"There are three men who figure largely in the present situation for the nomination. They are Mr. McAdoo, Attorney-General Palmer and Gov. Cox of Ohio. I would place Mr. McAdoo first. He probably has the strongest following in the party outside of the President. He would make a strong appeal to the liberal members of the party and is equally well known to the leaders and the people."

Hungarian Rush to Entente Force Delegates and Beg for Protection.

BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 3.—Bela Kun, deposed Hungarian soviet leader, has arrived in Vienna where he will be put in an internment camp, according to a dispatch from Vienna received here today.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—The supreme allied council sent a message yesterday to the Rumanian government requesting the army along the Theiss River to cease its advance into Hungary immediately. The world eagerly awaited further communication from the new Hungarian government at Budapest today.

The note, which the supreme council communicated to the new Hungarian government through the Entente mission in Budapest was friendly in tone, showing that the attitude on the part of the Peace conference is to assist the Hungarian people in an effort to create a stable government not in any sense be construed as a threat of violence against the new government. It is necessary, however, on the necessity for Hungary to comply with the terms of the armistice and disarmament.

Official circles confidence that the Rumanians will take the Hungarian capital with the will of the supreme council.

TERROR REIGN ENDS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—The dread and terror that had held Budapest in its grip since March have ended. Bela Kun and his fellow Bolshevists and members of the new government, which is composed of Socialists and Democrats, are perfecting details for the transfer of power.

Many of Kun's Bolshevist henchmen have fled without scruple to save their own skins, while they had been working for their lives, and appealed to Entente officers at Budapest to help the city asking protection for themselves and their wives and children. They have been told that they would be safe.

The world does not yet know of its downfall, though the news of it is spreading rapidly from dustrial warfare in the Middle West, some years ago, last night loomed as the possible motive for the destruction by explosives and gasoline of the home of Oscar Lawler, prominent lawyer and former Federal official, and the probable fatal burning of the man and his wife, as reported in a late edition of the Sunday Times.

The name of this ex-convict has been supplied to the police, and a nation-wide search by State, county, city and Federal officers was in progress last night in the hope of unearthing every clew that may give further information on this phase of the dastardly crime.

That Mr. Lawler received threatening letters in 1909 from sympathizers with Mexican revolutionists, who were arrested while he held the position of United States District Attorney here, became known yesterday. Despite a rigid investigation, the authors of the letters were not discovered.

In less than three hours after the two terrific explosions turned the beautiful home of the prominent attorney into a burning inferno and nearly claimed the lives of his wife and their 5-year-old son, Oscar Lawler, Jr., United States District Attorney O'Connor, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, Special Agent Keep of the Department of Justice and Chief of Police Home, and their deputies started the investigation that uncovered what may prove to be a clew to the criminal.

The most important of these was the discovery of the fragments of the two bombs used, together with the remnants of the two gasoline cans that furnished fuel for the flames that destroyed the house. These silent bits of evidence were found after practically every detective in the city was detailed by Chief Home to the task of searching the vicinity.

The bombs, according to the experts who made the primary investigation, were charged with nitroglycerin. They were constructed of four-inch steel pipe nipples, six inches long, standard threaded on both ends and screw capped. The explosive was fired by detonating caps sunk into the tops.

The bombs were placed directly under the sleeping porch, where Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were sleeping. The force of the detonation did not do much damage to the house, but the gasoline hurled by the bombs into every part of the house turned the entire structure into a burning volcano in less than two minutes.

THE HIGH SPOTS.

Aside from establishing the probable motive and the exact type of the bombs used, the first day's investigation brought out points that may have a great importance in reconstructing the crime.

Among these are the following:

That two, or probably three, men were used in the plot.

That the time of the explosion was a few minutes after 2:00 a.m.

That the bomb placers used an automobile in their escape from the vicinity, and that the crime was planned several days ago and probably postponed for a better opportunity to carry it out.

Statements by witnesses of the explosion and those who reported seeing and hearing the man or men just before and after the two explosions differed in many respects, and the police last night announced that many of the points believed at the present time to have a bearing on the case may have to be dismissed later on.

The stories of the neighbors, many of whom rushed to the rescue in their night clothes and succeeded in saving the lives of Oscar Lawler, Jr., 5 years old, and his nurse, Miss Bessie Mills, after Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were trapped in the bedroom on the second floor, furnish a dramatic account of the sudden tragedy.

Men and women prominent in the business and society circles of the city thronged the fashionable Wilshire district when the lightning-like spread of the flames lighted up the skies for miles around. The force of the explosion threw many persons for blocks around from their beds and jarred the furniture in many houses.

The first explosion came a minute or two after 2:30 a.m. It was followed in less than a minute, according to the latest reports, by another one, and the burst of flames. Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were on the sleeping porch directly over the pergola entrance where the bombs were placed. Oscar, Jr., and his nurse were asleep on the back porch on the second floor.

HURLED FROM BEDS.

So strong was the force of the explosion directly underneath that the two intended victims were hurled from their beds onto the floor, which in less than a minute was burning fiercely. Dazed, blinded by the smoke and scorched by the heat that was forcing itself into the room before they realized what had happened, Mr. and Mrs. Lawler groped to their feet and sought the door.

The first thought of the mother and father was the safety of their little son. As they swung open the door leading into the hall toward the back porch, the flames that had eaten their way to the second floor swept into the room and drove both victims back into the room.

With a cry of anguish, the mother for the second time attempted to reach her son, but fainted from the heat and smoke.

As her limp body fell to the floor, Mr. Lawler, according to his story to the surgeons at the Receiving Hospital, lifted it up and rushed toward his only chance for escape—the three windows fronting New Hampshire avenue. It was a twenty-foot drop, but the only chance for life.

Reaching far out of the window, and with the flames now licking his body from beneath, Mr. Lawler managed to lower his wife out of the window until she had but a short drop to the awning below. The roaring flame below furnished a ghastly illumination as the man battled against the tortures of mind and body.

Mrs. Lawler dropped to the awning and from there to the walk, about ten more feet. Then Mr. Lawler was seen to whirl and dash back into the room.

"I tried to save my baby, tried to reach him, but the fire was too hot and the roof was falling in," he later sobbed out while the police ambulance was rushing him to the hospital.

JUMPS FROM WINDOW.

Less than a minute later Mr. Lawler again appeared in the front window. With the scorching flames burning great patches in his shoulders, head and arms, Mr. Lawler dove from the window, head first. How he escaped a fractured skull is a miracle to the physicians. Then his twisting body rolled over toward Mrs. Lawler, on the walk in front of the house.

Marco Hellman, who was running from his home, two blocks west, on Wilshire boulevard, carried Mrs. Lawler into the home of Dr. W. H. Kiger, 647 South New Hampshire avenue, and then ran after Mr. Lawler. Both were given emergency treatment by Dr. Kiger and those who gathered in the house. By this time the house was a solid pillar of fire.

Once inside the house of Dr. and Mrs. Kiger, Mrs. Lawler was laid on the couch, but Mr. Lawler refused to be comforted. He paced the floor, a ghastly figure of blackish-brown from the burns and the red of the blistered flesh. His night dress was clinging to him in spots only.

"Oh, God, oh, God, any man that could do a thing like that," he moaned as he loudly called for his children. At first it was feared that Charles Lawler, 17 years old, and Lady Jane, 16 years old, were in the house when the explosion occured, and the anguishing moans of the mother and the helpless revolt of the father drove many outside the house to rush madly around the burning structure in an effort to do something to help them.

BOY IS SAFE.

Suddenly there was a commotion at the door. There was a shriek of joy that rang out above the clanging of the fire engines and the chilling sparkling of the fire. A tall man, carrying a curly-headed boy of 5, snugly in his arms, pushed his way into the house and cried, "Oscar, Oscar, the boy is safe."

With a roar like a wounded lion the man who has held many juries and courts spellbound by his eloquence and mentality rushed forward. He caught sight of the child and came to a dead stop. His burned arms shot upward. He stood and trembled, "Oh, thank God, now I can die," was all that this mighty suffering man could say. Then he collapsed.

The rescue of the child and his nurse was fully as dramatic as the futile attempt on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Lawler to reach them through the burning building.

After the first explosion, William Lacy, of 3200 Wilshire boulevard, rushed toward the burning building. Another man, whose name was reported to the police as E. Pulford, of 1476 West Twenty-third street, stopped the automobile he was driving at the time of the explosion, and rushed into the yard. He and Mr. Lacy then made their way toward the rear of the house, where the nurse and the child, trapped on the second story, were calling for help.

The men were joined by George Knight of the Nick Harris detectives. They found a ladder and stood it up against the burning building. They climbed up, tore the wire screen, and lifted the child and nurse through the small opening.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lawler were placed in the police ambulance they were beginning to shiver from the effects of their injuries. Police Nurse Priester, Mr. Hellman, and a newspaper reporter helped carry the victims into the ambulance, which rushed them to the Receiving Hospital, where Assistant Police Surgeon Zorb was ready to give emergency treatment.

INQUIRES FOR CHILDREN.

On the way to the hospital, Mrs. Lawler showed a little gain in spirits in spite of her terrible sufferings. She asked that Mr. Lawler be taken care of and covered with something warm.

"Oh, thank God, my children are safe," was all the attorney could say. "Now I can die happy," he kept on repeating.

When on the Receiving Hospital tables, both victims showed great fortitude. Mrs. Lawler was cared for by Police Nurse Betsie Ahearn and Dr. Zorb, and later both victims were treated by Drs. Thomas C. Myers, Edward Cook and several others, friends of the family.

While Mr. Lawler was being swathed in bandages that completely covered his body, he caught sight of Mr. Lacy.

"Will," he pleaded, "you tell me the truth, I'll believe you if you tell me; are my children safe?"

He was assured that they were, and from that moment relaxed, only to be seized with violent pains, which in the moments of anxiety over his children he had totally forgotten.

Charles and Lady Jane Lawler, the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Lawler, arrived in Los Angeles late last night after an all-day ride from the summer home of Dan Murphy at Pebble Beach, five miles from Monterey. They spent the night at the Murphy home.

TELL OF FIRE AND BLAST.

heard footsteps in the alley about three or four minutes before the explosion. She at first thought they were from the watchman who was known to be patrolling the neighborhood. She was about to speak to the man and ask him not to make so much noise, when the footsteps died away. Her impression was that the man had walked around the north end of the Lawler residence, passed through the little gate on that side, and entered the yard from back of the sleeping porch. From there, the police believe, the man or men, walked toward the stone steps in front of the French doors and placed the explosives and gasoline.

One of the most important statements obtained by the police came from Mrs. Katherine Echardt, who lives in the home of Mrs. Arnot. She told the detectives she was returning home about 10 o'clock Friday night, and saw three men standing near the alley that separates her home from the Lawler residence. The men were standing under the trees on the west side of the street, and were careful to hide themselves as much as possible, she said. They walked away when she looked toward them and she was not able to obtain any description. The conversation was carried on in low voices, she said, and had the appearance of being an earnest discussion of something they were not able to decide.

AFFORDS EASY ESCAPE.

The location indicated by this witness is the one in which the automobile believed to have been used in the escape of the assassin was reported parked. It is an ideal place for such a plot, as it leads into an alley that runs into another alley, and give the driver a choice of three directions for emergency use. Immediately after the statements of the few witnesses indicated the importance of this location, Chief of Police Home placed uniformed policemen to watch the alley and keep out all traffic.

Bradner W. Lee, Jr., of 690 South Berendo street, placed the time of the explosion exactly at 2:20 a.m. He said he heard the detonation and immediately looked at his watch. He heard two distinct explosions, both sharp and terrific, but did not hear the third, low-rumbling reported by some of the earlier witnesses.

His mother, Mrs. Bradner W. Lee, said she heard the first explosion, and at once looked out of the window. She saw the glare and said the second explosion followed shortly. She added some important knowledge to the police information when she told of seeing a roadster driven swiftly away from the scene of the crime, traveling south on Berendo street. The car was moving at such great speed that Mrs. Lee was unable to note how many persons were inside. She remarked immediately afterward she thought it strange that an automobile should be driving away from an explosion like that a such a time in the night.

Capt. Enos of the fire department and his assistants helped the police in clearing the scene of the wreck. They took photographs of the important points in the demolished structure, and later found that the gas heater in the basement, where some trouble was reported the day before, was intact, and not at all damaged.

The gas explosion theory was abandoned by the police, shortly after they began their investigation. Mr. Lawler, after being removed to St. Vincent's Hospital, told the detectives the trouble in the gas pipes was fixed the day before, and that he personally inspected the repair job and found it complete.

Max Tyron, a chauffeur employed at 619 South New Hampshire avenue, told Detective R. S. Hamilton he heard several persons talking as they passed near the garage, about a half block away from the Lawler house. He could not hear what was said, nor did he see the persons. The time fixed by him in a general way dovetails with the time given by other witnesses, who reported having noticed some prowlers around the blocks.

The theory that more than one person was involved in the crime was strengthened by the statement of Judson Turman, another chauffeur, of 643 South New Hampshire avenue. He told Detective Hamilton he heard voices in the alley that runs between his garage and the home of Dr. Kiger, directly opposite the Lawler home. It was in this alley that some of the reports to the police fixed the mystery automobile.

SEES PILLAR OF FIRE.

The story of the sudden blast and a pillar of flame was further corroborated by Farrand Knox, 15 years old, of 525 South Kenmore avenue. When he heard the explosion he looked out of the window, and saw a pillar of fire rise and remain above the doomed home for about five minutes.

According to a statement by Mr. Turman, the time of the appearance of the men in the vicinity was about 1:30 a.m., about an hour before the explosion.

DESCRIPTION OF BOMB SUSPECT.

Police Hunt Slenderly Built Man Who Fled in Dark Touring Car.

The only available description of the suspect, or one of the suspects in the Lawler case, furnished to the police yesterday is as follows:

Height—5 feet 7 inches.

Slenderly built.

Wore a light suit.

Was seen to jump into a dark touring car, which looked like a Cadillac.

Another automobile, a dark green Hupmobile roadster, is reported as having figured in the crime. This, the police are unable to confirm.

Another clew in this direction was furnished to the police by W. G. Hanson, general manager of the Nick Harris dectectives. He told the detectives of being informed by children, whose names are to be supplied to the police, of a man who was seen to drive a roadster to a point near Third and Mariposa streets shortly after the explosion, and stopped to make a tire change. The man appeared very nervous, and in a hurry to get away.

As reported by the com- ttee, in view of such great interest to ers in that it is here given ose that to provide employment ortunities for those who have ed in the military or naval ce of the United States during ar between the United States rmany and her allies ers honorably separated or ged therefrom, or placed in the army reserve, and for- citizens who serve honorably separated from the military or navy of any of the nations with the Central Powers been repatriated, all ons hereafter referred to s there is hereby estab- fund in the treasury to be known as the "National Soldier Settlement Fund," hereinafter referred to as the "fund," to be administered by the Secretary of the Interior, hereinafter referred to as the "secretary," for the purpose herein stated and as hereinafter provided:

OBJECTORS BARRED.

Provided, that the rights and benefits conferred by this act shall not extend to any person who, having been drafted for military service under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, shall have refused to render military service or to wear the uniform of a soldier of the United States.

Section 2. That the Secretary is authorized to use the fund for the purpose of this act. He may acquire by gift, purchase, deed in trust, or otherwise, the necessary land for soldiers' settlement projects, hereinafter referred to as "projects," and may utilize and dispose of by contract, deed or patent, public lands suitable for such purposes.

No projects shall be finally selected and no lands shall be acquired, however, unless the price to be paid and the conditions under which they are to be acquired shall be approved by (A) a representative of the Governor of the State in which the lands are located; (B) an appraiser designated by the Federal Farm Loan Board; and (C) the Secretary:

Provided, that, if the Governor or his representative shall fail to act, then the land commissioner, or the person performing the function of land commissioner in such State may act in his stead.

SELECTION OF LANDS.

Projects shall be selected with a view to the development of one or more projects in each of the several States in which feasible projects may be found; prohibited, that the secretary, with the approval of the President, may withdraw such public lands as may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this act.

Section 3. That the Secretary is authorized through such agencies as he may provide to engage in such undertakings and do and perform such work, in his opinion, as is necessary for the permanent development of the lands of projects and when he deems essential to place them in condition for use and cultivation, including the building of essential public roads.

TO EMPLOY SOLDIERS.

The Secretary shall, as far as possible, utilize the services of soldiers in administrative and other work for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

The secretary may also, through agreement with soldiers, make provision for necessary improvements, but the contribution from the fund shall in no single case exceed $1500, nor in excess of three-quarters of the cost or value of the improvements.

Section 4. That the lands of projects shall be subdivided into farms suitable for the support of a family and, in the discretion of the secretary, into smaller farm workers' tracts. Dedication of tracts may be made for community and other public purposes. Town sites suitable for the purpose of the project may be established, developed and sold for the benefit of the project under such rules and regulations as the secretary may prescribe.

Section 5. That soldiers who are not the owners or proprietors of farms or rural homes shall be eligible as purchasers of a farm or farm worker's tract. Preference shall be given to those who have been employed and rendered substantial service in the development of any such project, and as between applicants with a view of safeguarding the settler and the United States, so far as practicable, against loss or failure. The secretary shall make regulations general in character or applicable to specific projects as to residence or cultivation with a view of carrying out the purpose of making the soldier settlements the permanent home of the soldier purchasers.

PLAN OF PAYMENT.

Section 6. That sale price shall be fixed with a view of repaying the total cost of each project, and the price fixed for each farm, tract or lot shall represent as nearly as practicable its selling value, compared with the other units of the project, the aggregate not to exceed the total cost of the project. Approved applicants shall at the time of entering into contract of purchase make a first payment of 5 per cent of the sale price. The balance shall be paid in amortizing payments extending over a period to be fixed by the Secretary, not to exceed forty years. Sums advanced for improvements shall be repaid in amortizing payments extending over a period to be fixed by the Secretary, not to exceed ten years. All amortizing payments shall bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent, per annum, payable annually, computed from date of contract. The contracts for the sale of farms, tracts and lots shall provide for cancellations and forfeitures of payments may be made under the contract for failure to comply therewith.

Section 7. Patents or deeds to project lands issued within five years from the date of one tract of sale shall contain the condition that no transfer, assignment, mortgage or lease made during that period shall be valid without the approval of the Secretary, and no transfer, assignment, mortgage or lease of any right, title or interest held under a contract of sale shall be valid at any time without the approval of the Secretary.

The Secretary shall make all necessary regulations for the carrying out of the provisions and purposes of this act and for safeguarding the interests of the settler and of the United States, and is authorized to issue patents or deeds for the lands embraced in farms, tracts and lots within projects.

Every patent issued under this act shall expressly reserve to the United States a prior lien on the land patented superior to all other liens, claims or demands whatsoever, for the payment of all sums due or to become due to the United States, or its successors in connection with such lands under any project provided for in this act.

Except as herein otherwise provided, no lands acquired under the provisions of this act shall in any event become liable to the satisfaction of any debt contracted prior to the issuing of the patent therefor, provided, however, that such exemption shall not exceed a period of ten years from the date of the contract of purchase.

TAXATION LIMITED.

Lands acquired pursuant to this act shall be subject to State, county, municipal and local taxation and assessment, after a period of five years from the date of the execution of the contract of purchase in proportion as the amount paid bears to the purchase price. If the purchaser shall fail to pay such taxes or assessments, the same may be paid from the fund hereby authorized and charged to the purchaser, with interest at the rate provided by law for delinquent taxes in the State in which the land is located, and shall be a lien on the property assessed.

Section 8. That the Secretary is also authorized to make short-time loans from the fund, not to exceed $1200 in the aggregate, to a soldier settler for the purchase of necessary live stock and equipment and provision shall be made for the repayment of such loans during a period not to exceed five years, with interest on deferred payments at 4 per cent. per annum, payable annually, computed from date of [illegible] provided, that no such loans shall exceed 75 per cent. of the cost of the live stock and 60 per cent. of the cost of the equipment purchased; provided further, that in case of emergency the secretary, in his discretion, may postpone the payment of any installment due and may also make additional loans, but exceeding two-thirds of the amount of the soldier's cash investment in his farm, tract or lot; such additional loans to bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, payable annually.

STATE CO-OPERATION.

Section 9. That whenever any State shall provide funds to be expended in co-operation with the United States to provide rural homes for soldiers, the Secretary shall have authority to enter into contracts for such co-operation, and when the State shall furnish not less than 25 per cent. of the necessary funds the Secretary may authorize the State, subject to his general supervision, to carry on the selection, acquisition or subdivision of the land, improvement of farms and the aid and direction of development after settlement. The Secretary is authorized to provide for reimbursement of funds so advanced by or to the State and may also co-operate with other agencies to the extent he may deem advisable and likewise provide for reimbursement to them of funds advanced.

Section 10. Expenditures for carrying out the purposes of this act shall be made out of appropriations made annually by the Congress therefor, and the Secretary of the Interior shall, after, submit to the Congress estimates of the amount necessary to be expended for carrying out any or all of the purposes authorized by this act, for which purposes the sum of $000,000 is hereby authorized to be appropriated.

Section 11. That the Secretary of the Interior shall make full report of his proceedings under this act to the Congress on the first Monday of December of each year.

CHICAGO "RED LILY" TOO HANDY WITH PEN.

SOUL EXPOSURE IN LETTERS IS MATERIAL WHICH WINS A DIVORCE FOR HUBBY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—In the "Red Lilly" Anatole France wrote of Therese Martin as a woman whose emotions and morals were swayed by many men.

Chicago has produced a living prototype of the "Red Lily." She is Mrs. Emily Gilbert, whose written confession of over-fondness for other men won her husband, Frank Webster Gilbert, a divorce, from Superior Court Judge Hopkins.

The love letter, dated November 18, 1918, opened with the inscription, "In a sentimental mood," and reads:

"Oh, to sit and write endlessly. If only I had the gift of writing as I long to, to express for once my true thoughts and send them to some one who understands and cares.

"Why has my life been so strange? At 22 I find myself old in knowledge of life. Of love I barely know its meaning. I am more worldly wise than many women twice my age. Why?

"I have asked myself that question countless times. Is it the payment of some folly of my childhood? Or is it a trait imbedded in my nature from some ancestor? I have gone the pace, and one that few girls have gone.

"Liquor or cigarettes have not held charms for me. But, men! My mind seems obsessed with a desire for men. One is not enough. I must know the love, companionship, and—yes, too—the hate and anger of more than one man. There have been many men in my life, but never have I found one with whom I would be content to go on with—alone.

"Will it ever come—that wonderful love and beatific contentment I have so often read and heard of? What an exquisite, peaceful thing it must be to possess and be possessed and cherished by one alone! I pray that some day I may know it, to get away from this world of hectic uncertainties.

"My life has vacillated between one sin or the other for five years. One day I would be in the most radiant of heavens, the next in the blackest of hells. And all on account of a man. I gave myself to a man; had a child by him, and still he looked on in amazement and sought not to gain my love by love and kindness, but life.

"Now, a new man has come into my life. A few words we spoke gave me more happiness than I have had for years. I am about to make a new venture with him, and I hope and pray it will be successful."

The foregoing letter was written when Gilbert was serving with the American army in France. On his return, his wife wrote:

"Man o'mine—daddy dear, I'm weak and admit it. I guess after all you are the only one for me. I have tried in vain to hate you, talked against you, but tonight when you called me and I heard your voice it all came back.

"Now, I know I love you. I talked about you at our home, trying to make myself believe I hated you, but all the time my heart was aching and breaking for you. I long for your embraces. The touch of your lips once more, and a pure, clean, sweet love.

"YOUR WIFE."

Gilbert said he believed his wife's professions of love, and resumed living with her. At the end of ten days he learned his wife was untrue.

LONE CAMPER FOUND SLAIN.

JAPANESE PRESS CONDEMNS CHINA

Refusal of Delegates to Sign is Cause of Comment.

Asks if "Young Turks" are not Ruining Country.

Says She Must Settle All of Questions with Japan.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—A review of the Japanese press comment on the refusal of the Chinese delegates at Paris to sign the German peace treaty was received here today. There is general condemnation of China's conduct, and one newspaper, the influential Yorodzn, asks if the "Young Turks" of China are not ruining their country. It says:

"The Chinese government is in consternation as its delegates have refused to sign the peace treaty. The government has no sufficient authority over the delegates, and if it attempts to carry out its policy it will be difficult for it to maintain its position. The present condition of China deserves sympathy in every respect. European seed and 'Young Turks' have ruined Turkey; will not the occidentalized young men of China ruin her? The position of a nation must necessarily be perilous if its leaders are of the ambition of promoting their selfish interests without taking steps to stabilize the foundation of the country.

"We do not like the misdirected resentment of the Chinese, and for the time being shall simply watch the course of events in China."

MUST SETTLE WITH JAPAN.

China, says the Nichi Nichi, must settle with Japan all questions affecting Japan, and adds that China may become the Turkey of the Orient, and that China's political course may lead to intervention by the powers. The Nichi Nichi says:

"China is at liberty to take whatever action she likes, and we need not interfere with her. When considered from the standpoint of expediency and of the peace of the Orient, however, China's determination not to sign the peace treaty is a matter for deep concern. The treaty has been signed by all the countries excluding China, and takes effect simultaneously with the deposit of ratifications.

"The signatory countries include Germany, and therefore, China's action cannot affect the treaty already concluded between Japan, Germany and other countries. Whatever treaties may be concluded between China and Germany, they cannot have a binding force on the rights and interests in China, which have been abandoned by Germany. China must settle all questions affecting Japan with this country.

ACTION IS REGRETTED.

"It is very clear that China cannot place herself in any advantageous position in regard to Japan by refusing to sign the peace treaty, and therefore her refusal is a matter of no concern to Japan. It is to be regretted, however, that as China's refusal is due to anti-Japanese sentiment, future negotiations between Japan and China will become more difficult, thus causing an obstacle to the promotion of peace in the Orient.

"China has been twice advised by the powers to promote the reconciliation of the north and south, but she has not yet taken any special steps to that end. The internal situation of China is going from bad to worse; revolutionary elements are increasingly in evidence and the situation is becoming so bad that joint interference by the powers may be unavoidable. At such a juncture, China proposes to separate from the powers, to antagonize Japan, the protagonist of the peace of the Orient, and to conclude a separate peace with Germany. How can this be a good policy for China, which must depend on the assistance of the powers for the task of promoting peace among her people?"

WONDERFUL results from a course of physical training and deep breathing exercises under skilled experts at Arrowhead Springs.

EARTHQUAKE HITS PACIFIC FLEET.

Flagship New Mexico Reels with the Shock and Fear of Striking a Reef is Entertained but Admiral Rodman Soon Locates the Trouble.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

ON BOARD U.S.S. NEW MEXICO, Saturday, Aug. 2.—Six dreadnaughts of the Pacific Fleet were shaken severely by a double earthquake at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon, twenty miles off the coast of Colima, Mex. None of the warships reported any damage.

The New Mexico trembled from bow to stern as if she had struck an uncharted reef and the navigating officer sounded "collision quarters" on the flagship's siren. Sailors in the foretop said the basket masts of the warships swayed like poplar trees in a gale.

Officers in the quarterdeck hurried to their posts and the crew and marines took their places. Meanwhile all water-tight compartments in the New Mexico were closed and inspection parties were sent into the holds to see if there had been any damage to the hull. Admiral Hugh Rodman, commanding the fleet, quickly recognized the cause of the disturbance.

"It's an earthquake," he said. "We are right off the coast of Colima, where there are many earthquakes." Then he ordered: "Signal all ships in the fleet and see if they felt any excessive vibration."

Wireless telephone messages were received soon from the five other dreadnaughts reporting they felt the shocks. The Mississippi, which was farther off shore, reported heavy vibrations.

When the first tremor of the ship was felt those below hurried on deck. The faces of some of the recruits showed alarm, while the flagship rolled and pitched in the heavy swells that followed the shocks.

Admiral Rodman kept the crew at quarters for fifteen minutes and then ordered the "secure signal" to be sounded. He took the whole incident as if it were matter of routine, giving his orders quietly on the quarterdeck.

One of the officers reported that he believed the earthquake came from an old crater in the Sierra Mountains, which fringe the coast line near here.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. — The double earthquake shock which a dispatch today from the battleship New Mexico said severely shook the six dreadnaughts of the Pacific fleet late Saturday off the Mexican coast was not recorded by the seismograph at Georgetown University.

The shock, it was said, undoubtedly was due to a tidal wave which may have had its origin in volcanic action of some kind on the bed of the Pacific Ocean, a heavy wind or a minor tremor in the vicinity of the battleships.

CHICAGO SITUATION QUIET.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Adjutant-General Frank S. Dickson of Illinois, and Chief of Police Garrity were entirely satisfied with conditions in the race riot zones today, they said. The militia and police continued to maintain order with only a few minor disturbances, and Chief Garrity said he believed the danger of further rioting was ended.

With the exception of an attack on Capt. A. R. Wahrheim, G Company, Fourth Reserve Militia, who was fired on and stabbed by three negroes, and the forming of a white mob in the stockyards district early this morning, no outbreak of consequence had occurred since Thursday. The captain will recover, it is said.

Six hundred whites were dispersed only after a machine gun mounted on an automobile had appeared and militiamen with fixed bayonets had prepared to charge them.

While police are slowly being withdrawn from the negro district today the Sheriff was swearing in former soldiers as special deputies and expected to have between 1000 and 2000 on duty in the riot zones tomorrow.

It has been decided that negroes will not be re-employed at the stockyards until ill feeling between whites and blacks has fully subsided.

The fire which early yesterday burned six blocks of white homes west of the stockyards and which many of the residents blamed upon the negroes aggravated the feeling of bitterness.

The August grand jury will be sworn in tomorrow for investigation of the riots and the fire. At least twenty witnesses have declared negroes who appeared in automobiles started the fire.

Sergt. E. W. Gropp of the Eleventh Regiment, Reserve Militia, was killed tonight by the accidental discharge of a machine gun mounted on an automobile.

Several members of the Third Reserve Militia will face court-martial tomorrow for failure to obey orders while on active duty. The details of the charges were not made public.

PIKE'S PEAK SUMMIT IS CIRCLED BY PLANE.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED WHEN A PLANE FAILS TO RISE AND CRASHES INTO CROWD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Aug. 3.—Lieut. Alex Lendrum of Colorado Springs, in a Curtiss Oriole biplane, circled the summit of Pike's Peak this morning, reaching an altitude of 14,200 feet. He was accompanied by Ira J. Humphreys of Denver and L. L. Law Sipple, a motion-picture photographer, who filmed scenes of the summit and of the Pike's Peak region. The flight was the first ever made to the crest of the mountain.

AMES (Iowa) Aug. 3.—A little girl was killed and another may die from injuries received when an airplane piloted by Lieut. Walter Harriman of this city failed to rise on the take-off and crashed into a crowd of spectators here this afternoon.

The throat of the 7-year-old daughter of H. G. Amlund of Story City was cut by barbed wire when the plane plunged through the fence and she died almost instantly. Her 6-year-old cousin, the daughter of L. J. Mathres of Story City, was so badly cut by the wire, she is not expected to live. The fathers of both girls, who were standing beside them, escaped uninjured.

SHOUP'S COUSIN IS BADLY HURT IN WRECK

FORTY PERSONS INJURED WHEN CARS OF PENINSULA ROAD HAVE HEAD-ON CRASH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, Aug. 3.—Forty or more persons were injured, several seriously, in a head-on crash of two cars of the Peninsula Railway, nine miles from here, at 11:30 o'clock today.

A small car laden with picnickers bound from San Jose to Congress Springs was thrown on end by a car twice as big, that swept down a grade at a curve.

E. G. Shoup, superintendent and traffic manager of the Peninsula Railway, cousin of Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific and president of the Pacific Electric Railway, was said to be piloting the small outbound car. He had been riding in the vestibule and was reported to have relieved the motorman a short time before the crash occurred. He was caught in the wreckage and his left leg so badly crushed that it was amputated below the knee.

Motorman William Cotter of car No. 51, the smaller of the two in the crash, jumped when the impact came, and later assisted in rescuing the struggling mass of fifty-three women, children and men who piled in the lower end of the car. John Marcum, conductor of No. 51, was badly bruised, but assisted in the rescue.

AMAZING CROOK NABBED AGAIN.

CARL DU VEY, BIGAMIST, FORGER, LANDED WHILE DRUNK. RECENTLY OUT OF JAIL.

Carl Du Vey, one of the most picturesque criminals in local police annals, whose crimes range from cracking safes to breaking women's hearts, he having been accused of bigamy, grand larceny, bank robbery, forgery, robbery, and for whom the local police department has been on the lookout for the last three months, following his escape from the Arizona penitentiary, where he was serving a seven-year term for grand larceny, was last night taken into custody when Detective Sergeants Harris and Jarvis answered an emergency call to 740 Gladys avenue, where it was said a man had shot a woman and had barricaded himself in a room.

When the officers arrived they found the woman had not been shot and that the man who was alleged to have fired at her was lying drunk on a bed. When Detective Harris entered the room he recognized the man as Du Vey. When searched at Central Station a checkbook bearing the name of R. E. Wilkins, showing an account of $3500 in the Security Savings Bank, was found on him. He also had in his possession a police badge of the San Diego force, and a .32 caliber revolver.

The amasing matrimonial ventures of Du Vey, who has earned the reputation of being California's master crook, was revealed at the trial of one of his wives, Elizabeth Du Vey, who secured a divorce from him while he was serving a sentence in San Quentin on forgery charges. It was shown that Du Vey was thought to have three other wives. These charges were later proven to be but a subterfuge for Du Vey to escape being sent back to Arizona as a parole violator. He caused considerable notoriety when, in a statement to Warden Smith of San Quentin, he said that a Los Angeles detective and the head of a nationally known detective agency had "framed" him to plead guilty to forging two $11,000 checks on the First National Bank of Long Beach. Shortly after this confession Du Vey was pardoned from San Quentin and transferred to Arizona to finish his sentence of seven years. At the same time two men named Benkert and Flood were arrested on the same forgery charges, it being stated that they were the ones who forged the checks on the Long Beach bank. Flood subquently confessed to the charges and implicated Benkert. Both men were later found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary.

Immediately following his escape, the Arizona authorities telegraphed the Los Angeles police, it being thought that he would return to this city. A week later information was received at the Detective Bureau that Duvey had been seen in town and all officers were notified to be on the watch for him.

A wire was last night sent to the penitentiary at Florence and an officer will arrive tomorrow to take him back. An investigation of his activities since his latest visit to Los Angeles, it is believed, by the police, will show that he has committed several of the smaller safe-cracking jobs which have been reported lately, as well as some of the robberies.

SWISS TROOPS QUELL RI

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA, Saturday, Aug. 2.—Troops sent by the government to quell strike riots at Basle and Zurich were forced to use machine guns on automobiles during the disorders yesterday. The strikers ripped up the pavements and bombarded the troops, injuring a number of strikers were killed and wounded and many were arrested.

At Basle the outbreak was said to be of a Bolshevik character, while at Zurich the disorders were attributed to the increasing cost of living. Newspapers have ceased publication and tramways have ceased running at Basle. Operation of the gas and electric services has been resumed. The militia is guarding all banks and factories.

About Ice

THE delivery of ice is handled by all of the companies in practically the same manner, at the present time. Before the organization of The Ice Distributing Company, the American Refrigerating Company and the Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company delivered exclusively through the Coupon System, but it was abandoned because many people objected to it.

Ice is now sold either for cash on delivery or monthly charge account, the amount of each delivery being entered on a score card which is hung near the ice box. This score card is evidence of the amount claimed by the driver to be delivered, and must check with the bill presented at the end of each month.

Under the coupon system the drivers were allowed to serve only such customers as had books, and in no case were they allowed to sell for cash. The system was designed to prevent dishonest drivers from short-weighting their customers, because if they did so and sold such ice to another customer for cash, such cash sale was evidence of dishonesty.

Right here let me say that all ice drivers are not dishonest.

They are no different than people in other walks of life where like opportunities present themselves.

The Coupon System is in almost universal use east of the Rocky Mountains, and it would be of great benefit to both consumers and companies if all of the Los Angeles companies would adopt it.

TO HEAR TRADE BOYCOTT CLAIM.

Federal Commission to Begin Session Here Soon.

Unfair Methods to Stifle Competition, is Charge.

Based on Alleged Nonsale of Sugar to Jobber Here.

Hearing by representatives of the Federal Trade Commission of a complaint against certain Los Angeles jobbers, alleging unfair competition, will begin at the Federal building at 10 a.m., August 11, in the courtroom of United States District Judge Bledsoe.

The examination will be before Carl E. Reinhauer, and the Federal Trade Commission will be represented by its attorney and examiner, Joseph A. Burdeau, of Washington, D. C., who has been sent here for the hearing, and attorney and examiner, D. N. Dunlavy, of San Francisco, who will take the preliminary examination for the commission.

The style of the hearing is the Federal Trade Commission against the Western Sugar Refining Company, California-Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company, Haas-Baruch & Co., Boston-Barret Company, R. Dollar & Co., M. A. Newmark & Co., United Wholesale Grocery Company, Channel Commercial Company, California Wholesale Grocery Company, the C. E. Cumberson Company, the Colbert Company, Flint & Boynton, Franz, Cunningham & Co., Hamilton & Menderson, Henderson & Osborn, Holmes-Danforth-Creighton Company, Johnson, Carvell & Murphy, Kelley-Clarke Company, Laukota-Garriott Company, D. A. Mcneil & Son Company, Maillaird & Schmeidell, Cosmo Morgan Company, Parrott & Co., Bradley-Kuhl Company, Spohn-Cook Company, J. H. Stewart Company, J. K. Armsby Company and the Schiff-Lang Company.

It is claimed that the Federal Trade Commission has reason to believe, from a preliminary investigation, that the deefndants are using unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce in violation of the provisions of section 5 of an act approved September 26, 1914.

It is further set out that the Los Angeles Grocery Company is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of California, with its principal place of business in Los Angeles, and is engaged in buying and selling in wholesale quantities and in the usual course of wholesale trade, groceries and food products, and that in the course of such business it purchase commodities dealt in by it in the various States and Territories of the United States, and transports the same through other States and Territories to Los Angeles, where such articles are sold in the usual course of trade.

It is charged that the Western Sugar Refining Company and the California-Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company are each engaged in the business of manufacturing cane sugar, but that for the purpose of stifling and suppressing competition in the interstate sale of sugar in wholesale quantities, and, pursuant to the demands of the other respondents, has failed and refused to sell its manufactured product to the Los Angeles Grocery Company.

It is further charged that other respondents have conspired to stifle and suppress competition in the sale of grocery products at wholesale by preventing the Los Angeles Grocery Company from obtaining commodities dealt in by it from manufacturers and manufacturers' agents and from other usual sources; that manufacturers were informed by the defendants that if they sold their products to the Los Angeles Grocery Company the respondents would not thereafter purchase any of the products of said manufacturers, but that a boycott would be put into force.

Certain other of the respondents are members of the Southern California Association of Manufacturers' Representatives and it is alleged that they have permitted other respondents to intimidate them by threats of a boycott of the products sold by them if the same were also sold to the Los Angeles Grocery Company, and, as a result of such intimidation, refuse to sell their products to the Los Angeles Grocery Company, with intent to stifle and suppress competition in the sale of grocery and food products at wholesale in this community.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The fight in the American Senate for ratification of the Franco-American guarantee treaty is being followed here with the closest interest, especially since it is realized as a result of the communication of certain documents to the Chamber's peace commission that the Senate's refusal to ratify may have a decisive influence on French politics generally and on Premier Clemenceau's position in particular.

These documents consist of two letters from Marshal Foch, pointing out the minimum requirements for France's safety against German aggression, which he wished inserted in the peace treaty, and also a memorandum in reply from M. Clemenceau himself agreeing with Foch's arguments and the necessity for the proposed measures. The correspondent learned some time ago from military sources that Marshal Foch's demands represented not only his own opinion, but the conscientious views of leading French war chiefs, and it also was said that the marshal insisted on the importance of maintaining on the Rhine an American force considerably larger than the 7000 or 8000 men now staying there.

These clauses were not, however, included in the peace treaty, owing to the objections raised in the council of the big four, but the anxiety of Foch and Clemenceau was allayed by the Franco-Anglo-American guarantee treaty, which virtually was compensation for their absence. In public and before the French peace commission Clemenceau has maintained this viewpoint in reply to criticisms that the peace treaty and League of Nations did not afford France sufficient protection. In fact, a guarantee treaty has become the principal plank in his defense of his conduct of negotiations.

The Premier's opponents have been quick to see the effect that may be caused in the country by American refusal to ratify the guarantee treaty, and it is said that the peace commission has decided to publish Marshal Foch's letters and Clemenceau's memorandum also immediately. His supporters on the commission vainly opposed this course, realizing as they did that should the treaty fail to be ratified in America the Premier would stand condemned by the highest expert of military operations and out of his own mouth as well.

Battles for Pennants in Coast and Major Leagues Continue to Be Very War

ANGELS STILL IN LEAD.

Split Even with Portland and Vernon Does Same Up North.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Los Angeles broke even with Portland here, while Vernon was doing the same thing with Oakland. This leaves the situation as it was on Saturday night, with the Angels in possession of their newly-regained lead by a game and a fraction.

It took the Angels ten innings to win in the morning, 7 to 6, and eleven innings to lose, 3 to 1, in the afternoon. Nothing is easy for the Angels. It is hard for them to win and hard for them to lose. But they are harder losers than they are winners, because it took them one more inning to do it.

MANY MAGNATES.

Sitting side by each, and with only a board partition separating them, President Powers, President Arbuckle and President Ewing, followed the ebb and flow of the pastimes here and north. Had the Portland president been present the illustrious gathering would have been complete. Even without him, the gathering was well rounded out, Fatty Arbuckle filling two chairs and in that way making less noticeable the absence of the absent member.

Powers and Arbuckle have adjoining boxes. These are separated by the aforementioned board partition. Jim Morley was observed last night examining this partition. It is believed that he contemplates ripping out the partition and building a mesh wire fence between the two boxes. This will make it easier for Powers and Arbuckle to glare at each other, as well as being aff aid to conversation. Remarks filter through mesh wire in good shape.

LEFT-HANDERS.

Again it was a tangle of southpaws, with Red Oldham and Curly Brown dispensing the slants. Recently, the game has run mainly to left-handers. Nearly always, it seemed, there was a guy out there pitching with his wrong hand. Right-handers are getting to be a novelty.

The game was fast and furious with both southpaws pitching dark circles under the eyes of the batters, and the fielding was one brilliant flash after another.

Portland got to Brown for a run in the first, and Los Angeles tied in the fifth. This held until the eleventh, when Curly cracked long enough for Blue to bust a home run, scoring Speas, who had reached first on Fabrique's pardonable error. Blue's homer was a legit. being to the farthermost corner of the park, which is located in left center.

"FROGGY" SHINES.

In a game which scintillated at every turn it must, indeed, be some play which stands out against a dazzling background. Fournier put such a play on in the second. Two were gone and Cox on first when Oldham rifled a liner toward right. This smash had the trademark of a triple until Fournier rubbed the trademark off. Jack jumped into the air, turned half around, made a back-handed stab with his mit and came down with the pill.

Speas opened the game badly for Brown by belting a double. Wisterzil laid down the conventional sacrifice. The runner was held at third on Blue's out, and scored on a single by Farmer. In the fifth, Rube Ellis singled with two down, and scored when Nishoff crashed a fast traveling double to right. Bert thought he had hooked a triple, but was nipped at third on Oldham's relay of Cox's forceful throw.

BLUE RIGHT THERE.

At the start of the seventh, Speas slammed one down near second that Fabrique couldn't handle. Again, Wistersil was there with the sacrificial stuff. Then came Blue with his home run. This was of the line drive variety, and the minute it left the bat nothing was left to the imagination. The hit was so long and Blue so fast that no play was made at the plate. Blue really needed only a triple, as Farmer followed with a hit that would have scored him anyway. Jack was nipped stealing and Siglin popped in big league fashion. Two regular Angels and one pinch hitter were unable to do anything in the home half.

Funnels were again fitted to the faces of the faithful, and the tooting was almost continuous. Tooting through a funnel inspires the athlete, while exalting the tooter and tooterino. One could easily distinguish the sharp feminine blasts of the tooterinos, even in the heavy Larrage laid down by the tooters.

MORNING GAME.

For one round it looked like Doc Crandall had selected the wrong day on which to work. When in the first inning, Speas, Blue, Siglin and Koehler bunched some doubles and triples and singles on Doc, everybody felt that this should have been a day of rest for him. But the Angel batters came to Doc's rescue in the sixth, when Bates, Fabrique and Bassler, aided by Doc himself, batted three runs off Penner, tieing the score. Things went on in this manner until the tenth, with both pitchers still pitching. Portland put over three runs in this round, on a low throw by Niehoff, and hits by Koehler, Cox, Wisterzil and Maisel, the latter batting for Penner. All seemed lost until the Angels rallied in the home half, and by a stupendous assault against Sutherland, drove in four runs. The first two men were retired, and the bugs, believing the jig was up, were departing when Fabrique up and singled to right. Fournier followed with one to left, and the crowd ceased going home. Crawford cracked a double, and Fabrique came across. Bassler walked. With the bases full, Kenworthy doubled, counting Fournier and Crawford, and tieing the score. Ellis shot a single to center, sending Bassler across with the winning run. It wasn't necessary for the Angels to use up their third out. Poor old Mac was petrified by the suddenness of the thing, and it was necessary for kind friends to pry him loose from his own footprints. The scores:

OAKS DIVIDE WITH TIGERS.

Shrimp Gearin Beats Houck in Pitching Duel.

Holds 'Em While Commuters Get Seven Tallies.

Sam Ross Too Good for Them in the Afternoon.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—The reorganized Oaks hung up something resembling a record this morning, for they won a game at home. They broke even on the day with the Vernon Tigers and took the series, five games out of seven.

The Oaks lost so regularly at home that most of the commuters who make up the Sunday morning crowd over there believed that the stories they had heard about the Oaks were the Bunker Hill. But after watching the Oaks stage a big seventh-inning rally this morning the home folks are almost convinced.

Oakland won the morning game, 7 to 3, and lost in the afternoon, 9 to 3. They won in the morning because this little fellow Gearin has the nerve of a rind agent, and they lost in the afternoon because they did not get any kind of pitching.

Gearin made a fine start in his first game on his home lot. This lad is about half as big as a bar of soap after a hard day's washing, but 136 of his 140 pounds must be composed of nerve. He doesn't care a thing about Babe Borton or Babe Meusel or any other big fellow with the reputation of a slugger. He just winds up and chucks that old baseball in there and he gets away with it.

Of course, the good hitters go back to the bench and say he hasn't got a thing and then Gearin laughs at them. He doesn't have to have anything more than he has—control, a change of pace and a dinky curve, backed by that cold chilled nerve that keeps the ball sailing around the plate all the time.

Gearin beat Byron Houck, one of the best bets on the Vernon staff, yesterday morning. All he did was to hold the Tigers in check until the Oaks cut loose and scored seven runs in one inning.

In the afternoon conditions were reversed. Ross gave the Tigers some good pitching and the hurlers for the Oaks were not here. Buzz Arlett started and he was wild and easy to hit in the pinches. Four runs were scored off three hits in the three innings he toiled.

Bill James, hero of the world series of 1914, relieved him and he showed that he lacked a lot of being the Bill of that period. The run made off him in the fourth was the result of a two-base blow and two passed balls by Rowdy Elliott, but in the seventh he was hit solidly for the runs.

Del Howard still thinks Bill's arm will get strong enough to let him get by in this league, but to anyone who knew Bill in the old days he looked to be aiming the ball at the plate yesterday. He lacked that looseness and freedom of action that marked him as a great young pitcher.

The Oaks had their best chance to get into the game in the afternoon when they filled the bases with one hand down in the sixth inning. At that time they were behind, 5 to 2. Rowdy Elliott was up and and Rowdy hits hard at times. Instead of making it tough for Ross by making him pitch, Rowdy took a cut at the first ball offered and hit a grounder to Ross. A double play followed that, that whipped the Oaks right there, but taking five games out of seven from the Tigers was a pretty good week's work for the Oaks and if they can do as well against Los Angeles this week they will have this race all tied up in a hard knot.

San Franciscans Make Clean Sweep of Our Tennis Titles.

FIFTH TITLE TO BAY CITY.

Miss Myers and Levy Capture Mixed Doubles.

Miss Grieve and Ketchum Put up Hard Battle.

Northerners Make a Sweep of Tennis Tourney.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HOTEL VIRGINIA (Long Beach) Aug. 2.—Completing an absolutely clean sweep of all Southern California tennis championships by players from San Francisco, Miss Anita Myers and Ed Levy of the northern city captured the mixed doubles title after an extremely hard-fought match with Miss Jessie Grieve and Marshall Ketchum of Los Angeles. The scores were 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

It was just another case of the northern players having the match well in hand and then exploding with a loud bang. Miss Grieve and Ketchum, after dropping the first three games, got a streak of almost unbeatable tennis and ran out six games in a row. They looked so good that there seemed little chance for the northern players. Miss Grieve was holding up her end nicely and Ketchum made some beautiful kills. The second set found Miss Myers, in particular, coming to the front, and while Ketchum and Miss Grieve continued their high-class play, the rapid improvement in the work of Miss Myers and Levy gave them the set by the same score as the southerners had won the first. The northern players were making sensational gets and playing very steadily, making few errors, and forcing the home players to do a lot of running.

For the odd set Miss Grieve and Ketchum started out like a pair of world's champions and in a jiffy had the score at 5-2 in their favor and the championship within their grasp. And then it happened. On Ketchum's service, the southerners went to pieces, and with Levy playing tennis that was absolutely sensational, the northerners pulled out five games in a row and took the set and match, 7-5.

During the final set Levy made the remarkable record of 19 aces, or points that were unplayable by his opponents, while, in the same time he netted the ball only twice and knocked six shots out, a total of 19 points and only 8 errors. During the three sets Levy made 38 points and 29 errors, a remarkable exhibition of steadiness. Ketchum made 20 points and 31 errors, Miss Grieve, 10 points and 25 errors, and Miss Myers, 8 points and 22 errors.

The northern players, Mrs. R. S. Leachman, Miss Anita Myers, Howard Kinsey and Ed Levy won every Southern California championship, each player taking two titles home. The new champions are:

Men's singles—Howard Kinsey.

Women's singles—Mrs. R. S. Leachman.

Men's doubles—Howard Kinsey and Ed Levy.

Women's doubles—Mrs. Leachman and Miss Myers.

Mixed doubles—Miss Myers and Ed Levy.

STAR SEES STARS WHILE GOLFING.

There were many stars in the Famous Players-Lasky invitational golf tournament at Brentwood Saturday and yesterday.

But there weren't half as many stars as Bryant Washburn saw.

That star of the movie firmament was going over the course. He was at the tenth green when he heard someone shout, "Fore!"

He looked up, instead of ducking, as is the mode of procedure on the links.

As he did the little globule arrived and it hit Washburn in the right optic.

He saw more stars than were entered in the entire tourney.

SEALS TAKE GAME AWAY FROM SACS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—A home run by Koerner in the tenth inning with Caveney on base enabled San Francisco to take the last game of the series from Sacramento, 4 to 3. The contest was poorly played, both teams contributing to the error column.

Couch, on the mound for the victors, pitched a consistent game. Piercy, for Sacramento, was wild and in almost every inning was in the hole. His wild pitch in the seventh allowed the Seals to tie the count, when the score stood 2 to 1 against them.

In the ninth, Sacramento had the bases loaded and one down, but Piercy hit into a double play. Sacramento took four games of the series. The score:

MANY ARLETTS IN NATIONAL GAME.

J. Cal Ewing may make a record as a club owner by having three generations of Arletts play for him.

At present he has the brothers, Pop and Buzz. From 1892 to 1897, Harry Arlett, the father of these boys, caught for Ewing's club. Their uncles, on their father's side, Jim and George Arlett, played shortstop and second base, respectively, on the same club, while Clifford, an uncle on their mother's side, played left field.

Pop Arlett has a boy 8 years old, who gives every promise of developing into a good player, and who aspires to follow in the footsteps of his forebears. He is already pledged to Ewing, and the prospects for Ewing having three generations of Arletts on his payroll are excellent.

DOG SHOW AWARDS MADE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 3.—Santa Barbara's first annual bench show came to a close in the Palm Ring on the Belvedere grounds about midnight last night. The large number of entries and closeness of competition made the judging take more time than had been expected. The show was an unqualified success both from a sporting and financial standpoint.

In the finals, Mayor James Rolph of San Francisco carried off the premier honors, as his cocker spaniel, "Mission Silvia," was pronounced the best dog in the show, any breed. She was awarded the President's trophy, donated by Ralph W. Hersey, head of the local Kennel Club which gave the show. The Rolph entry won the same honor at San Francisco last May.

SOUTHERN PART.

Southern California's honor was upheld in the trophy distribution at the finish by the entries of Mrs. W. G. Sydney Harris of Altadena and W. S. Macy of Montecito. The final awards were as follows:

Best dog in show, any breed—Mission Silvia, cocker spaniel, owned by Mayor James Rolph, San Francisco; President's trophy, Ralph W. Hersey, donor.

Best in show, opposite sex—Menlo Punch, Pomeranian, owned by Miss C. S. Kempf, Menlo Park, Cal.; James Marwick trophy.

Best sporting dog in show—Flying Snow, bull terrier, owned by F. L. Babcock, San Francisco; Huron Rock trophy.

Best non-sporting dog in show—Lady Hamilton, Boston terrier, owned by W. S. Macy, Montecito, Cal.; Clinton B. Hale trophy.

Best toy dog in show—Ting Wu, Pekingese, owned by Miss W. G. Sydney Harris, Altadena, Cal.; Thomas E. Hodges trophy.

Best puppy in show—Menlo Punch, Pomeranian, owned by Miss C. S. Kempf, Menlo Park, Cal.; Dr. S. E. Kramer trophy.

Best dog owned by Los Angeles county resident—Ting Wu, Pekingese, owned by Mrs. W. G. Sydney Harris, Altadena, Cal.; Vertex Kennels trophy.

Best dog owned by motion-picture man—White Heather, bull terrier, owned by Charles H. Christie, Los Angeles; Santa Barbara Kennel Club trophy.

AGREEMENT MUST STAND.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Demanding that the major leagues live up to the agreement entered into with the minors at the conference in this city last January, David L. Fultz, president of the International League and spokesman for the minor associations, stated today: "We are not going to lose the fruits of the arrangement made last winter simply because the majors now find that they made a bad bargain."

Fultz, in a prepared statement, outlined the case of the minor baseball leagues in part as follows:

"It appears that the National League, at least, has gone on record that the agreement made with the minors in January is a scrap of paper and there is a clear intimation that the majors expect to again draft minor-league players.

"For sentimental reasons many of us were not in favor of dissolving the national agreement, but preferred an equitable change instead. However, our plan, as already mentioned, was turned down by the National Commission and the dissolution, which they themselves suggested, was agreed to.

"The lifting of the draft means an advantage of at least $75,000 and possibly $100,000 to each one of the Class AA leagues."

DAVIS IS WHOLE SHOW.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Aug. 3.—Willie E. Davis of San Francisco, and H. Vandyke Johns of Berkeley, Cal., won the title in the men's doubles of the western championship tennis tournament by defeating Fred Josetles and Theodore Drewes of St. Louis, holders of the Central States doubles title, in the finals on the Rockhill courts today.

The California pair showed a wonderful burst of speed and swept the Central States champions off their feet, winning in easy sets, 6-2, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

In the semi-finals Davis and Johns defeated James Weber and L. Williams of Chicago, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, while the Josties-Drewes team was victorious over Ralph Burdick and A. L. Green, Jr., of Chicago, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Willis E. Davis also won the singles championship yesterday and with his partner, H. Vandyke Johns, will represent the West in the tourney for the national title at Longwood later this month.

BASEBALL NOTES.

George Maisel has applied for membership in the Hard Luck Club. Recently Pat Moran was in dire need of an outfielder for his Cincinnati Reds. He wired Justin Fitzgerald to secure Maisel for him from Portland, regardless of price. At the time Maisel had a bad knee that promised to keep him out of the game indefinitely. This crabbed the deal and likewise his chances for getting in on a possible slice of the world series money. If the Reds win the flag, Maisel will charge the loss of a couple of thousand dollars to his knee.

It is impossible to start an argument with the Portland athletes over who is the best third sacker in the league. They simply name Tex Wisterzil and declare that this leaves no room for argument. According to them, he not only is playing a perfect game at third, but he is the best man in the league to advance a runner on first. They say he is the Portland player most entitled to advance into the majors, but expect him to be overlooked because he has been up before and is no longer a youngster.

Portland players do not believe that McCredie will dispose of more than one man to the majors. They point out that Mac has been tearing down and building up for years without satisfactory results. He believes that he has the groundwork for a pennant winner in 1920 and for that reason they expect him to hold the present club almost intact.

McCredie says sliding to bases correctly is almost a lost art. "The players seem afraid to hit the ground on their hips," said Mac. "They go in on their ankles, leaving a couple of grooves in the ground." He says it is a wonder that there are not more broken legs. Next spring sand pits may be provided at the various camps for practice in sliding.

What went wrong with the Vernon pitchers is a mystery down here. Most of them had one bad inning in which they "blew." The club scored a lot of runs, but the heavers couldn't hold the Oaks down.

Luggage That Satisfies

Here are a few reasons why we feel certain that our goods and prices are right and the public satisfied to buy here in preference to other places:

We have assembled here the very best possible to obtain and at a time when the goods cost considerably less than can be bought for now.

We have not advanced our selling prices on any goods we bought at the former lower costs.

Many Trunks, Suit Cases, Traveling Bags, Dressing Sets and Ladies' Leather Hand Bags, are being offered and sold in our splendid shop for much less than their actual present value.

We could raise our prices and make a liberal discount from these prices, and make you believe you were getting better values, but that is not our method of doing business. The net price you pay for an article is what you must figure on and we assure you that our net prices are more economical to you than inflated prices with a discount. Do not be deceived by such offers as they generally are disappointing. Goods of worth and really desirable goods, such as we display in our fine shop, do not have to be sold by such undesirable methods. They sell strictly on their own merits, because they are worthy and because they are priced right. Right in the face of all the last few weeks, "Special Sales" of various kinds in other places, we here have been favored with the largest volume of business in Trunks, Suit Cases and Bags, than ever before sold in our store. Our former records have been broken and because the public have confidence in the quality of our goods, and the correctness of our prices. We feel gratified that our efforts to serve the public honestly and without misrepresentation, has been appreciated to the great extent it has, and it is the efforts and appreciation that has brought so much success in this splendid shop. We are encouraged to continue in this manner. The great majority of the public today knows that they are not getting something for nothing and that no merchant is selling his goods at a loss or at cost. The buying public of today are 95 per cent. intelligent people, and we are endeavoring to reach that 95 per cent. and leave the other 5 per cent. to the "Big Discount" dealers.

We sell a good quality Wardrobe Trunk (like cut) for $40.00 and it is worth $60.

We sell a good Steamer Trunk for $18.50 and it is worth $18.50. (See cut.)

We sell a good Leather Traveling Bag for $10.00, and it is worth $16. (Like shown in cut.)

We sell a good leather Suit Case for $10.00 and it is worth $12. (Like cut.)

This holds good on all our stock of goods, whether it is a 25 cent Bag Tag or a $200 Trunk. Investigate for yourself and do not be satisfied until you do, as we have a most desirable assortment of Ladies' Suit Cases and Hand Bags that we are offering at exceptional values, in order to dispose of quickly. We must make room for a lot of new bags arriving and our limited amount of space will not accommodate them all.

We cordially invite you to visit our shop and it is your privilege to purchase or not, and we respect that privilege at all times.

APPEAL CASE TO SUPREME COURT.

Autoists Attack Pasadena's Speed Ordinance.

City to Urge Prompt Hearing of School Board Muddle.

Crown City Audience Joins in Community Sing.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 3.—Pasadena's celebrated ordinance prohibiting motoring over the Colorado street bridge (across the Arroyo Seco) at a speed of more than fifteen miles an hour is to be tested in the State Supreme Court.

City Attorney J. H. Howard today left for Sacramento where he will represent the municipality and present arguments in support of the legality of the ordinance in the action brought by Earle Daniels of Los Angeles against the city of Pasadena, attacking the local law.

Mr. Daniels's action is a test case in which the Auto Club of Southern California is interested, so many of its members having run afoul the bridge speed ordinance. The test case was precipitated this summer by the action of Police Judge F. C. Dunham in giving jail sentences for violations.

Hundreds of arrests for violations of the bridge ordinance have been made by the Pasadena police since the enactment of the ordinance.

While Mr. Howard is before the Supreme Court, he will endeavor, as counsel for the Pasadena Board of Education, to have the high tribunal set a hearing for the test suit for Dr. John Franklin West to determine the legality of his election as superintendent by the outgoing board.

WATER HIGHER UP.

As their warning of last week to prospective campers to "tote" their drinking water with them to localities where they were uncertain of the supply, because of the dry season, is having a deterrent effect on camping and outing expeditions in the Sierra Madres, Forest Service officials state now that their warning did not apply to the localities high up the canyons and to the recognized resorts, at which places there is ample water for all uses. It is in the lower reaches of Angeles National Forest and in less frequented localities that the forest officials would adjure campers to insure their drinking water supplies.

This season will probably prove a record-breaker for the number of campers, outing parties and hikers in Angeles National Forest.

COMMUNITY SINGING.

Compositions by American and French composers were features of the civic band concert and "community singing" this afternoon at Library Park. The concert was by the Pasadena Concert Band. The band played the French airs, the spectators not attempting to sing the words. Songs sung by the audience included "Suwanee River," "Over There," "Love's Old, Sweet Song" and "The Star Spangled Banner." J. J. Hamilton, City Commissioner of Parks, who is in charge of the concerts, is determined that Pasadena citizens shall learn the words of the national anthem and not start off "Oh say can you see—" and have to fall back on "ta-ta-te-ta."

APPRAISES WATER PLANT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 3.—Proceedings have been started by the City Council for the purchase of the water systems serving the city. They have instructed the president of the Council and the City Clerk to enter into contract with Arthur R. Kelley, an appraising engineer, to invoice and appraise the physical properties of the three companies.

The same motion authorized the city to hire a hydraulic engineer to estimate the cost of replacement and rehabilitation of the present plants and systems. It will be a matter of weeks before reports will be heard from these men, and in all probability the citizens will be called upon to vote bonds for the purchase of a municipal system if the estimates do not seem prohibitive.

REPORTS CONDITIONS OF JEWS IN BALKANS.

SUFFERED WITH OTHERS, BUT RELIGIOUS REPRESSIVE MEASURES LACKING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Reports of conditions of Jews in the Balkan countries, as made to the American Jewish Relief Committee, by its investigators abroad, were made public today. They show that economic ruin and disease have fallen to the lot of Balkan Jews, to an extent equal to that suffered by their co-religionists in other war-torn countries, but that political and religious repressive measures have been lacking.

The first account of the situation in Serbia in many months is from Dr. Isaac Alcalay, chief rabbi of Serbia, with headquarters in Belgrade.

"During the war," he wrote, "Jews in Belgrade suffered proportionately more than the rest of the population. Almost all their houses are destroyed. The Jewish population of the city, formerly 8000, now numbers no more than 4500. The number is being increased daily by returning refugees.

"The years of fighting have deprived more than 400 families of their bread winners. It is necessary to build an orphan asylum and means must be provided to rehabilitate those disabled by wounds. If American Jewish relief societies can continue the monthly help of $5000 until the end of 1920, we feel that all the disabilities and misfortunes will gradually disappear."

In Bulgaria, according to Miss Hetty Goldman, of this city, the condition of Jews is somewhat better than in Serbia.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LANCASTER, Aug. 2.—Whether or not this city is to be provided with a municipal waterworks system will be decided by the voters at a special election called for August 22.

BRAWLEY SOLDIER GETS HERO MEDAL.

MAN WHO "CARRIED ON" WITH WOUNDED ARM GIVEN OFFICIAL RECOGNITION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRAWLEY, Aug. 3.—John M. Supler, who is working as a caterpillar engineer near Brawley, has received a Croix de Guerre, with a bronze star. The official account of his gallantry states that on "October 30, 1918, at Waereghem, Belgium, although wounded, he continued to fight with his company. He did not go to a dressing station until he had received a formal order from the chief of his section."

Supler served for a year with Company L, Three Hundred and Sixthy-fourth Regiment, United States Infantry. According to others in the same company, they were just preparing to pitch camp when the enemy made a surprise attack. The Americans hurriedly grabbed their rifles, and went over the top in face of terrible shell fire. They were outnumbered about 100 to one. Many were killed. Every man counted enormously. Supler knew this. He received a bullet in his chest, which came through his back, but it did not seem to occur to him to stop fighting. Later, a bullet passed completely through his right arm, but he held his rifle in his left hand, while his right arm hung limply at his side, and continued to fight until he was ordered to a dressing station.

HIS OWN BANKER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Aug. 3.—Street paving obligations to the face value of $3000 remaining unpaid under the district plan laws, by which outlying thoroughfares were improved, were bought at their face value by W. D. Hole of Pasadena at the regular meeting of the City Council. Hole is said to have been acting for J. E. Lee of Los Angeles, the contractor, who will carry his own bonds, he said.

WILD GAME VISITS TOWN OF MONROVIA.

PROTECTION OF GAME LAWS MAKES ANIMALS EXCEEDINGLY BOLD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Aug. 3.—Deer, quail, squirrel and many other kinds of game are becoming familiar sights in this city, due to the continued protection begun when this district of the Angeles Forest Reserve was made a game reserve as well. Several deer have been seen in the northern part of town and are apparently little disturbed by human beings. They generally come down out of Cloverleaf or Clamshell canyons. Not long ago a young buck wandered as far as the city park, in the center of town, and didn't start home until dogs appeared, when he bolted through several chicken yards on his way to the mountains. Mountain quail by the hundreds are to be found in the foothill orange groves in the city, and in the evening the bushes and shrubbery long the edge of the roads are simply alive as covey after covey darts into the cover after dusting in the highway. Squirrels are not plentiful, but a big gray fellow and his family have established themselves comfortably in an old eucalyptus tree on the grounds where the La Vista Grande Hotel stood a few years ago, within a block of the business center. Cottontails and jackrabbits are of course plentiful this time of year, as are coyotes along the outlying chicken ranches.

SPIDER BITE CAUSES ILLNESS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Aug. 2.—Mrs. J. W. Campbell, a resident of South H street, is suffering a severe illness, the result of having been bitten on the hand by a spider. Mrs. Campbell was, according to her description, bitten by one of the few poisonous varieties of spider known to California, the type which is marked by a bright crimson spot on the back.

Physicians are of the opinion that the patient will suffer from the effects of the poison for several weeks.

TIN LIZZIE SCORES ANOTHER VICTORY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 3.—This is a story entitled "When Bull Meets Ford." There was a bull on a side hill in the Santa Ana Canyon. He suffered from indigestion, jealousy, or, perhaps, pure "orneryness." He had been unmercifully pestered by honking of automobile horns, flies and the heat of the sun.

Just then a Ford occupied by the Harris family of San Pedro and Mrs. McCoy of San Bernardino hove in sight. There was nothing unusual about the tin Lizzie, it was just like all the rest of 'em—but the bull's nerves cracked. He took a long breath and started down hill, head down, tail up, and eyes glued on the Ford.

Mr. Bull hit Hennery amidships, and in a twinkling the machine was upside down at the side of the road. Harris and his daughter were thrown clear, but Mrs. Harris and Mrs. McCoy were pinned underneath for a time.

Meanwhile, the bull had retired to the shade of a tree, help came, and soon the Ford was righted. Harris cranked 'er up, the part climbed in, and they rambled merrily away, but with all eyes alertly on the lookout for anything wearing horns.

UP AGAINST IT.

City Council at Redlands Faces Most Peculiar Predicament.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 3.—Confronted with the task of raising more money this year than the tax rate limits will permit, the City Council finds itself in a peculiar predicament because of the fact that the charter requires that the total amount to be raised must be fixed on the first Monday in August.

On that date the State Board of Equalization will meet and hear the request that this county's assessed valuation be increased. It is unlikely that any action can be taken in time for the Council to take advantage of the increased taxing power that would result from favorable action on the part of the State board.

While the Board of Supervisors decided on asking for a doubling of values, it has been learned from county officials that when Chairman T. F. Flaherty of the Board of Supervisors goes north to present the county's wishes, an increase of not to exceed 50 per cent. will be requested.

WATER CARNIVAL TO BE ANNUAL EVENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEAL BEACH, Aug. 2.—The Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce is enthusiastic over the water carnival held here Sunday and plans are now forming to make it an annual event. The proposition was taken up at an adjourned meeting held last night and favorable action will probably be taken at the regular meeting next Wednesday.

Among other things suggested was the offering of a valuable trophy for a yacht race off the coast at Seal Beach, open for all Southern California boats, the trophy to be won three times to give permanent possession. It will be known as the Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce trophy.

The last Sunday in July of each year has been suggested as the date of holding the water carnival, which will include a general programme of aquatic sports.

WILL SELL BONDS TO HIGHEST BIDDER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Aug. 2.—The County Supervisors are obliged again to advertise the recently voted road bonds for sale to the highest bidder, following the failure of C. S. Woody, representing the Meyer & Co. bond house of San Francisco and Cincinnati, to post a deposit of $75,000 for the purchase of the bonds. The deal would have netted the county $1,515,157.50. No information has been received by the board as to the reason for the bond house defaulting in the matter.

The plan of submitting the bonds to public bids and giving them to the highest bidder is considered as fully equal to the advantages of the bargain made with Mr. Woody. The interest on the bonds will not begin until the sale is made. Had the former deal gone through the Supervisors would have had to buy other securities with the money until it was actually needed for road construction purposes.

Bids will be opened August 18.

FIRST ARREST UNDER NEW STATE STATUTE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Aug. 2. — George G. Gorrabin of Fresno is the first offender to be taken into custody here under the newly adopted State automobile law, having been arrested on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. At the conclusion of his preliminary hearing before Judge Frymire he was bound over to answer to the Superior Court, being released on bonds of $5000.

George Norarian of Dinuba, in the case with Gorrabin, was fined $5, following his conviction on a charge of having a bottle of liquor in his possession.

DEER IN UTAH.

Banker Cites Boundless Happy Hunting Grounds.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MENTONE, Aug. 3.—A. F. Telton, a bank examiner for Utah, has just made a trip from there by automobile and tells of a paradise for deer hunters that is known to Southern California people who have traveled the Arrowhead Trail. It is the Kaibab Forest in Southern Utah. The deer are so plentiful that they crowd the wagon roads and force automobilists to stop often until they get out of the way. They are tame and never show fear.

NEW MILLING COMPANY.

Concern Dealing in Fuel and Feed Organized at Pomona.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 2.—The interests of the Pomona Milling Company and those of the Chino, Upland, Claremont and La Verne Feed and Fuel companies have been purchased by the Citrus Belt Milling Company, a new concern, which proposes to enter extensively into the feed and fuel business. They will operate a mill at Pomona and wholesale and retail their products throughout this district. The officers of the new concern are: President, Fred E. Whyte, Pomona; vice-president, J. M. Hartley, Claremont; secretary and manager, J. L. Tomlinson. The company will maintain its offices in Pomona. It is also proposed to handle beans, of which there is now a large acreage in this section. The plant of the Pomona Milling Company has been recently overhauled and enlarged and will be used by the new concern.

NEED MORE MONEY.

Tulare Officials Work on Plans to Finance Improvements.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, Aug. 3.—Thirty-one thousand dollars will be required to finish the street paving work in Tulare, for which general plans were adopted last year, according to detailed plans and specifications which have just been submitted to the city officials by City Engineer Bosworth.

One short stretch of paving remains to be laid near the north city limits to connect with the county highway, the only gap in these roads in interior California. This work will cost $12,000. Inyo street paving will cost an estimated $10,000 and three blocks bounding the proposed new city auditorium will cost another $8000. Plans for financing the work are to be undertaken immediately by the city officials.

GROWERS ORGANIZE.

Owners of Walnut Groves Form New Association.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 3.—More than a thousand acres have been signed up with the newly organized Chino Walnut Growers' Association, according to the report of the men in charge. At a meeting yesterday several new members were obtained and by-laws for the regulation of the association were adopted. The drive for more acreage will continue. H. S. White, president, and F. D. Adams, secretary, of association, were empowered to receive new members. Other steps in the programme of organizatoin are under way. In another year it is hoped to build a packing house. There is a large walnut acreage in the Chino section. Heretofore the growers have been marketing through the Walnut Fruit Growers' Exchange of Walnut, California.

FLOOD PREVENTION.

Various Interests to Pool Issues in Porterville District.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 2.—Co-operation of all interests at issue is to be sought in carrying out plans for protective work on Tule River, to guard the Porterville district from damage from high water. The first step will be the calling of a general meeting, which will be attended by Supervisors, members of the City Council and officers and stockholders of the various irrigation companies, to agree on the character of work needed and to adopt a plan for financing it.

There is a growing sentiment in favor of the formation of a reclamation district through which to assess all property on the basis of valuation, rather than taking the money needed from the city and county general funds.

"ARMISTICE DAY."

American Legion Post of Imperial Valley Arranges Celebration.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Aug. 3.—A reunion of ex-service men is to be a drawing feature of the Imperial Valley Armistice-Day celebration, November 11. This was agreed upon at a meeting last evening of the American Legion post. The form of the day's events was left for the consideration of a special committee.

By unanimous vote the post decided to advocate the amendment of the Kettner bill to provide for preferential rights in the purchase of east-side mesa lands offered for sale under the provisions of the bill. An expression of thanks was voted Jacob Lorang, an Imperial rancher, who is circulating petitions among the taxpayers for their signatures, with a view of making the appeal to Congress bear the name of every taxpayer in the county.

The constitution and by-laws to govern the post were reported last night, and adopted, and a full set of temporary officers to serve until the annual meeting in the fall was elected. They are: Arthur M. Nelson, chairman; Paul Ragan, vice-chairman; Joseph P. Hertel, secretary, and John M. Kepley, treasurer. These, with C. W. Barry, Wiley Weaver, Jr., C. C. Brewer, and George Banta, constitute the executive committee.

Foleen Was Told Operation Was Only Hope

Tanlac Overcomes All His Troubles.

Eats Anything, Sleeps Like a Rock and Works Every Day, Now.

"I have more faith in Tanlac than any medicine I have ever seen, and I'll tell you why I say this," said J. Foleen, a well-known machinist who is employed by the Southern Pacific Railway Co., and who lives at 601 East 20th street, Portland, while talking to a Tanlac representative the other day.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for three years or more," continued Mr. Foleen, "and when I commenced taking Tanlac, I was so weak and run-down that I was not able to do any work at all. At one time I was in the hospital for seven weeks, and after the very best of treatment there, I was told that nothing but an operation would do me any good, and that I would have to submit to it if I ever expected to be well again. I refused to undergo the operation, and was told then that there could do nothing more for me, so I pulled up and went home. Well, after I got home I began to dieting myself, thinking that might help me, but soon found that even milk and eggs and a soft-cooked egg would cause gas to form on my stomach, and I would have the worst sinking spells you ever heard of. I was kept on suffering and getting worse all the time until I was just a skin and bones all in.

"Then I heard about Tanlac and the great things it was doing for so many other people, and I bought a bottle and commenced taking it. Well, sir, I figured that Tanlac would give me some relief, but I had no idea that it was going to work such a clean sweep of my trouble and put me in the fine condition I am now in. Why, I have gained twenty-nine pounds, and in a short time I was as free from pain and distress as any man on earth. My stomach troubles all disappeared and my appetite came back to me in force, and up to this day, I can truly get enough to eat. Everything I eat agrees with me, too, and when night comes on I can go to bed and sleep like a rock right through to daylight. Now that was just a year ago when Tanlac pulled me out of that trouble, and I haven't lost a day from my work since, and my health has been just fine ever since. Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by the Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

Too Young to Feel So Old!

DON'T let that bad back make you old! Get back your health and keep it. You can detect kidney weakness in its early stages, from the morning lameness, dull backache, dizzy spells, nervousness and kidney irregularities. Taken early, a short treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills will usually correct it. Kidney weakness is too often brought on by irregular habits. Practice moderation. Keep regular hours. Take regular exercise. Cut out useless worrying. Avoid over-eating, over-drinking, over-working and all other excesses. A perfect balance of brain, muscles and nerves makes work as sweet as play. You enjoy life, radiate good cheer and feel young at any age. Doan's have helped thousands. Here are some local cases:

Some Los Angeles Cases

Essex Street

Mrs. William McArthur, 1429 Essex street, says: "When I have taken cold it has affected my kidneys and I have had backaches and other symptoms of kidney disorder. I have then used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always quickly relieved me. I have great faith in Doan's."

Over a year later Mrs. McArthur said: "I am seldom without Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and using them occasionally keeps my kidneys healthy. I am always ready to praise Doan's Kidney Pills."

East Pico Street

William H. Keller, proprietor of grocery, 901 East Pico street, says: "For a long time I was subject to kidney and bladder complaint. I was annoyed with a dull, tiresome ache across my loins, especially when I sat or remained in one position for a long time. At night when I turned over in bed I felt sore through my kidneys. Weakness of the kidneys and bladder disturbed my rest, making me get up often. I was glad to find relief from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and I always resort to them when in need of a kidney medicine."

Myrtle Street

Mrs. George W. Bullas, 1321 Myrtle street, says: "I had inflammatory rheumatism when I was 17 years old and it seemed to leave me with kidney and bladder weakness. My kidneys acted too freely and I felt badly all over. I knew in different ways my kidneys were disordered. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to try them. Doan's relieved me and proved themselves fine."

Mrs Bullas gave the above statement on January 20, 1916, and OVER A YEAR LATER, or on May 2, 1917, she added: "I have enjoyed good health and felt fine ever since Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of kidney trouble. I can't praise Doan's too highly for what they did for me."

North Coronado Street

Chas. Braasch, retired clothes dealer, 532 North Coronado street, says: "When I was living in Chicago several years ago, my kidneys were giving me considerable trouble. When a man's kidneys become disordered he feels out of sorts all over. My back was lame and it was hard for me to bend over or lift anything heavy. The steady ache across the small of my back nearly took all the life out of me. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I found they were just what I needed. Doan's quickly relieved me and I was soon free from the trouble."

East Eighty-Fifth Street

Mrs. K. A. Greenewald, 230 East Eighty-fifth streets, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills about three years ago and was freed of backache and other symptoms of kidney disorder. I had been suffering with a dull, steady ache. I was glad to get the fine relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me and I haven't needed a kidney medicine since."

LASTING RESULTS

Mrs. Greenewald gave the above statement on January 24, 1916, and on May 3, 1917, she added: "I am always ready to say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills because they cured me of kidney complaint.

South Avenue Twenty-one

Elbert B. Crouch, retired carpenter, 512 So. Avenue 21, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for years. When I have taken cold or worked too hard I have had a dull ache across my kidneys and through my loins. Then my kidneys have showed other symptoms of disorder. They have acted too frequently. I was glad to find a remedy to give me such good relief as Doan's Kidney Pills did. Whenever I have had any attack of backache Doan's have regulated my kidneys and quickly relieved me."

Mr. Crouch gave the above statement on January 22, 1916, and on May 1, 1917, he added: "My kidneys have caused me absolutely no trouble since Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of kidney complaint. I shall never go back on what I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills."

PORTLAND MAN GAINS 29 POUNDS

Foleen Was Told Operation Was Only Hope

Tanlac Overcomes All His Troubles.

Eats Anything, Sleeps Like a Rock and Works Every Day, Now.

"I have more faith in Tanlac than any medicine I have ever seen, and I'll tell you why I say this," said C. J. Foleen, a well-known mechanic who is employed by the Southern Pacific Railway Co., and who lives at 601 East 20th street, Portland, while talking to a Tanlac representative the other day.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for three years or more," continued Mr. Foleen, "and when I commenced taking Tanlac, I was so weak and run-down that I was not able to do any work at all. At one time I was in the hospital for seven weeks, and after the very best of treatment there, I was told that nothing but an operation would do me any good, and that I would have to submit to it if I ever expected to be well again. I refused to undergo the operation, and was told then that there could do nothing more for me, so I pulled up and went home. Well, after I got home I began to diet myself, thinking that might help me, but I soon found that even milk and mush and a soft-cooked egg would cause gas to form on my stomach, and I would have the worst cramping spells you ever heard of. I just kept on suffering and getting weaker all the time until I was just about all in.

"Then I heard about Tanlac and the great things it was doing for so many other people, and I bought a bottle and commenced taking it. Well, sir, I figured that Tanlac would give me some relief, but I had no idea that it was going to make such a clean sweep of my trouble, and put me in the fine condition I am now in. Why, I have gained twenty-nine pounds, and in a short time I was as free from pain and distress as any man on earth. My stomach troubles all disappeared, and my appetite came back in full force, and up to this day, I can hardly get enough to eat. Everything I eat agrees with me, too, and when night comes on I can go to bed and sleep like a rock right through until daylight. Now that was just a year ago when Tanlac pulled me out of all that trouble, and I haven't lost a day from my work since, and my health has been just fine ever since." Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by the Owl Drug Co.—[Advertisement.

HOLD BELA KUN IN VIENNA CAMP

Deposed Red Leader's Flight is Promptly Halted.

Budapest Quiet, but Uprising of Army Feared.

Rumanians Warned to Halt Hostile Advance.

south to mouth. No official announcement of a change of government has been made and will not be until morning. Great numbers of fugitive Hungarians filling Vienna hotels also are still in ignorance of the important happenings in their city and country for the news came here by private telephone message about 1:30 this afternoon while the new government was still deliberating in Budapest.

The city is perfectly quiet but members of the old government and their sympathizers are desperately in fear of the "white terror."

ARMY MAY BE MOB.

This is especially feared, for the army is in complete dissolution everywhere and without discipline its members may do anything. There are no Entente troops in Budapest and none nearer than the Czechs who are at Comoron between here and Budapest.

Although negotiations had been going on more than a week between representatives at Vienna, they seemed to have ended in failure when Bela Kun, who came up to the border at Bruck to meet his representatives coming from Vienna, gave out a statement yesterday saying that never would surrender and the Bolshevik government would go on. Either he knew it was his one chance or else he did not know how strong were the forces arrayed against him, for today he was forced to abdicate and surrender the power he had wielded so long and arbitrarily.

NEW CABINET.

A temporary Cabinet has been agreed on, and he had to yield. The name of the government officials is:

President of the Ministry, Peidl; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Agoston, who formerly was Minister of Justice and who has been the principal negotiator of his Entente colleagues; Minister of War, Haubrich; Minister of Internal Affairs, Peyer; Minister of Justice, Garamai, an able and respected Socialist who has been in prison and was frequently talked of as the man to head the new government in Hungary; Minister of Commerce, Dovcsak; Minister of Finance, Miskics; Minister of Education, Szabo; Minister of Agriculture, Pakacs, and Minister of the People's Welfare, Garbai, who is a moderate Socialist and who also has been ready to go over to a moderate government.

There are to have this Cabinet until one can be formed which will bring all elements in the nation and will arrange for an election to be held so that the people may choose the form of government they desire and elect officials.

AMERICANS PRAISED.

Although all the Entente representatives had a part in the situation which have resulted in bringing this ulcer from Hungary, it is only the truth to say that the American initiative and enthusiasm was principally the reasons for their ideas driven through to a successful conclusion. One Entente representative was so indifferent to the situation that he telegraphed his government nothing would come of the negotiations. He has been left to his own thoughts since and probably will learn of Budapest events when the public does.

The history of the negotiations now with Agoston, representative of the Kun government, who came here for the purpose, and Boehm, supreme commander of the army, now minister of war in the new government, repudiation of the Bolshevist propaganda, dictatorship to bridge over the period until the formation of a government representative of all parties, immediate calling of an advisory body, the raising of the blockade and certain steps to be undertaken by the Entente to supply food, coal and assistance; determination regarding socialization to be left to permanent government.

Points were agreed to by the Bolshevist negotiators, subject to approval by Kun. The Entente envoys then went to Paris for conference. The result was a statement issued by the supreme council in Paris, Sunday, July 27, in which it was said that the Entente powers to arrange peace with the Hungarian people, and to bring about conditions which made economic revival of Central Europe impossible, and saying that if Hungary was to do anything for herself it must deal with a government which represented the people and not one based on terrorism.

This statement was translated into Hungarian and German and given wide publicity in Hungary. It distributed in every possible way and undoubtedly did much to prepare favorable negotiations. This was propaganda, coupled with ammunition in advance and preparation for a threat of an advance of Czechoslovaks, furnished the necessary forces to drive the Kun government to accept the terms. So sure was Kun

FRUIT GROWERS FORM BIG ORGANIZATION.

RANCHERS OF TWO COUNTIES PLAN CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 2.—All the fruit growers of San Bernardino and Riverside counties, deciduous and citrus-fruit growers combined, will be joined in one big association, according to plans made last night at a joint meeting of the farm bureaus of the two counties. The purpose is to provide a central marketing bureau by which the crops of the members can be handled to better advantage. As it now is there is no organization for creating markets and with the deciduous fruit growers there has been heavy loss and wastage because the crop could not be disposed of at the right time. There will be another meeting in a few days at which more definite plans for the organization will be advanced.

Charging that discrimination is being practised against him and that Mrs. Linda Sloan-Orcutt, president of the Park Commission, refused to consult a letter dealing with his application to be reinstated as foreman of Griffith Park to come before the board at a recent meeting, C. "During this time I was told that Mr. Reese, the Griffith Park foreman during my absence, was making statements that he was not going to give up my position in Griffith Park—that he had kept it so far and was going to stay there; that he had enough backing to do it; that he was a friend of Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt, the president of the Park Commission, who would back him up in anything he wished, and that when he learned that I was trying to return to my former position he immediately sent word to Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt at Catalina to return and save the situation.

RECALLS TOWN'S FADED GLORIES.

Collapse of Searchlight Mining Boom Leads to Abandonment of Nipton Station.

Recalling the faded glories of the Searchlight mining district, permission has just been granted the Salt Lake by the State Railroad Commission, it was learned here yesterday, to abandon the station at Nipton. This town is twenty-three miles from Searchlight, and in the old days when Searchlight was a Klondyke in little, hundreds of travelers weekly took the stage at Nipton for the Nevada mining camp.

Now, according to the Salt Lake, the traffic handled at Nipton does not justify the maintenance of a station force there. Moreover, the station building burned some months ago, and the cost of its replacement would be an unjustified expenditure, say the Salt Lake officials.

Hereafter, Nipton will only be a flag stop for passengers, and other traffic will be taken care of at Ivanpah, Jean and Desert.

LOCAL CAPITAL IN NEW FIELD.

Cotton Oil Company Receives First Cargo of Copra.

By Making Cocoanut Oil Can Double Plant Capacity.

Port's Trade Gains Through Business Expansion.

An enterprise that promises to open up an entirely new field of commercial activity, with a direct bearing on the development of this city's trade with the Orient, has just been started here, it became known yesterday. As the result of arrangements made with a firm of exporters in Manila, the California Cotton Oil Company, one of the largest manufacturers of cotton seed oil and bi-products in Southern California, has imported the first cargo of copra ever received in this city with the idea of adding a department for the manufacture of cocoanut oil in connection with that company's plant at Fifty-second street and Santa Fe avenue.

The shipment of copra, or dried cocoanut meat, from which the valuable cocoanut oil is extracted, came from the Fiji Islands by way of Manila, through Balfour, Guthrie & Co., of San Francisco, and is now being unloaded from the cars at the California Cotton Oil Company's plant. It consists of 650 tons of sun-dried copra, one of the chief exports of the South Sea Islands, and the basis of much of the productive wealth of that part of the world. According to P. W. McDevitt, president of the company, the new field into which his corporation has embarked is not an experimental one, but the venture was made in order to keep the plant in operation the year round instead of confining its manufacture to cotton seed products.

He believes the manufacture of cocoanut oil can be developed into extensive proportions in Southern California because of the great demand for the oil. The same machinery used in the manufacture of cotton seed oil is employed in extracting the oil from copra. The residue of coacoanut meat, after the oil is put through the process of extraction, makes excellent cattle feed; Mr. McDevitt explains. So great is the demand for cattle feed at this season, he says, that this part of the copra was sold to dairymen in advance of delivery.

The California Cotton Oil Company was organized a little more than a year ago, and, according to a recent audit, is manufacturing cotton seed oil and bi-products valued at more than $4000 a day. The plant in the Vernon district represents an investment in buildings of $175,000. The main warehouse building, 385x80 feet, has a storage capacity of 10,000 tons of cotton seed, valued at $750,000 at the present market quotations.

Adjoining this are the company's storage tanks, with a capacity of 60,000 gallons of oil. The cotton seed oil mill, which is equipped with the most approved machinery, is 40x245 feet, and includes three departments—seed oil manufacturing room, linter room, separating room and press room. In addition there is an office building, house for storing hulls, a building for meal storage, 76x80 feet, and a smaller building now being constructed to provide for expansion.

The company, which is capitalized at $500,000, does an annual business of approximately $1,000,000. Its officers are P. W. McDevitt, president; J. J. West, vice-president, and John P. Conduit, treasurer and general manager.

Besides having cotton gins in the Imperial, San Joaquin and Palos Verde valleys, it is allied with the McDevitt Cotton Company, a corporation now developing 5000 acres of land in the San Joaquin Valley, 3000 of which are in cotton. It was Mr. McDevitt who first brought to the attention of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron the possibilities of growing cotton in the Salt River Valley of Arizona, the subsequent purchase of 27,000 acres of cotton land by that company resulting in its decision to locate a California plant at Los Angeles.

EAST LOSES ANOTHER NOTED FILM MAGNATE.

The more or less effete East has lost another high light in filmdom, Louis J. Gasnier, noted producer, who, tired of oscillating between New York and the Southland, has finally concluded to make his home here. This decision was clinched by the arrival here yesterday of Mrs. Gasnier and her 7-year-old daughter Maude, a little linguist whom her "cher papa" terms his mascot.

The Gasniers will live in Glendale convenient to Mr. Gasnier's new $250,000 studio, where the Lew Cody concern makes pictures, and the James W. Horne company will today start "shooting" "The Third Eye," a fifteen-part drama with Warner Gland and Eileen Percy as stars.

SOLDIER SHOT IN ROOMING-HOUSE ROW.

Robert Bilbrey, aged 24 years, a soldier stationed at Fort MacArthur, was shot through the right arm early yesterday morning when he is alleged to have attempted to assault Thomas Geraldi, proprietor of a rooming-house at 502 South Main street. Detectives Curtis and Romero of the Flying Squadron found the wounded man lying in an alley beside the house and took him to the Receiving Hospital. He and another soldier, G. H. Hunt, were later booked on charges of assault and drunkenness. Later they were turned over to the military authorities at the Harbor. Geraldi was released, as all witnesses to the shooting stated that it was done in self-defense.

ASKS REPORT ON SUBSCRIPTIONS.

All Fleet Fund Blanks Should be Returned at Once, Says Finance Head.

W. D. Woolwine, chairman of the Fleet Finance Committee, issued a call yesterday to every man who is out with a subscription blank for the fleet entertainment fund to return them immediately to the Merchants' National Bank, Sixth and Spring streets. It is imperative that this instruction be obeyed by all men soliciting funds for the fleet, so that a report may be made, Mr. Woolwine stated in issuing the call.

FINISHING FACTORY TO BE BUILT HERE.

PLANT FOR DEVELOPMENT OF FILMS TO BE ERECTED BY GEORGE STECKEL.

A central finishing laboratory for the development of films is soon to be established by him in Hollywood, it was announced yesterday by George Steckel, head of the recently-incorporated Steckel studios. In this central finishing plant all work will be under the personal direction of Mr. Steckel, who stated that branch studios will be opened in San Francisco, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Riverside, Bakersfield and other cities. New processes and inventions will be used, particularly large motion-picture films, each exposure being eighty inches square. The exposures will be made by electricity, instead of by daylight. The electrical machine to be employed makes each exposure in one-hundredth part of a second, thereby assuring natural expression, it is stated. Each night the films made in the branch studios will be expressed to Los Angeles and developed at the central plant.

Mr. Steckel is a firm believer in the bright future of the Southland. "I have watched the growth of Southern California for the last thirty years," he said, "and during the last two years there has been an increase of 60 per cent. of high-class families settling in this section of the State."

The Steckel studios now employ about twenty-five people and expect to employ fifty more within the near future. The following artists have been engaged as heads of departments. Operating, George Steckel. W. F. Snyder, and F. Dumontier; printing and developing, J. E. Green and Mrs. Maud E. Hyatt; engraving, Charles Sotir, G. W. Walters and J. F. Stork; etching, Helen M. Littlefield; carbon department, J. B. Buchanan; color department, R. U. Pinaard; finishing department, Misses Laura M. D. Mitchell and Kate Russel; finance, Mrs. L. Battistella; reception-room, Mrs. Jane J. Phelps and Misses Marian McCarthy, Bess Howarth and Marjorie Mier; children's department, Mmes. A. M. Craig and E. M. Strauhal and Misses Cecelia Carter and Irene Munch.

FOR HILL DIVORCE.

Files Complaint in St. Paul for Wife Now in Los Angeles.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Aug. 3.—The complaint in the divorce suit against Walter J. Hill, youngest son of the late James J. Hill, railway magnate, has been served on the defendant by the attorneys for Mrs. Dorothy Barrows Hill, it was announced today. The trial will be held in St. Paul, probably this fall, and not in California, as has been reported.

Reports of a quiet settlement between the attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Hill, whereby Mrs. Hill was to receive a settlement of $1,000,000 when the divorce is granted, were denied today.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill have one daughter, Dorothy, aged 10 years. Mrs. Hill and her daughter are now living at Los Angeles.

TO MAKE IT HOLIDAY.

Mayor Plans General Celebration for Fleet Saturday.

Those who will not be actively engaged in welcoming the officers and sailors of the Pacific Fleet next Saturday will, in all probability, be waving flags, shouting and otherwise celebrating the event. According to information given out yesterday, Mayor Snyder will, this morning, ask the consent of the City Council to proclaim next Saturday a holiday in Los Angeles, in order to give city and county officials, as well as men engaged in various business enterprises, an opportunity to celebrate the arrival of the fleet. The Mayor will also ask the Council's permission to issue a proclamation for a general decorating day, on which the merchants of Los Angeles will be asked to drape the fronts of their stores with bunting and to hoist Old Glory to the tops of the flagpoles.

WOULD BUILD SPURS TO GOODYEAR PLANT.

Application was filed Saturday with the State Railroad Commission by the Pacific Electric for authority to construct two tracks at grade across Central avenue to serve the big plant soon to be built by the Goodyear Rubber Company, on its Ascot Park property.

"Spirit of the Air."

Miss Violet Oliver,

Snapped as she was breaking a bottle of Pacific Ocean water at the dedication of the flag pole at the Thomas H. Ince Aviation Field yesterday.

FOR TRANS-PACIFIC DASH.

Venice Honors Thomas H. Ince, Promoter of Sundown Prize Flight.

After a day given over to aviation evolutions staged by army aviators and flyers from the Thomas H. Ince Aviation Field, Miss Violet Oliver, a Venice High School girl, who was chosen by Venice officials to represent the "Spirit of the Air" descended from an airplane, late yesterday, and broke a bottle of Pacific Ocean water at the foot of the aerial flagstaff to officially dedicate the field to the advancement of aviation and the success of the proposed trans-Pacific flight.

Early in the day a fleet of four government hydroplanes from North Island, San Diego, arrived off the Venice pier and were on exhibition all during the day. In the afternoon the flyers staged a series of tricks of the air which furnished thrills for the several thousand spectators. Many passengers from among the visitors were given a taste of aerial navigation in the government planes.

The selection of Miss Oliver as the sponsor of the occasion was kept a secret until late in the afternoon and her flight was used as a startling climax to a day of thrills. The young woman circled the field several times, while a thousand spotlights lighted her course. The flight was made to demonstrate the illuminating facilities which are a permanent part of the first official aircraft landing on the Pacific Coast.

The brilliancy of the 2000 lights of the field is enhanced by a bright red illumination composed of letters spelling "Thomas H. Ince" which stand several feet high at the top of an enormous circle which crowns a massive tower.

Situated around the field are twelve towers twenty-five feet high, each one of which sends out a light of 2200 candle power, outdoing the night for thousands of feet beyond their own territory. The many spotlights, each one of which has candle power equalling 5000 watts, send up such a gigantic flood of light it is said that the reflection was not only visible in the Bay District, but in Los Angeles and surrounding cities as well.

During the dedicatory exercises rules governing the contest for a prize of $50,000 for the first trans-Pacific flight, which has been offered by Mr. Ince, were made clear and the fact announced that the aero clubs of San Francisco and New York are co-operating to make the event a success.

Twenty-five of the leading business men of Venice, headed by Mayor Coles, tendered Mr. Ince a banquet during the evening.

SOUTHLAND MAY GET NAVY YARD.

Two Admirals in San Diego Expected to Make Important Recommendations.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 3.—Facilities at all existing Pacific Coast navy yards are to be enlarged and there is a strong probability that one or more additional yards may have to be established to meet the needs of the Pacific fleet, according to Rear-Admiral John S. McCain, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department.

Admiral McCain and Commander James C. Hilton arrived here from Washington last evening and were joined by Rear-Admiral C. W. Parks, chief of the bureau of yards and docks.

The mission of the two admirals in San Diego, before going to San Francisco where they will make further inspections for recommendations, is important for all Southern California. Both officers will inspect all naval works here for information which will be presented to Secretary Daniels when he arrives Wednesday.

Congressman Kettner has entertained Admirals McCain and Parks since their coming here.

TRUCK COMPANY TAKES OVER AUTO BUS LINE.

An order issued Saturday by the State Railroad Commission authorizes the transfer by the A. R. G. Bus Company to the Moreland Truck Company of the permits under which the bus company has been operating in Southern California. The permits are subsequently to be transferred to Will R. Forker, an official of the Moreland Company, who is to continue the operation of the motor cars over the various routes until such time as a permanent disposition of the transportation lines is made. The transfer is due to the fact that the bus company is heavily indebted to the truck company.

Following is a list of the routes traversed by the A. R. G. Company: Between Los Angeles and Ontario, over the Valley boulevard; between Ontario and Riverside; between San Bernardino and Redlands; between Ontario and San Bernardino, and between Pomona and Chino.

TALK ON PEACE TREATY.

The peace treaty will be the topic of a public lecture to be given at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the University of Southern California, by Dr. Edward H. Krehbiel, professor of history at Stanford University, and a member of the summer faculty of University of Southern California. Thursday afternoon at the same hour Dr. Richard Burton, professor of English literature in the University of Minnesota, will give the last of his public lectures when he will read from his own works.

ATTRACTED BY CITY'S GROWTH.

Big Insurance Company Opens Headquarters Here.

All Pacific Coast Business to be Handled Locally.

Is Nation's Fastest Growing Territory, Manager Says.

The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, has established Pacific Coast offices with headquarters in Los Angeles and has named one of its directors, H. G. Everett, formerly of Des Moines, Ia., as coast manager with offices on the tenth floor of the Garland Building.

"The wonderful growth of Los Angeles induced us to locate the headquarters for the Western States here," said Manager Everett. "In order to give the people of Los Angeles an idea of the stability and standing of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, I quote the following facts:

"The Lincoln Life is an old-line—legal reserve life insurance company, which operates under, and is governed by State insurance laws. According to the 1918 Insurance Department reports, there are about 213 such old-line, legal reserve life insurance companies in the United States. Only fifty-seven have more assets (mortgages, bonds, cash, etc., carried at the valuation and approved by the State Insurance Department) than the Lincoln; consequently 154 companies have a less amount of assets than the Lincoln; or, in other words, are smaller companies.

"There are thirty-five companies which have more insurance in force than the Lincoln, consequently there are 176 companies that have less insurance in force than the Lincoln. There are eighty-two companies older in years and twelve companies the same age, 117 being younger than the Lincoln Life.

"The Lincoln Life has more than $90,000,000 of insurance in force and its officers estimate that by November the total will have reached $100,000,000. During the coming winter the California and Pacific Coast business is expected largely to add to the total—all of which new business from the West will go through Los Angeles with premiums and the payments to widows and orphans will all pass through local financial channels."

The Pacific Coast headquarters were located here because Mr. Everett says that this territory is the fastest growing, and the liveliest in the entire West, and in addition, there is no other place in the world in which he would prefer to live.

Mr. Everett was for twenty-three years first vice-president and agency manager of the Central Life Assurance Society of the United States whose total insurance is over $75,000,000. He says he is lining up a large force of strong men to be associated with him on the coast in promoting the affairs of the company. He will bring into the business life of Los Angeles a large number of progressive men and their families.

PIRATE TALE'S AN ADDLED ONE.

Story of Kidnaping and Sea Dash Stirs Avalon.

However, Caught One Turns Out to be the Catcher.

Austrians to Face Fishing Violation Charge.

A story which at first report was filled with all the elements of piracy, coupled with the kidnaping of an officer of the law and the putting to sea with him in a power boat, will have its culmination this morning in the Justice of the Peace Court at Avalon. Santa Catalina Island, when five and possibly one other Austrian fisherman will be arraigned on a charge of violating the fish and game laws.

The fishing craft Columbia, belonging to the Van Camp Packing Company of the harbor, was anchored off Catalina, Saturday night, and was boarded by Special Game Wardens James J. Bales and Lawrence Mott. The officers found what is said to be evidence that the game laws were being violated and Mott returned to Catalina for a warrant. When he had left the boat the fishermen lifted anchor and steamed to the harbor, taking the other deputy with them.

Officers of the Sheriff's office were notified by wireless and several Deputies were sent to the harbor, under rush orders, fearing the game warden would come to harm on the fishing boat. They found the boat at dock with the crew of five men sleeping and the warden and a local officer at the port on watch. The captain of the craft and one of the crew were missing.

On advice from the authorities at Avalon the men on the boat were taken into custody and brought to Los Angeles, where they gave their names at the County Jail as Tony Faldrich, Mike Icak, Sam Carr, Stephen Ivancia and John Ivancia. They will be taken to Catalina this morning. S. Alvetich, captain of the boat, is expected to be taken into custody by harbor officers in time to accompany the members of his crew to the island for trial.

FOR EXTENDED VISIT.

James R. Offield, son-in-law of William Wrigley, his wife and children arrived here last night for an extended visit in Southern California. They are registered at the Alexandria.

U. F. Newlin, room clerk at the Alexandria, was all smiles at the hotel yesterday afternoon and was passing cigars around the lobby. The reason is a boy was born to Mrs. Newlin at the Thornycroft Hospital at Glendale yesterday. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

VI—SHOULD THE HUSBAND HAVE CONTROL OF THE SAVINGS?

A husband who is generally credited with batting 1.000 per cent. in the matrimonial league was asked who, in his opinion, should look after the family savings.

"I don't know what other folks do," was his answer, "but in our igloo we play it fifty-fifty. I take care of my savings and the wife takes care of hers.

"We agreed on a division of the profits. She has a certain allowance for personal and household expenses. Anything she can save out of that belongs to her.

"I understand she has quite a bankroll, though I have never asked her to verify the report. I don't want to know how much she has saved. That's her business. She never asks me how much I have saved. That's my business.

"If she wants to buy something and decides it is up to me to be the purchaser she asks me about it. I tell her whether or not I can afford to gratify her wish.

"The wife knows about how much we are worth financially and how far we can go with the expense account. Last year she saved more money than I did, but I believe I have her beaten so far this year.

"It's a pretty fair way to play the game if the wife is the sort of woman you can hand a hundred-dollar bill without wondering which hat shop is going to get the money."

Here is a new way to solve a highly important question.

Too bad it cannot be applied to every household. What a lot of argument, of accusations and recriminations it would save.

The majority of husbands are not so liberal.

For some unsolved reason husbands select themselves for the important post of comptroller of family currency.

They institute a family savings bank.

They incorporate.

They see to it that every member of the family is a stockholder.

And they appoint themselves president, cashier, teller, sweeper out, general manager, general utility and general in command.

Why this husband-control of home savings has gone on through the years is a matter of mystery the same as the double moral code and the one-track voting system.

Wives simply endured because they had been told, by generations of husbands, this was the thing to do.

"Women don't know anything about money," scoffs man. He knows he is bluffing, but he figures if he can put it over the pot will be his.

Husbands pull this ancient and withered wheeze so often that wives, in time, come to believe they speak the truth. In fact, husbands very often convince themselves.

If you are a husband, and are in control of the money your wife has so laboriously, so conscientiously helped you put aside, do you go to her, consult, get her advice, agree before you spend those joint savings?

Here is the real danger of leaving winter's store in the hands of a man caretaker.

A man is so accustomed to being head of the household, to being the little czar of his domestic domain, he never stops to ask the consent of his consort before dipping into the family coffers.

The situation arises where he needs some ready cash, sees a good opportunity to invest. He throws the savings into the breach. If he is lucky it comes back, doubled, trebled. If not, good-by, savings.

And the unfair part of it is, the woman, who has skimped here, short-rationed there, gone without when she might have had, and turned her head when she was tempted to spend—that loyal partner has not so much as a soprano peep in the disposal of the nest egg.

If the man of the family does all the saving there is no reason in the world why the wife should have access to the fruits thereof.

Eventually she is bound to benefit by the thriftiness of her spouse.

As husband piles up his fortune, expands, mounts the ladder of success, he carries his wife with him. He carries her from the scrawny flat somewhere in the crowded districts to the roomy apartment in a more prosperous section, to a pretentious duplex in a fashionable quarter, to a marble house on the avenue.

Sooner or later the wife is coming in for her portion of husband's savings. Fortunate is she to possess a man wise enough to save without being miserly, big enough to be a good fellow without being a spendthrift.

Many a husband finds himself forced into the position of censor of savings. He is willing to share the responsibility, the pleasure which comes with building up a safe and sane future for his family, but he dares not.

One matrimonial partner intrusted the savings to his wife for months before he discovered she was a social gambler and that his hard-earned, carefully hoarded cash was being thrown across the bridge table.

"I might have gone on making the same mistake indefinitely," he told afterward, "had it not been for a slight business reverse. I needed some quick cash. I went to my wife. At first she was indignant, or rather, being a natural actress, as are all women, she feigned indignation. She absolutely refused to allow me to borrow money from the family fund, insisted the money we had saved must not be touched under any circumstances.

"Finally, when it came to a showdown, when the necessity for quick action on my part was impressed on her to the point where she did not dare refuse, she broke down and confessed.

"There had been a 'friendly' game going on for some time in the house of an acquaintance. All the players were women who had nothing to do but have a good time. They were wasters, pure and simple.

"After their husbands left for business in the morning they went to 'luncheon' at the home of the game-keeper. Not much food was consumed, though they paid heavily for the privilege of lunching.

"Several of the players had lost heavily. One had pawned everything but her wedding ring and had given as a pretext to her husband a story about having taken her jewelry to the shop to be reset.

"Our savings were gone.

"The wife told me, between sobs. If I had delayed my discovery just two or three days she was sure she would have been able to retrieve. She had a 'hunch.'

"The chances are the 'hunch' would have eaten up our surplus for the rest of our lives, because that is the way 'hunches' run.

"Anyway, I removed the temptation. The 'friendly' game is minus a player and I am in the money that would have gone to feed the hungry 'kitty.'"

Husbands, if your wives are clothes worshipers, if they are confirmed pleasure seekers, if they are addicted to the musical click of the chips, or show undue interest in the stock page of the morning paper, stay at the helm.

Keep command of the matrimonial ship.

Lock the family savings bank and take the key with you.

There is one stock even you cannot afford to gamble in.

That stock is FUTURES.

RESULTS from physical training and deep breathing exercises with mineral baths at Arrowhead Springs will surprise you. Trained experts for both men and women.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Q.: Does the government furnish tombstones for former soldiers? E. M. M.

A.: Every man who was ever in the Army is entitled to a tombstone free of charge when he dies. Requests for these tombstones should be made of the Cemeterial Branch of the War Department, Washington, D. C., together with proof of the service of the deceased.

Q.: Which was the greater disaster, the Chicago or the San Francisco fire? C. W.

A.: The Chicago fire burned over an area of 2100 acres, consumed 17,450 buildings, left 70,000 people homeless and caused a property loss of $190,000,000. The San Francisco fire burned over 1700 acres of ground, destroyed 6000 buildings, left 265,000 people homeless, caused a property loss of $350,000,000, killed 452 persons and injured 1500. So it is apparent that the San Francisco disaster was the greater of the two.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Word from Indiana.

WINDFALL (Tipton county, Ind.) July 22. — [To the Editor of The Times:] The League of Nations is a criminal document—a league of war. If the United States joins the League of Nations crepe should be hung upon every doorknob in the United States. The League of Nations would prove the United States a copperhead in tall grass. Down with the League of Nations — up with America First. Our Monroe Doctrine, our Constitution, our sovereignty, thank God, shall never by my consent be turned over for interpretation and judgment to any people other than to the American people.

The League of Nations makes us a colony of Great Britain and an easy prey for Japan — See Daniel, Joel, etc. Let the United States stand jointly with the Allies as to the enforcement of peace with the Central Powers and go no further. Were I in favor of a League of Nations I would have a league with republics only. The strength of any man is his individuality, and the strength of any nation is its nationality. The United States is the hub of all nations.

The United States lives beside the road, and is liberty enlightening the world. Outside of the League of Nations our cause is just. We will defend Old Glory. If the cause is unjust we will not be called upon to defend the unholy thing. The League of Nations is a fake, is against the warnings of the Old Testament and the New Testament; is against the security of liberty, of progress and of peace and of prosperity. The League of Nations would get us into a world of trouble.

"Can two (much less many nations) walk together except they be agreed?"—Amos 3:3.

The League of Nations is against our nationality as a nation — like trying to work a horse, a mule and an ox all together—Let the United States of America be a nation of the United States, for the United States and by the United States.

The plain fact is, Carl, that all decent people shall call the Germans by their proper name "Huns" until the end of the world. As Jesus says in Matthew 24:9,10: "And ye shall be hated of all the for My name's sake."

MINES PAY HALF OF TAXES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Aug. 1.—Again, under this year's valuation, the mines of Arizona will pay more than half the State's taxes, the value of the property of the producing mines having been set by the tax commission at $483,184,526, a sum which happens to coincide very nearly to the gross State assessment, three years ago, on all property. This year there has been a gross raise of about $7,000,000 in the mine assessment on producing properties. Ray Consolidated has been raised $2,000,000; Copper Queen, $5,000,000, and United Verde, $1,000,000, whereas Inspiration has been dropped $3,000,000 and the Old Dominion a large sum. These changes were based mainly upon period production figures.

That prosperity is ahead for the Arizona copper mines is indicated by the decision of the Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress in agreeing to raise miners 75 cents a day, giving a basic wage to the miner of $5.25 a day. The mines are short of skilled men, but the approach of cool weather undoubtedly will bring many from Montana and Colorado, to which States many workmen drifted during the labor troubles in Arizona a year or more ago. There appears assurance that the regular unions will refuse any further connection with the I.W.W. element, a change indicated at Miami, where a wobbly leader was arrested as a vagrant after a campaign for $4 and six hours a day.

GOOD ORE'S FOUND BEYOND THE RED TOP.

STRIKE THRILLS OLD MINING DISTRICT; BONANZA SHOOTS FOLLOW DEVELOPMENT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Aug. 1.—The first discovery of commercial ore ever made in the Goldfield district north of the Red Top property is announced from the Crackerjack mine. On the 400-foot level the vein has widened to eighteen feet, of which eight feet along the footwall ranges from $24 to $30 per ton. The entire vein shows good values, with a little bismuth, copper and zinc occurring.

Sinking of the main winze to a depth of forty feet below the 400-foot level is advancing and will give an additional working depth of 100 feet on the vein, which has a flat dip to the east of 30 deg. Fifteen men are employed and this force is to be immediately increased. Operations are under the personal supervision of President H. G. McMahon.

Between the Red Top and Crackerjack mines the formation is badly shattered, owing to the influence of the Columbia Mountain fault, and it had been the relief of many local operators that the main Goldfield vein system reached its northerly limits in the Red Top. The Crackerjack discovery conclusively proves that the ore body comes in strongly beyond the faulted area and opens possibilities of tremendous importance to the northern part of the district, it is declared.

The opening of what is said to be a huge deposit of shipping ore in the Red Top mine of the Goldfield Development Company has electrified Goldfield. The second great blast on the 200-foot level shot down 8000 tons of ore averaging $28.80 per ton, having a total value of $142,500, it is stated. Preliminary sampling indicated the great deposit in the Red Top averaged $7 per ton, but the grade of ore has steadily improved with developments, and bonanza shoots are appearing.

The work in the Red Top has materially increased the resources of the Goldfield Development Company, and the development of high-grade ore in the Mohawk and Florence mines already assures an immense tonnage of rich ore for the great Consolidated mill, which will go into commission the first week of August, with a capacity of 1200 tons daily. So satisfactory have recent developments been that the management is sanguine of disbursing one or more substantial dividends before the year ends, it is stated.

COPPER ADVANCES CAUSE ACTIVITY.

WELL-KNOWN PROPERTY IS SUBJECT TO FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 1. — The well-known Narragansett property in Helvetia district is under foreclosure proceedings, a suit having been filed by Albert Steinfeld & Co. for collection of four notes made by the corporation, aggregating $800,000. Involved are sixteen mining claims at Rosemont. The property has been inactive for some time.

New Cornelia's flotation test mill is about ready for operation, to determine the best method for handling the Ajo suphides in a projected concentrator of at least 5000 tons daily capacity. It is told that the company plans also a reverberatory furnace, to save transportation of the concentrates to the Douglas smelter. Working the sulphides will double the production of the camp, from which the copper now mainly is in electrolytic cathodes, precipitated from surface carbonates and oxides.

The American Smelting and Refining Company is reported preparing for resumption of work on its Silver Bell property, the price and demand for copper now warranting shipment of ores to the company's Hayden smelter. There is no expectation that the sasco smelter will be blown in again till such time as the Hayden works may be overburdened with ore offerings. It has been running light ever since the Ray Consolidated cut down on ore production.

At the Silver Virgin, a property mainly owned by Cochise county miners, development is reported by 10,000 tons of ore that will average above $58.

The Red Hills group near Florence has been bonded, for a reported consideration of $550,000, to a Globe-Miami syndicate represented by C. E. Calkins.

TO "THE TIMES."

ye shall be hated of all the nations for My name's sake."

LEST WE FORGET.

Act or Keep Still.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] High cost of living is the all-absorbing question of the day. If you allow the producers and owners of the country to form combinations, as one congressman recently suggested, to thus eliminate any competition among producers, and at the same time allow labor to combine, and thus do away with any competition in that line, and at the same time stop emigration of laborers, so that the same "time increase in per capita of currency four times over," you think you can hold down the cost of living by jumping on the little corner grocer, who works fifteen hours in a day and then gives one out of each ten of his gross profit? Why not look this matter squarely in the face as sensible people and act accordingly, or keep still about it?

AN OBSERVER.

Suicide!

LOS ANGELES, July [illegible], 1919.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Chief of Police George [illegible] is exercising so much diligence in cleaning up the city, it would be a good idea for him to get busy in his own department and put a stop to some of the petty graft, that is a disgrace to all self-respecting persons, particularly because of its exceeding smallness.

There was a raid on some Japanese stores Tuesday morning, and Tuesday afternoon, a large police officer, who would have looked better on a business end of a pick or shovel, came out of the Police Station carrying a small Chinese pipe, the kind that every Chinese laundryman smokes. Now the police officer may have bought that pipe, but following so closely on the raid, and the fact that the officer left the Police Station where same and such pipes were held, looks funny.

It is a funny supplement to read about the way the police grab the fruit peddlers, and the traffic cops get in on the petty stuff, but how often take a street car at a corner where there is a traffic cop and in the afternoon he "grafts" a bouquet from the wholesale wagon of some Sycamore paper. Maybe this officer gives this wagon the right of way, and possibly the paper is a philanthropic paper and has pity on the poor policeman.

If O. Henry lived here now he would add another chapter to his stories, "Little Grafters."

Worth-while steel roofing

WITHOUT substance, steel roofing will not last. "Substance", is expressed in terms of clean, open hearth metal of ample thickness. Yet the cost is less per year of service than the cost of cheaper tissue paper kind. We recommend 26 U.S.G. for ordinary use and heavier for mills and factories.

Vismera corrosion resisting steel roofing is of course the best investment. Its ability to resist rust and corrosion gives it exceptional long life.

SOLDIER HITS AT PARK HEAD.

was willing that I return to my former position.

During this interview with Mr. Reese, I sent a written communication to Superintendent of Parks Hare, detailing my conversation with Mr. Reese and the latter's willingness to surrender my position to me, as requested Supt. Shearer to have same read at the commission meeting before action was taken upon my application, so that the commission might be advised of Mr. Reese's attitude. I am informed that at the meeting of July 30, Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt refused to permit my letter to be presented. At this meeting, July 30 the park board passed a resolution of Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt that Mr. Reese be retained as foreman of Griffith Park.

This appears to me to be absolutely unjust and in direct violation of the Park Commission's pledge to returned soldiers. I am appealing to your honorable board for correction of this unfair action and discrimination. I will be present at your next meeting, and will welcome any opportunity to assist your board in getting at the facts responsible for the unfortunate and unpleasant situation which has arisen. I trust that in view of the circumstances, and the precedent involved, you may see fit to fix a time for a hearing on this matter, and have the Park Commission in attendance also, so that a fair and final determination of the subject may be had.

"Thanking you in advance for your kindness, I am,

"Your most respectfully,

[Signed] "C. B. WORTHEN."

"Our position," said Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt last night, "is that if the park board finds it can get a position filled in a more satisfactory manner by another person other than the one holding the position, it is up to us to do so, providing we give the party holding the position an opportunity to work in some other capacity.

"There has been no foreman either at Echo or Elysian Park, and the board has asked Park Superintendent Shearer to give Mr. Worthen a place at one of these parks instead of sending him back to Griffith Park."

William Cline, a member of the Park Commission, stated that he did not regard as a closed matter Mr. Worthen's application for reinstatement as foreman at Griffith Park; that the board had not taken decisive action in that regard.

PROHIBITION PROHIBITS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Aug. 3.—Prohibition apparently prohibits, at least so far as Visalia is concerned. The monthly report of City Marshal Rowland shows that for the thirty-one days in July the city paid but $3 for food for prisoners of all classes, a material reduction as compared with the previous month, and only a small fraction of the charges for a year ago.

Meet "Pash", Old Boy, 'n' Vice 'n' Virtue.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Out on the Lot with "Everywoman."

"HELLO, Passion, old boy. How are you today? Poor, dear old Pash! He was out roller skating last night! He's just crazy about it—Pash is—we call him Pash for short—Irving Cummings, you know. Got a fall, yesterday, too. I says to Pash only yesterday morning, I says, 'Look out, Pash, old scout, you're going to bust a rib doing those fancy curves if you don't watch out!' But, Pash went right on putting on his skates and grumbling. 'Oh, pshaw,' says he, 'it's too bad if a guy can't go a-skating without being jumped on all the time by his so-called friends!'

"Well, if here ain't Vice! Hello, Vice, dearie! How's your ma? Saw you working for the Salvation Army the other day. How'd you come out? . . . Forty dollars! Well, I'll tell the world that's good! Bebe Daniels, you know. Vice! Ha, ha! Nicest child in the world—never goes anywhere without her ma!

"Say, Lust, still drinking weak hot water with your meals? Aw, be a sport once in a while and fill up on the demon tea!

"There's Edythe Chapman Neill and James Neill over there—Truth and Nobody, you know. Nobody is married to Truth! Good joke, eh, what? Noah Beery is Bluff—no beer is bluff—ha, ha! Get it?"

No, it wasn't a meeting of the John Bunyan bunch, but a scene in the hunger cure adjoining the Lasky studio, where the cast of "Everywoman," which George Melford is filming for Famous Players-Lasky, eat lunch every day. They call each other and everybody calls 'em by their character names. It's "the Studio Oracle" speaking.

"Hello, Youth," went on the Oracle, as a pretty, round-faced child made her appearance at the next table. "How's your bull terrier? Learning to cook, are you? Ah, that sounds suspicious. What's his name? That's Clara Horton. Dear, dear! It's hard to catch 'em young enough so they ain't married in this fillum business. Had a hard time getting an unmarried Youth. Finally they got Clara Horton—15 years old! And yet Everywoman—Violet Heming—isn't married! 'Course, she's very young, still, and if she were a picture star instead of a stage star she'd doubtless have two sets of calling cards by this time! Good thing, too, I say—home life and all that!

"Oh, Modesty! So glad you're among us again today. Going swimming with us tomorrow? . . . Margaret Loomis, my dear, and the sweetest girl in the world, probably. . . . But I will say for Innocence, who went swimming with us yesterday, she's gotta knit a couple of rows on her bathing suit yet, I'll say, to get by the censors. . . . Oh, and there's Monte Blue—Love! Love is right. Monte is always in love—not always with the same girl, but always in love. And everybody loves him, too, I'll say that, from the leading lady down to Wealth's bull terrier pup. Wealth is Theodore Roberts—and I'll bet he will be, too, what with his wife saving his money and him selling a fresh crop of Airedales every few months.

"Purity has a headache! Just will stay up and dance at those late parties! Another engagement ring, Purity? Who's the incumbent? . . . Tully Marshall is Puff, the press agent. Yes, he's qualified. He's been playing hold-up men and crafty villains for years! . . . Don't know whether Flattery is going to be able to be out today or not—Raymond Hatton, you know. He's awfully outspoken and yesterday — well, never mind, here he comes! I'll bet the other fellow looks worse'n he does. . . . Jealousy got married the other day and hasn't been really interested in jealing since. . . . My goodness, but Virtue got sore this morning when Age—that's Robert Brower—walked off with the scene! . . . Yes, that's Dissipation, over there—Fred Huntly. They got H. Gibson-Gawland first, but he looked so healthy they had to fire him. Huntly's a regular athlete, but always looks pale and interesting. . . . Charles Ogle plays Time. Don't know why. Doesn't know a thing about time—never on time—always seems to think he can make time! . . . Clarence Geldert is the Auctioneer. Oughta be, too—is a regular auction hound. Buys stuff and gives it away—and, speaking of Stuff, Jay Dwiggins is it in this show.

"And here comes Beauty! Beauty is right—Wanda Hawley! Sincere beauty, too—no paint, now powder! Oh, yes, Beauty is dieting, of course—honey wafer and a drop of dew again today, Beauty?"

Just then along came George Melford, director.

"Well, I'll say there's a lot of characters could be added to the bunch," he moaned, as he dropped wearily into a seat in the corner, pulled his hat over his eyes and ordered ham-and-two-turned-over and gazed darkly out at his big crowd of stars.

"And their names," suggested the Studio Oracle sweetly, "if they were apropos would be Cagey and Always-Late-on-the-Lot and I-Wouldn't-Work-for-No-Such-Money and Hot-Air and Grab-the-Scene and—"

"Oh, say not so" said Mr. Melford, as Beauty and Vice both smiled at him at once. "Oh, My Gawd, no! Just Brotherly Love and Take-the-Scene and You-Look-Lovely-Darling-How-do-I-Look and Stuff—"

"What?" said Stuff, turning quickly. "Were you speaking to me, Mr. Melford?"

"No, no!" signed Melford. "As you were, Stuff, as you were!"

BURGLARS ARE ACTIVE.

Timely Arrival of Family Scares Intruders Away.

Only the timely arrival of the family saved furs, silk gowns and other articles valued at $1600 when burglars made a hasty departure from the home of Mrs. Henry Albertson, 4025 South Normandie avenue, early yesterday morning.

Entrance to the house was gained through the rear door. The burglars were at work when the occupants of the house arrived. The intruders fled, leaving the gowns and other valuables on the front porch. Jewelry valued at $75 and $5 in cash was the total of the loot taken.

Probably the same burglar party paid a visit to the home of J. G. Hollman, 3958 South Normandie avenue, with even less success. The house was thoroughly ransacked when the occupants returned, but nothing was reported missing, according to the University police.

Burglars also gained entrance to the home of S. J. Greenhut, 2086 West Thirty-first street. A camera was stolen.

SOLDIER FINDS MOTHER DEAD.

Siberian Fighter Delayed by Frozen Limbs; Is Day Too Late in Homecoming.

Frozen feet and hands kept Corp. Harry V. Cole, a returned soldier of the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, who arrived here Saturday, from seeing his mother again in this life. While he lay in the Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Mrs. Hannah Mary Cole, 60 years of age, waited for him at her home, 2110 Oak street. When he reached here Saturday morning, she had been dead forty-two hours.

Mrs. Cole had been in poor health since the sudden death of her husband, Nicholas Cole, Sr., two years ago. During a year and a half her son served in Co. M, Thirty-first Infantry.

There will be solemn requiem high mass for her at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Vincent's Catholic Church, Rev. William Hughes officiating. Interment will be at Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Cole leaves seven children, Mrs. M. C. Schulte, Mrs. A. P. Hall and Gertrude, Nicholas C., Harry V., Edna M. and Violet M. Cole, and a grand-daughter, Mary Eileen Hall.

GRANT AUTO STAGE IN SPITE OF PROTEST.

Overruling the protests of the Pacific Electric, the State Railroad Commission Saturday granted auto stage permits as follows:

H. M. Tolson, to operate freight service between Torrance and Los Angeles; Acme Transfer Company, to operate express and baggage service between Los Angeles and Venice and Santa Monica; Frank J. Barton, to operate express and baggage service between Santa Monica, Venice and Los Angeles, and Guy McGuire, to operate between Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice.

The electric road objected to the granting of the permits on the ground that it was fully capable of taking care of the business sought by the auto transfer people. The commission held that the pick-up and delivery service offered by the auto-truck men, coupled with the rates offered, out-weighed the protests.

SEARCHLIGHTS.

Representative Blanton wants an investigation of the use of government money in connection with the Denamore report on the Mooney case. When we have to investigate our investigators things are in a bad way; but possibly it helps clear things.

MILKING THE PINT.

When milk was selling for five cents a quart the dairyman gave tickets which enabled customers to get a pint at the proper rate of 2½ cents. Now it is proposed to advance milk to 16 cents a quart, but the pint is to be boosted to 9 cents, which is at the rate of 18 cents a quart. Why should it be worth so much more proportionately to handle a pint now than in the good old days? Of course, the milk man can offer you a reason, but is it a good one?

UNDER THE FLAG.

In connection with the evidence in his libel suit it appears that Henry Ford had in mind the introduction of a flag of all nations, which might or might not take the place of George Cohan's well-known "Stars and Stripes." Henry's flag was primarily to be symbolic of the sixty-odd nationalities represented in his factory plant. To indicate his own unselfish patriotism it is interesting to know that the design approved did not even show the well-known Ford radiator cap.

RUNNING THE EARTH.

If the nations of the world get together on a programme of collective purchasing, distribution and price-fixing the speculators and profiteers will be themselves to blame. The spectacle of Herbert Hoover as the world's little, old price-fixer and distributor is quite within the realm of imagination. The men who have the best arguments against government interference in marketing and price-making are those who, by their own methods, make this government regulation seem both plausible and desirable.

NEEDS OF THE HOUR.

One result of the war has been to impose on the survivors, at least in the more highly-civilized countries, the duty of working harder. The war was largely responsible for the high cost of living, although prices were mounting before the struggle started. Living expenses are so high that many men have to seek extra work or labor longer hours in order to make both ends meet. It is also necessary to produce more merchandise in order to make up for what was lost when war deflected the natural course of industry.

Kings—the few of 'em that are left—as well as commoners realize this necessity and an important part of the speech of George of Great Britain at the Guildhall on the occasion of his receiving the City of London's congratulations on peace was devoted to it. King George may not have the happy speech-making facility with which Edward VII was gifted, but he has a direct way of talking and tells plain truths in a plain way.

He told the Britishers that their country urgently demands from every citizen economy in order to make the best use of the country's resources and strenuous and unremitting industry in order to insure the greatest possible production of necessary commodities. The King's remarks are well timed because, as cable dispatches state, the coal mines trouble, with its waste through lack of production and flooding, is not at an end and because there is still talk of more strikes in buffetted Britain.

ARE YOU WITH BERNHARDI?

Gen. Friederich A. J. von Bernhardi, advocate of never-ending strife, in a recent interview with a correspondent of The Times succeeded in epitomizing his gospel of hate into a few hundred words. Take from that interview two of Bernhardi's statements, place them side by side and you have the reason for the great war and also one of the principal reasons why the League of Nations refuses to admit Germany into the league until she shall have proved that she has had a change of mind and a change of heart. The statements referred to are as follows:

"It will prove impossible to bring the interests of different nations into such harmony that they will be inclined to sacrifice their separate advantages in order to promote the common interest."

"It is an utter mistake to believe that progress of humanity is possible in eternal peace."

Note this: In the first place Bernhardi declares that a successful League of Nations is an impossibility; and, secondly, he voices the opinion that, even if the league should succeed in establishing perpetual peace, such a condition would be undesirable!! And so it probably would be—to the German mind.

It was Germany's desire to rule the world that was the main cause of the most terrible struggle in human history. And it is this same Germany, saturated with the sophistry of selfishness, that would, if possible, destroy the League of Nations because such a league stands in the way of a possible "Deutschland uber alles." Bernhardi's doctrine is not new. The wonder is that the doctrine is advocated by loyal and apparently-sane American citizens.

A SHOCKING BOMB CRIME.

Maimed by a bomb placed on his porch early yesterday morning by murderous hands, Oscar Lawler, one of Los Angeles' foremost citizens and ever a stalwart in the front ranks of the forces of right, lies in an agony of suffering at the Sisters' Hospital, battling for very life against the odds of frightful burns and other injuries resulting from the explosion. Mrs. Lawler, also terribly injured, is a patient in the same hospital.

Forces of evil and of darkness have been working desperately in other cities of the United States and throughout the world; tragedies resulting from acts of lawless men have shocked other communities and now tragedy has come to Los Angeles in grim actuality. Swift as the flash of a shooting star came into the home of that devoted family, its members peacefully sleeping, a horror-striking explosion, a fierce burst of flame and a heroic struggle for life. The first waking thought of Mr. and Mrs. Lawler was for their little son in another part of the house, for they did not know he was being rescued by passers-by. Unable to pass through barriers of flame and crumbling woodwork Mrs. Lawler fell unconscious. By heroic efforts and with utter disregard of his own injuries, Mr. Lawler succeeded in lowering Mrs. Lawler from a window and then made another futile effort to reach his son. After he had leaped to the ground and was being ministered to, his only concern was for his wife and boy. Consider the other side of the picture! Hiding from the light and from retribution skulked some man or men, with hideous, murderous thoughts. The forces of evil arrayed against the forces of law and order.

To the stricken family The Times extends its heartfelt sympathy. It is a pity, but it is true that strong and brilliant men who stand forth fearlessly for right and fight crime vigorously and relentlessly are especially marked by assassins. Mr. Lawler's career has been conspicuously brilliant. As a prosecuting attorney in the United States courts here and as assistant to the Attorney-General in Washington and in private practice his rise has been rapid and his achievements have been many.

That the explosion was caused by a bomb willfully placed with murderous motive is proven beyond all conjecture. The bomb is declared by Federal and municipal experts to be similar to one discovered a year ago last December and which was supposed to have been exploded by a gang of dynamiters as an experiment. The possibility that the bombers acted as a part of a "reign of terror" decreed by arch-criminals against prominent men has been considered by investigating authorities; but the generally accepted conclusion is that some criminal or a confederate of a criminal convicted by Mr. Lawler is responsible. Both in Los Angeles and in Washington the attorney conducted cases in which the defendants were hardened and desperate men of vicious type. It was his duty to execute the mandates of justice, to safeguard the law and law-abiding people; but blind to the meanings of duty or right or decency, the justly convicted criminal blames not himself, but nurses a distorted and bitter hatred against the representatives of the law that he defies.

The investigation, begun soon after the crime, will be continued and every possible step taken to bring the perpetrators of the outrage to punishment. Sooner or later officers of the law believe the guilty ones will be taken. Many times before, assassins have struck in darkness and, as they believed, leaving no trail behind, but have been caught. The ringleaders of the awful crime that destroyed the old Times Building and killed twenty men got away for a time. The trail led detectives a long way and for a long period, but the villains were captured, brought to trial, and, when about to be convicted, confessed. In the interest of all that is right and for the welfare of the community and of the nation, it is to be fervently hoped that the guilty fiends in this case be speedily apprehended and their power for further evil deeds destroyed.

To prevent outrages against good citizens, to preserve the ideals of civilization and the upward trend of humanity are even more important than the punishment of criminals. Officers of the law work to both ends when they pick up the trail of villainy—for the arrest of one or more rascals who have succeeded in committing a crime prevents other crimes by breaking up sinister alliances.

In the final analysis, greater and farther-reaching than the vigilance of the police and the watchfulness of householders, the remedy for the spread of outlawry is for the men and women who stand for the forces of good and of right to make even more heroic efforts and greater sacrifices to overcome the forces of evil in the hearts of mankind. So long as evil dominates the hearts of men, so long as hideously destructive thoughts hold sway, just so long will there emanate destructive deeds of violence. Against such evil forces the warfare should be unceasing, and with ever-increasing determination and broader understanding.

"As a man thinketh, so is he."

The purifying process is slow, but is the only one that's sure. We must cleanse the meditations of men's hearts, as the Book of Common Prayer has it—our own and others.

WORTH STRIVING FOR.

From his wild eerie in the Silesian Mountains, Gen. Bernhardi, the militarist, the evangel of blood and iron, has sent forth a wail of woe and a cry for vengeance—woe for the peace forced upon his disillusioned countrymen and vengeance against those who tore the bandage from their eyes. He is still the same Bernhardi who wrote war messages in the days of peace—to teach Germany what she should and could do with her matchless military machine. All that she didn't and couldn't do has left him unrepentant and unashamed.

For Bernhardi the world is still a place where the strong will trample on the weak, where to be strong and ruthless is the only guarantee of a place in the sun. He takes it for granted that all nations will forever be bounded by the limited horizon of the past. As for the League of Nations and the hope of universal peace, he deems the one mere idealism and the other a dangerous Utopia.

Utopia? Yes, universal peace is a Utopian dream. Idealism? Yes, the League of Nations is the purest piece of idealism that ever entered the brain of man. So pure is it that gross materialism cannot comprehend it.

Every Utopia and every exalted ideal is, moreover, surrounded by dangers for those who would give them practical expression. But are they for this reason less worthy striving and working for, to live and, if it so be, to die for? Did not the Christ himself die for a Utopia that after two thousand years the world has not yet realized?

Bernhardi still sees only a Germany that through the hard years ahead will ever be thirsting for revenge. But because the world today is torn and distracted by the cruel wounds of a heart-breaking struggle under an old evil dispensation, must we believe that that old order can never be changed? Is not an ideal, however Utopian and far away, worth striving for? Is not a reasonable cure for ancient ills, novel though it be, worth trying?

Because an idea, excellent and beautiful, exists at present only in fancy and imagination, it does not follow that it cannot be taken from the skyline of thought and transplanted into the landscape of actuality. Botanists tell us that strange new flowers whose seeds have been buried for centuries under piled-up layers of cold brown soil may spring into life from the awful shell holes torn by the high-power explosives in the fields of Northern France.

So noble inspirations have been covered up for ages in the dry rottenness of ancient customs and conceits. It may take a world upheaval to bring to them the light and oxygen without which they cannot blossom and spread their color and fragrance over the bleak acres of humanity.

These are ideas we call Utopian, and life today has been brightened by the fulfillment of many dreams that ages ago were called fantastic and impractical. Life for our children may be similarly further illumined by the "more ideals" and "dangerous Utopias" which to the Bernhardis of the world are objects for scorn and derision.

To insure universal peace on earth is one of the oldest of human aspirations. No one in the dead past has been able to devise a plan to bring this world hope within measurable working distance. Therefore, argues Bernhardi, it is a dangerous dream and its accomplishment would prove fatal to mankind. Yet perhaps the world war was the high explosive that brought the unknown seed to the surface and perhaps the world league is the fructifying influence to give it growth and blossom. At least the ideal is worth trying to achieve, the Utopia is worth striving for, the experiment is worth putting to the test. Let us give the plan a fair trial, find out its defects and improve it as we go along.

ROADS TO REALISM.

An editorial in an eastern publication suggests that the moving-picture companies consider California scenery just about exhausted as a source of universal background. The paper adds: "It mattered little whether the scene was to be mountain or plain or sea or wooded dell. Somewhere within easy motoring distance of Los Angeles was a fairly adaptable view and it was used over and over again until patrons of the film drama have begun to recognize the very shrubbery by the roadside. To visit certain parts of California would be to many addicts like going home."

Why not? Isn't home a respectable or even a desirable place to go. The film folk always strive for realism and they spare no expense to secure results. The reason they use California is because it furnishes the best the world affords. Here there are better Alps than in Switzerland and a more benign sky than the Riviera can offer. There is nothing in Alaska, Borneo, New Jersey, Siam, Scotland or the Sahara that cannot be improved or accentuated within the borders of the Golden State. Because a writer has placed his characters in a mountain district in Tennessee is no sign that they will perform differently if cast amid the peaks of Southern California. There are travelogues for film fans who would fatten their eyes on strange scenery, but no drama of the screen was ever marred because it was panoramaed in the sensuous Southwest. For centuries the drama was housed within the bleak walls of the theater and its Himalayas were built of wall paper and paint, but now that the great outdoors has canceled its limitations its stories are filmed where nature and man may co-operate in unassailable perfection.

That is right here within barking distance of Los Angeles. If patrons are declaring that the pictures are beginning to look homelike so much the better. The great comedies and tragedies of life are in the home, and familiarity is realism.

No street in Cairo could ever be so impressive or important in the pictured drama as one laid out right here in Hollywood. The real street could never be as effective because it would be individual and specific. Here it is composite and comprehensive. The director can get characters and conditions in a day that could not be combined in centuries if abject realism were the desired end.

California has everything that nature has to offer and man has added all the built-in features, the fancy plumbing, the frescoing and the manicure parlor. The reason that half the world's films show scenery within the shadow of Mt. Baldy is that California can deliver the goods. The story is not weakened by its scenic setting. It is given fresh power and authority.

The world's wonderland is the place for wonderful pictures.

MR. WELLS IS TOO BUSY.

Though Mr. Wells may not exhibit all the essential traits of genius, in one respect he resembles the Olympians; like Shakespeare, Whitman, Mark Twain and other rude leviathans, he is constantly perpetrating errors of discretion, gaucheries of humor, rough satires, exuberances of imagination, that any literary editor could set right for him between the puffs of a pipe. This is one of the reasons why Mr. Wells is not popular nowadays among the best people. His crimes, indeed, are heinous. He is forever challenging eternal verities. And one hears upon every hand plaintive protests against his incurable habit of thinking about things. Drat the fellow!—why must he be forever thinking? "After writing 'The Research Magnificent,' 'Mr. Britling,' 'God, the Invisible King,' 'The Soul of a Bishop' and his long story of an education called 'Joan and Peter,'" remarked one of our critical ironists the other day, "Mr. Wells has apparently had some thoughts left over on the subjects of religion and education." Mr. Wells should know better. What has a novelist to do with thoughts?

The war is over; the adversary bites the dust; democracy is regnant and secure; a new world bathed in peace, radiant with the beauty of holiness, emerges beneath the dawn. God is vindicated and can now be returned to storage with the other protective furs of our winter of discontent. Yet here is the pestiferous Wells at it again—still talking about divinity and spiritual valor, and offering us, above all things, a paraphrase of the Book of Job!—[North American Review.

WONDERFUL WIFE RECOGNIZED.

Women are loyal to their husbands through trial and tribulation, because they were prepared for trouble beforehand. Men seldom appreciate this. It is refreshing to find, in the will of Maj. Charles G. Baird, killed in France, a tribute to his wife. He writes:

"At this time I want to say to the world that my wife, in my estimation, is the most perfect woman I ever saw, heard or knew of. She is endowed with marvelous courage, a very strong will and an intensely big ideal of honor.

"Her love has never at any time diminished, but has grown always, until I feel that it has reached a point that can be reasonably considered the acme of perfect love. I am the richest of men, in that I am blessed with the truest, most honorable and loving wife in the world."

Maj. Baird also said in his will that he had never broken any pledge or promise to his wife, nor had he ever deceived her or told her a falsehood, except as were necessary to please and surprise her, as in the purchase of gifts.

Undoubtedly Maj. Baird was blessed with a wonderful wife.—[Washington Times.

SOUTHERN LIGHTS.

BY J. FRED WHITING.

The La Verne Leader is in the midst of a $50,000 campaign for improvements on the college of that place.

The Santa Paula Chronicle devotes most of last week's issue to the lemon-growing industry, for which that territory is justly famous.

The Redlands Facts is authority for the statement that River cling peaches in the Yucaipa Valley are bringing $80 a ton.

There seems to be a fight on in Palmdale between the Post and the business men, with the b.m. several wallops in the lead, if the advertising columns are any indication.

Downey Champion: During our stay we called at the office of the Catalina Islander, the oldest newspaper on the island, where we found the editor, E. Wendle, busy at the daily grind incident to his business. In addition to pushing the quill and setting type, this versatile man conducts a news stand and curio store, is justice of the peace and at odd times employs himself advantageously informing the outside world of the happenings on the island through the daily press. Although he is a cripple he manages to produce results at anything he tackles.

"To smudge or not to smudge" is the burning question in Pomona. The answer is smoldering in the Superior Court.

But the bare facts are that the stockingless fad was introduced at Pasadena and not Venice.

It is evidently the same misguided burglar that robbed a church at Long Beach, who recently tapped the till of the San Pedro Pilot.

Banning Record: Coachella plans the erection of a factory for the manufacture of date breakfast food. Everybody will want an early date with that food.

Timothy Brownhill in Puente Journal: Since the close of the war the ban has been lifted and we are again enabled to exchange courtesies with our brethren of the press. This is a real pleasure to us, for Southern California is blessed with a number of the best edited papers in the West.

Norwalk Call: The editor, and wife expect to leave tomorrow for Laguna Beach for a week's outing, and the Call will be put out by the editor's good sons, as they did for some weeks during their father's sickness recently.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

TIMELY THEMES.

The day is hot as melted lead; I place some ice upon my head and seek the shade outdoors; and there I read some cooling book—the voyages of Dr. Cook along the Arctic shores. The coc is held to be a fake, but in his writings he can make a man forget the heat; with him I walk where blizzards roll, discovering a pipe dream pole among the framed-up sleet. My reading takes me farther back; I follow Sir John Franklin's track, to where it has an end; he vanished in the storm and rack and never sent a message back to any mortal friend. Somewhere the polar night wind moans above Sir John's heroic bones, all buried deep in snow, the bones of others by their side, but how the heroes wrought and died we nevermore shall know. I read of Greeley's hunger camp and feel a tear in either lamp, for that's a frightful tale; and as I read I seem to hear the ice floes crashing far and near, and feel the bitter gale. A neighbor comes along and cries, "Gee whiz! Our Augusts and Julys are getting worse and worse; this heat, if longer it persist, will get my goat, I wot and wist, and put me in a hearse." I hear his words in mild surprise; I've been abroad 'neath Arctic skies, among the endless snows; and I am feeling just as if my ears and nose were frozen stiff and I had chilblained toes.

The club manager appeared to be greatly excited.

"Hey, you," he called to the groundkeeper, "come here a minute."

The groundkeeper came.

"When any more girls want to walk on the golf links search them first."

The groundkeeper stood aghast.

"But I couldn't do that, sir," he protested.

"Well, don't let them take any bags or packages onto the links."

"Yes, sir, but——"

"No 'buts' about it. You know who is paying you your salary, don't you?"

"Yes——"

"Well, this morning a lot of girls walked all over the links and they spilled candies all over the place."

WHAT I SAW TODAY.

These beautiful things I saw today—
These things I saw, and went my way:
I saw a Chinaman, old and fat,
Dropping a coin in a blind man's hat;
I heard a strong man's sobs resound
With grief, because of an injured hound;
A harlot stifled her laughter wild
And paused to smile at a brown-faced child.
Those things I saw and went my way—
These beautiful things I saw today.

CLEMENCEAU'S HUMOR.

Premier Clemenceau of France had taken the measure of German diplomacy long before the recent Peace Conference (writes Arthur Lynch in the Pall Mall Gazette.) At the time when the Agadir affair threatened to light the conflagration that was started later by the murder of the Austrian Archduke the German Ambassador came to see the French statesman and began to adopt the threatening tone which had served him well with lesser mortals. On this classic occasion the man who was later to be the outstanding war Premier of France showed that he could smile as effectively as he has since shown that he can roar. In the face of the German potentate's threats, we read:

"Mr. Clemenceau did not turn a hair. Exasperated at length, the Ambassador cried that if France did not at once climb down he would leave for Berlin that very day. Leaving for Berlin meant, of course, a declaration of war, and the Ambassador had hinted that war would mean the annihilation of France in three weeks.

"The menace was terrible. Mr. Clemenceau, who was seated all the time, did not seem at first rightly to grasp the significance of what the German representative had said to him, for he kept rummaging among a number of old papers on his desk. Finally, he produced the French equivalent of Bradshaw, and, opening the pages, conned the time-table deliberately, while the feelings of the Ambassador were displayed throughout all the gamut from fury to amazement. Looking up at length, Mr. Clemenceau replied quietly: 'Well, it must be this evening; I see you have missed the morning train already.'

"The Ambassador felt that his tire was punctured He, changed his tone completely, and Agadir was scored as a victory for French statesmanship.

"People who write about Mr. Clemenceau nowadays give him too often the conventional airs that are supposed to 'go with' heavy statesmanship just as palms go with Africa. But Mr. Clemenceau is really too big a man for the 'pose' and 'side' and air of profundity and mystery that are necessary to protect the second-rate diplomat. There is in his nature a vein of waggery, the spirit of Gavroche (the Parisian street arab) that has more than once asserted itself on solemn occasions.

"At one time, many years ago, Mr. Clemenceau lost his chance of ruling the destinies of France—until the fires of the war proved the true metal—by his frolicsome spirit. An election was pending for president of the Chamber, and the fortunate candidate would at once be in the running for the Presidency of the republic. The votes of Mr. Clemenceau's party were in the majority, and his supporters were assured of his success.

"Now, one of the party was a queer old card, whom we will call Mouffler—a snuffy old gentleman who had hit on an economical plan for getting his lunch. He used to go to the buffet and order a glass of beer, and while waiting for it he would take two or three sandwiches and deftly slip them into the tail-pocket of his long coat and then, carrying off his beer to a corner, he would quietly enjoy his frugal repast. Mr. Clemenceau knew of this trick and one day, when he saw Mr. Mouffler slipping the sandwiches into his tail-pocket, he quietly took them out again.

"Mr. Mouffler retired to his corner as usual, but when the time came to fish out the sandwiches he was observed searching his pockets with a look of bewilderment. Then he looked up and caught Mr. Clemenceau laughing with three or four friends who had seen the whole maneuver. Mr. Mouffler was furious. When the voting for president of the Chamber took place Mr. Clemenceau lost by one vote. Mr. Mouffler had turned the scale against him. It was some fifteen years before Mr. Clemenceau was entrusted with power.

"I do not mean, of course, to imply any lack of responsibility in this leader of men. Mr. Clemenceau is a deep classical scholar, as well as a man of science, but he is not of the type of cricketer who goes out in a test match trembling with the solemnity of the occasion. He is always sure of himself, and he skelps the bowler over the chains with gaiety and abandon. Moreover, during the war he has displayed a Napoleonic capacity for work. He sat on a number of important committees and gave the right impulsion to all; but he never lost the wit and humor of Gavroche. His remark when Cottin was preparing to fire—'He is going to miss me'—was neither one of the heroics of Adelphi melodrama nor the oracular utterances of a hypnotized man; it was simply the shrewd judgment of one who had all his wits about him and on whom fear had no hold."

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

Billie Lale says that after the League of Nations gets going and The Big affairs of Life are settled on a basis of Open Covenants Openly arrived at, he hopes the Smaller affairs will be run on The same basis and he says the Church he belongs to has a way Of hiring its preacher without The bulk of the members knowing How or why, and the lodge he belongs to has a way of choosing Its officers and deciding its Policies without the general Membership having much choice in The matter, and the Union he belongs to, Ditto, and once he was A City Councilman for two years, And only once in the two years Did he really have a deciding Vote on an ordinance and that Was because two of the Council-Men were out of town and they Repealed the durned thing when They got back, and even in his Own home he finds that his wife And the girls decide things And tell him about them Afterwards.

PERTINENT PULPIT PARAGRAPHS.

DR. JOHN ALBERT EBY.
WILSHIRE PRESBYTERIAN.

"Paul knew by a bitter experience the tremendous value of Christian preparedness. He had found by a long and varied experience that the Christian life is a genuine conflict, a desperate struggle. He had discovered that the Christian graces of patience, self-denial, purity of mind and heart, peace and all the other virtues of the Christian religion were the most precious and that they were the most costly things in the whole world. If any one tells you that being a clean, strong and straight Christian life is an easy-going, perfumed, rose-be-decked summer outing without conflict or effort or interest or any such thing, then read to that man the sixth of Ephesians or read for him the eleventh of second Corinthians. In comparing his ministry with those who sought an easy life of non-resistance he says that he was in labors more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft.

"Christianity never was so pure as when men and women were burned at the stake for their faith and were fed for hungry lions or languished in dark prison cells. Be not surprised that you have to suffer in conflict for Jesus's sake. Be surprised that you are not more severly persecuted. He never seemed to be able to do a good deed but that some opposing force would rise up to hinder and criticise. Orthodox Christianity is having the battle of its history on right this minute. There never was a time when it was so easy to drift away from the standards of the church as in this day. It would seem as if the very friends of the old cardinal doctrines of christianity had ceased fighting against false doctrines. The battle is still on. The truth cannot be destroyed."

REV. E. F. DAUGHERTY.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

"You are at heart and in reality good, bad or indifferent, a Christian or a non-Christian, and whatever you are, you are that because of the beliefs you hold; what you believe, you are, or will shortly become. That is modern psychology and common sense, no less than emphasis on the ancient claim, 'as a man thinketh, so is he.'

"Mathew Arnold interpreted religion as consisting three-fourths in conduct and a better interpretation is hardly available. You may apply the thought to the faiths that ruled in various countries, and today the nations of earth are what they are, whether the United States and Britian, or Turkey and Germany or China and India, because of the influence of their prevailing religion on the conduct of the people concerned.

"A sillier and more vapid fallacy does not float than the often expressed idea 'it little matters what a man thinks if his life is only right;' no man's life will continue in right channels whose thought is wrong; our beliefs make all the difference in the world; they make this difference, that the only person you can trust right through is the one who has learned to live as in the presence of God and whose conduct is influenced by that determinative conviction of accountability to Him.

"Neither the atheistic, pantheistic or deistic idea of the administration of the universe will suffice for remaking or rightly ordering the world; the Christian idea is the world's desperate need; it makes God the sovereign Father of all, and imposes the obligation of brotherhood's practice by warrant of the life and example of Christ; had we not its ideals on our future skyline, vanishing would the hopes of the world become."

DR. W. E. TILROE.
UNIVERSITY METHODIST.

"The great thing about the League of Nations is that it is a moral issue. It goes to church. It roots in conscience. In its care of small nations it gives hope to the helpless. In its word to the workers of the earth it is a sermon on justice. That its ideal is open to every people under the sun makes it a Board of Missions. It is distinctly apostolic. Probably the men who fashioned it do not consider they are either preachers or saints but their work is sent of God. Swept out of themselves by the whirlwind of high heaven they wrote the will of the Eternal ere they awoke.

"Of course it is not perfect. No student learns as does his teacher. It will need to be modified betimes. But its culture will be the light of the world. A world peace of itself is not worth a world war. To fight for the fun of quitting is worse than crime or folly. Men are to keep their hands off each other that they may handle the earth. The League of Nations is to build as well as rebuild.

"The League of Nations is a philanthropy. Millions of men find themselves in the hands of the mighty for good the first time of their lives. They will learn faith in God. What happens to a slave is not his tragedy. That he feels a slave is the tragic thing. The vast multitude who are to walk as men will be the glory of the League of Nations."

BOOK OF SERMONS.
BY DR. HERBERT B. SMITH.

That the Fleming H. Revell Company has agreed to publish a book of sermons by Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, was the information received here yesterday by members of Immanuel congregation. Mr. Smith, who is in New York, temporarily in charge of the Central Presbyterian Church during the absence of Rev. Wilton Merle Smith, D.D., is giving all his spare time to the editing of his manuscript for the publishers. Mr. Smith has recently been tendered a number of tempting offers from strong Presbyterian churches of the East. "However," he writes, "Los Angeles is good enough for me, and I will be glad to get out of this eastern heat and back to the breezes of the Pacific. I expect to visit friends in Boston and Pennsylvania on my way to Chicago, in which city I will preach for three Sundays." During Mr. Smith's absence Immanuel Church is being supplied by Dr. George L. Robinson of Chicago.

ALDEN LEE HILL.
HIGHLAND PARK CHRISTIAN.

"The return of Christ is a certainty because the prophets foretold it, Christ promised it, angels repeated the promise, the apostles taught it, and the Bible is full of statements regarding it. We know quite a little about the manner and the purpose of His second coming. But nothing has been revealed as to the time of His return. From the day that wondering disciples last walked with Him to the present age much speculation has been made as to when He will come again. Concerning the mystery, Jesus said, 'It is not for you to know the times or the seasons which the Father hath put in His own power. But of that day and hour knoweth no one, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father only.' It is true that certain signs have been revealed which are to precede the great event, but many interpretations of these signs have failed. It is unscriptural and contrary to the plan of Jesus for us to try to set the date of His return. Christ made the following known through John, the Revelator, 'I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth.'"

DR. BRUCE BROWN.
THE WHITE TEMPLE.

"The effects of the French Revolution were felt for two generations. The overturning of some of the oldest and apparently the most firmly established governments of the Old World as the by-products of the war gives ground for grave apprehensions regarding the futurt. Russia, Austria and Hungary are under the control of the radical Socialists corresponding to the syndicalists or I.W.W.'s in this country. Industrial unions embracing all the workers in all the trades instead of trades unions are being formed. An upheavel was barely averted in England by a two-years' truce effected between Lloyd George and the Triple Alliance which embraces all the workmen in the railroad, mining and shipbuilding industries. France must meet the shock of the revolutionary forces as soon as the peace treaty is signed by the great powers.

"In former times when there was a conflict between the masses and the ruling powers, the mobs were fronted by the military power. In these modern days of complete social conditions a general strike would paralyze every power of government as effectively as if the nation were besieged and blockaded. We are facing instruments and forces of industrial warfare as new and strange as were the submarine and poison gas. The conditions confronting the world and organized governments today are no less grave than were the conditions at this hour in 1914. Our government is the one great power so organized and constituted that it can confidently face the test of the next ten years."

REV. S. M. BERNARD.
PICO HEIGHTS CHRISTIAN.

"One of the most interesting studies in the Bible is that of the sleepless nights experienced by distinguished Bible characters. Jacob spent a sleepless night at the brook Jabbok. He was wrestling with a messenger from heaven to receive a blessing. God revealed himself, but he asked a change in the life of Jacob before this was done.

"Job said, 'When shall I arise? I toss to the fro until the dawning of the day.' His was a sleepless night spent upon a bed of sickness, with his wife telling him to curse God and die. One of the most pitiable characters in the world is a sick man away from home.

"Belshazzar spent a sleepless night reveling, when the handwriting came upon the wall. The handwriting is on the wall today in the United States, as never before, for those who would spend sleepless nights hunting intoxicating liquor. Darius would have no music and sleep fled from him, while Daniel was in the den of lions.

"Jesus spent a sleepless night walking the waves of the lake of Galilee at the fourth watch. He was working for others in the hours of the night. He spent another sleepless night in Gethsemane, while His favorite disciples failed to remain awake. Paul and Silas, in the Philippian jail, suffered persecution at the midnight hour, but deliverance came in a miraculous way.

"The lesson to us is this:

"'The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night.'"

REV. ARTHUR HIGBY.
BROADWAY CHRISTIAN.

"Pierpont Morgan in his testimony before the money trust investigators in 1912 said in answer to the question: 'Commercial credits are based upon the possession of money or property?' 'No sir; the first thing is character, before money or anything else. Money cannot buy it.'

"Character comes from honesty, and honesty from conscientiousness. The Bible proceeds upon the assumption that man has a conscience, a moral faculty which enables him to judge his own acts. It enables him to know the difference between vice and virtue just as his reasoning faculties help him to know the difference between what is true and what is false. Conscience can be seared and destroyed, or it can be strengthened and cultivated as any other faculty of the mind. Conscience must be instructed as any other faculty is, and it is dependent upon the knowledge of the word of God for its guidance. Conscientiousness is the very core of character. Without it there will be no character in which man can have confidence."

"Jesus, the greatest teacher, was also a prophet. He foretold the events which have transpired during this Christian dispensation, especially those which have taken place during the past forty-five years—which period is designated by Him as the 'Harvest.' He tells us that the harvest is the end of the world, therefore if we locate the time of the harvest, we can locate the 'end of the world.' Matt. 13:39.

"The world has ended and the great world war and revolution are the evidences given by our Lord in answer to the question from His disciples—'What shall be the sign of the coming (Greek, parousia, presence) 'and of the end of the world!'—(Greek, Aion, age.) Matt. 24:3.

"While the dark clouds are encircling us and human wisdom is unable to penetrate the gathering gloom, we look to God's word, and there find the remedy for the present disorder and distress. According to the Scriptures, we are at the threshold of a new dispensation—the kingdoms of this world are giving way to the kingdom of our God, as the prophet Daniel foretold. Daniel 2:44, 45. The fulfillment of the Christians' prayer—'Thy Kingdom Come'—is near at hand.

"When the kingdom of God is established, the people will not be sick—Isiah 33:24; the obedient will enjoy the perfect earth, will plant vineyards, build houses, and live forever—Isiah 65:17-25. 'The nations will war no more'—Isiah 2:2-4. 'There shall be no more sighing or crying and no more death.'—Rev. 21:4, 5."

A WORD TO THOUGHTFUL PARENTS:

You have a serious purpose in your life regarding that son whom God has given you; you want that boy to become a real man—truthful, honest, sincere; you want him to be physically strong and to have the power of using in the best possible way the intellect with which he has been endowed; above everything else, you want him to enter upon life's work with a character absolutely fixed along right lines.

I have had some fixed, definite ideals for my schools; they not only meet the above phases of the training of young life but they are in thorough accord with the good, red-blooded American spirit which is appreciated more than ever before in our Nation's life. The poor boy has the same advantages as the rich boy; each wears the same kind of uniform, eats the same kind of food, and each is amenable to the same rules and regulations; in short, no system could be more genuinely democratic.

I want to meet you personally and tell you more of our work; especially of the unusual recognitions which have been secured from the colleges, from the Government, and from West Point. I shall be glad to give you the names of many local patrons of whom you may make personal inquiry.

Very respectfully,

THOS. A. DAVIS, President.

Black velvet for sports coats is as good as ever this year. And fashionable, too, are the colored velveteens.

Short skirts may come or go, but the vogue for fancy hosiery goes on forever.

Not singles but doubles is the creed of foxes in summer furs—a fashion which rivals the small choker style.

It's a toss up in shoe buckles—bead, cut steel, gunmetal and rhinestones. You may take your pick.

Gilets translated into terms of summer come in linen, net, lace, batiste and organdie.

Chanel introduced jersey for sports suits several years ago and it's going stronger than ever this season.

Shades of my great grandmother! Long white gloves.

It has a vogue all its own—the tunic or smock dress with an overblouse or overskirt, as the case may be.

Quite the favorite among sweaters is the Tuxedo with its panel front collar and tie belt.

Capes for short is the newest version of this delightful style—and everybody is wearing one.

Ideal for summer wear are the new transparencies in hats, notably horsehair.

"Liquid Gold" Vs. "Oil in the Can"

Don't look for Oil in the Can if you are out to make money quick. Oil in the Can has the same approximate value today, tomorrow and the next day. It can be measured, looked at, and turned into ready cash—BUT—it won't yield you an income, nor will it double in value over night.

OIL, or the shares that represent it, are speculative, today it is a hole in the ground, tomorrow maybe a GUSHER, or the other way around. Today 1000-barrel wells; tomorrow—WHO KNOWS? It is a chance.

Your chance may be reduced in risk, if you look into an issue before you buy—but don't look for Oil in the Can.

Our statistical files contain valuable information that may help you. Ask for reports or analysis on any of your holdings or interests.

Mining and Oil Development in Southwest.

NOW SEEK OIL FAR AFIELD.

Northern Kern County is Now Scene of Exploitation; Large Acreage Leased.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 1.—That oil may be found in paying quantities on the plains and in the foothills east of Delano and forty-five miles of Bakersfield, is the opinion of the Texas Oil and Gas Company, which has just leased $150 acres of land from Harry Quinn, a cattle raiser of Northern Kern county.

The land is located in Township 25-27, and is scattered over a number of sections surrounding the Quinn ranch home. Besides paying a bonus per acre, the company agrees to drill the first test well to a depth of 2400 feet inside of a year. Another stipulation of the lease calls for the starting of a second well ninety days after the completion of the first, with additional wells to follow every ninety days.

It has been the belief of oil men for years that oil could be developed on the Quinn ranch, and a few years ago Quinn drilled a water well which had showings of oil.

Paul Shoup recently drilled a well to a depth of 1200 feet in Section 16, 26-27, in Northern Kern county, and it is reported that he plans to drill another well on Section 9, on property owned by Nelson Smith. Mr. Shoup first found traces of oil in a water well drilled near Richgrove, a few miles east of Delano, and just north of the Quinn property in Tulare county. It has been contended by geologists that there is an underlying belt of oil near the Northern Kern county Loundary, and it would seem from present indications that there are thousands of acres of virgin land which may yet be brought into bearing.

Another well in the Delano district was drilled by the Hale-McLeod Interests on Section 15, 26-26, east of McFarland. The hole was sunk to a depth of 3420 feet, but oil was not found. This well is just north of where the Associated Oil Company is drilling a test well in the far corner of the newly-discovered and proved Poso Creek district, where the Standard Oil Company did the pioneering.

FOLLOW UP STRIKE.

The Standard is following up its strike in the Poso section with four new wells. These are in Sections 11, 12, 26 and 2. The first well drilled, which was brought in recently, is doing between forty and fifty barrels of oil daily.

The Associated Oil Company is drilling six new wells on Section 28, 28-28, only a few miles north of Bakersfield in the old Kern River field. The company plans to drill forty wells in this particular district, and further west the Standard has outlined a programme for 160.

The work which is occupying the attention of the Associated at this particular time is located just south of the Bankers' Oil Company property and north of the Kern River Oilfields, Ltd., Section 33, and between the Associated's Canfield lease on the west and its Comet lease on the east. When the six wells are completed there will be fifty-one wells on the 160 acres. The territory is shallow and oil is found at 700 feet in some places, so that unless a deep test is made, the work of putting down the forty wells should not take long.

The property is known as the Reed Crude and is one of the least-developed of any of the Associated's Kern River holdings. The Associated is also starting development work on the west and south lines of the Reed Crude property, in Section 34, 28-28, in the easternmost productive part of the Kern River field, and in one of its shallowest territories.

The Associated has four strings of tools in operation on Section 2, 31-22 and two wells are nearing completion. The territory is but slightly developed and lies between the Midway and McKittrick fields.

The Associated is having some trouble with water in its deep test well on Section 3, 26-20, in the Lost Hills. The well is down 3200 feet. On Section 29, 26-21 the Associated has cemented No. 2-B and is perforating No. 2-E. Well No. 4-A has just been put on the pump, but results are not being divulged.

Details connected with the sale of the Midway Oil Company property near Maricopa to the Commonwealth Petroleum Corporation for $3,000,000 are progressing, it is stated, but not all of them have been worked out, and the property may not change hands for several weeks yet.

SPUD IN FOUR WELLS.

The Standard Oil Company has, during the past week, spudded in four new wells in the Kern River field and two in the Elk Hills. The latter two wells are not far from the great new gas well, which came in last week a flaming torch, burning up more than 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. This is the third big gas well to be brought in by the Standard in this locality, about nine miles northeast of Taft, and is the second to catch fire. The wells were drilled for oil, but came in with gas.

A new rig is being built on the property of the Melita Oil Company, in the eastern limits of the city of Maricopa. It is not known just what the company's plans are in connection with the property. The work is in charge of R. Epply.

The Midway Oil Company has just about completed its No. 68 well, near Maricopa, and the flow of oil is already strong. As soon as the crew gets the well under control another well will be drilled.

The new well of the Good Roads Oil Company, which was brought in a few days ago near Maricopa, is still doing nicely, and will add more dividends for the stockholders, who are mostly Bakersfield men.

The Associated Oil Company's well No. 13, on the Reward property, northwest quarter of Section 26, 31-22, recently brought in, is yielding ninety-five barrels daily. The property is just north of the El Camino and northwest of Shale.

The Bankers' Oil Company, operating on Section 28, 28-28, in the Kern River field, has just brought in its forty-first well. The depth is only 650 feet and the production is twenty barrels daily of 13½ gravity oil.

The Union Oil Company is drilling a series of nine wells to protect the lines of its El Camino lease on the northwest quarter of Section 26, 31-22, near Fellows. There are still four or five more wells to be drilled. The Associated is actively developing the Reward property, adjoining the El Camino on the north.

The St. Helens has attained a depth of 2360 feet in its well on the northeast corner of Section 22, 32-24. The well is being drilled with a rotary. The first well on this property is producing about 100 barrels daily of 26 gravity oil.

Because the Associated Oil Company could not shut off the water properly in its test well on Section 28, 28-27 in the Kern River field, the well is being abandoned. The Brown well, No. 1, Section 29, 28-27, is being cleaned out at a depth of 3150 feet.

Tarr & McCombs have resumed drilling their first well on the fifteen acres of undeveloped land they purchased in Section 8, 29-28, in the Kern River field. The well has been standing cemented. A rig for a second well is being erected. The parcel of land is favorably located, as on one side the Ohio Crude Oil Company is producing 14 gravity oil from shallow depth, and on the other side, the Volcan is also a producer.

In the Santa Maria field, the Union Oil Company has started a new well on the Harris lease, one of the properties purchased from the Pinal-Dome concern. The location is near the line of the old Gracioso, now the Western Union.

W. O. Todd, superintendent of the producing department of the Standard Oil Company in the San Joaquin Valley, has been assigned to a more responsible position in the East, and has left for Boston, Mass., to assume his new duties. He will be succeeded as superintendent of production by L. B. Little, formerly lease superintendent at Taft. Mr. Little, in turn, will be succeeded by his former subordinate, Assistant Superintendent Daley.

RARE MINERALS METALLURGY CHEMISTRY.

You are politely requested to submit samples, carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for 100 ounces. Correspondents offering matter for sampling with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff if from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will, hereafter, receive no attention whatever.

Salines.

KINGMAN (Ariz.) July 17.—Q.: Will you be so kind as to tell me what kind of salts are contained in the inclosed sample? M.

A.: Iron alum (halotrichite) traces; sodium sulphate and carbonate; strontium absent, and potash traces. Further on such material should be quantitatively analyzed.

Zinc Present.

POMONA, July 17.—Q.: Nos. 1 and 2 samples herewith are from the Goodsprings mining district, in Nevada. I think No. 2 contains uranium. R.

A.: No. 1 is a variety of magnesite; zinc more or less present, No. 2 is not radioactive, and it is not an ore of uranium.

Platinum Absent.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—Q.: Kindly make tests on these ore samples for gold and silver, and are there any indications of platinum present. I will look for answer in the columns of The Times. W.

A.: Sample A reacts for zinc, iron, manganese, quartz, baryte, and strontium traces. B is an impure mixture of chalcedony, flint and jasper (quartz.) C is impure jasper containing some pseudomorph after pyrite (now oxidized in the one-time nesting places of pyrite,) and there is no free gold in any specimen. For assays on gold and silver you are politely referred to reliable assayers.

Seven Samples.

PALMDALE, July 19.—Q.: The samples sent you for analyses are from ledge No. 1. No. 2 from wash near spring. No. 3 spring, Nos. 4, 5, 6, and 7 from spring. Mrs. J.

A.: No. 1 consists of one sample of whitish greasy and vitreous quartz, and the other No. 1 is quartz with orthoclase on one side of the quartz. No. 2 is simply feldspathic rock carrying iron oxides. No. 3 (two samples) one of them is iron amphibole and the other a pegmatite carrying quartz, feldspathic matter, and mica. No. 4 is a conglomerate (pudding stone) consisting of altered feldspathic rock, quartz and aluminous-magnesium silicates. No. 5 altered iron amphibole; manganese low per cent. No. 6 is a saline mixture of lime, magnesia, soda, iron oxides and, in part Aragonite. No. 7 is shaly hematite; graphite low per centage.

Crystals.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 20.—Q.: In this package find two kinds of rocks I got from a large pegmatite vein located in the Congress mining district. On one side (footwall) of the vein are innumerable well-shaped crystals, china white, or colorless and transparent, with now and again a chunk of the greenish blue variety. I thought the white crystals were albite (soda feldspar,) and that the bluish ones might be beryl, topaz, or corundum. Kindly publish the result of your tests on the samples, and classification of the crystals, in your "In the Earth" column of The Times. C.

A.: The samples are of more than ordinary interest, and that pegmatite deposit probably contains a sufficient quantity of crystallized samples to start in business selling minerals to colleges, collectors of minerals, etc.

The milk white elongated crystals are quartz, and among the transparent (but somewhat clouded) crystallized matter we find three samples of quartz; two of beryl and no feldspar.

The bluish-green samples are not of corundum or topaz. In the scale of hardness corundum and topaz scratches the specimens, and they are not the blue feldspar Lazulite, nor in any way fluorite. The broken, bluish-white and not transparent crystal, in the flame of the blowpipe does not fuse and retains its color; further tests show this sample to be beryl. Among the remaining crystals greenish white nontransparent bluish green tourmaline appears, and one other sample is No. 8 in the scale of hardness; of vitreous and resinous luster; color green; of thick tabular habit, and is chrysoberyl. It would appear by what you state regarding this pegmatite deposit, and from the sample sent to The Times, that the locality is a good one to prospect for a better grade collection of crystals, and as a guide in prospecting it is well to obtain transparent crystals, such as are known to the mining boys in the hills as "water crystals," and do not forget that such crystals often contain minute drops of fluid first discovered by Sir David Brewster, in cavities of topaz, chrysoberyl, quartz, etc., and the fluid referred to is known as cryptoline.

Conglomerate Rock.

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Q.: I would be pleased to have you analyze and classify this yellow stuff in the samples enclosed. The rock is from around Daggett, and it has everybody guessing. E.

A.: And, similar yellow stuff is often confused with the double vanadate of uranium and potassium (Carnotite.)

Yellowish colors are often found in rocks that are simply of ferrous and ferric oxides; such oxides occur around Crescent, near Searchlight, and near Las Vegas, Nev., but no carnotite has been found at the localities named. In and around Needles, Barstow, and other California points ores of baryte and strontium occurr, and in many samples other yellow stuff is found that is far from carnotite, and being chiefly a yellow impure oxide of iron with fluorite in some specimens, and zinc percentages added in others. So it is in certain localities of Southern California, where altered epidote and iron oxides are analyzed as carnotite, but it is well to remember that carnotite is of a canary-yellow color, and it is the only substance known to the writer that shows a similar reaction (in the play of colors) to ordinary bile, chemically. Your sample is a conglomerated mass of altered rock; ferric and ferrous oxides present; uranium absent, and traces of epidote and zinc in the rock.

Chiefly Silica.

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—Q.: Please describe and classify the two enclosed specimens. S.

A.: The large, milk-white sample is chiefly silica; iron traces, and probably oolitic chalcedony (quartz) sparingly contained in the mass. The yellowish gray specimen is also impure (iron present) silica, and it is that variety of silica known as floatstone. When a chunk of the substance is dropped into water there is a hissing sound which comes from the sample floating in the aqueous menstrum until the air escapes, and the interstices in the rock are filled with water, when the sample sinks. In strong or dilute acids, however, the mineral floats for quite a time. The milk-white sample might answer for those industries calling for a rather coarse-grained silica.

Low-grade Graphite.

REWARD, July 23.—Q.: I have mailed under separate cover sample from Big Piney, Wyo., of apparently good graphite found at a distance of about thirty feet from surface. I will thank you for some information, through the regular Monday edition of The Times, as to its commercial value. Thanking you for past favors. C.

A.: The sample runs low in flake graphite. Iron and manganese are present in the bluish-black shale-like, and slaty matrix. Rather doubtful for high commercial values.

Four Samples.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 24.—Q.: Four samples for analyses and classification. C.

A.: No. 1 is an odd variety of Celestite (strontium sulphate,) and it is seldom that a reddish-yellow color occurs in this mineral. The sample is impure with baryte, iron oxides, and a low percentage of lime carbonate. Celesite, when in fine powder, phosphoresces on red hot iron, and when pure will run over 55 per cent. strontia with approximately 44 per cent. sulphuric acid. No 2 is actinolite, and No. 4 is of manganese-iron oxides with silicia and lime carbonate present. The small sample marked "Special" is a variety of lime carbonate known as anthraconite (stinkstone,) and when such mineral is struck with a hammer, or if rubbed briskly with another stone, rotten eggs, or that of hydrogen sulfide will give off an odor resembling phide.

Probably Igneous.

LOS ANGELES, July 22. — Q.: Herewith find sample of rock for classification and most valuable mineral, if any. H.

A.: Mineralogists and chemists generally put more work on samples submitted for tests when an approximate locality is given from where the samples are obtained. This expectation is not from any selfish desire, but such information very greatly helps when looking up localities where like minerals occur.

Your samples could be confused with thorite, allanite and other rare minerals, and it is reasonably sure that the specimens are from a locality where calcium silicates, garnet, augite-syenite, magnetite and pearlite occur, and again the sample might be taken for pitchblende, at sight, but uranium is absent.

It is probable that the sample is an altered variety of igneous matter on the order of pitchstone, but further on this quantitative analyses should be had on a number of specimens.

Five Samples.

SONORA, July 22. — Q.: Please analyze and classify the five rock specimens. Oblige. C. L. M.

A.: The samples are more on the order of mineral substances. No. 1 is high-grade chromite. No. 2 is that variety of calcium carbonate known as aragonite (flos ferri, or flowers of iron.) No. 3 is an impure low-grade and siliceous variety of graphite; iron manganese more or less present. No. 4 is impure calamine (zinc carbonate) with iron manganese oxides present, and No. 5 represents certain "cubes" of one-time "porphyry;" now known as a variety of potash feldspar (orthoclase.)

SEASONED SECURITIES

The pride of every investor is his holdings of seasoned securities. The present, as never before, in the history of finance, offers the opportunity of easily selecting this class of securities. The trying ordeals of the trade depression of 1912-1914, and the strained war conditions of 1916-1918 have put industrial and public utility corporations to the test. The companies that have come through in splendid shape have certainly stood the test and their securities are surely seasoned.

The Pacific Gas & Electric Company is the third largest operating gas and electric utility in the United States. From 1907 to 1918 the number of its consumers increased from 182,000 to 477,000. During the past 2½ years the gross income increased $5,700,000, or 65% of the annual gross income of the next largest electric company in California.

Dividends have been paid without interruption on the preferred stock of the Company since 1909. Its marketability is evidenced by the ready sales in New York, Chicago, and Pacific Coast centers.

We recommend purchase of Pacific Gas & Electric Company First Preferred 6% Cumulative Stock, at $89 per share, to yield 6.74%.

TO FORETELL TEMBLORS.

Construction of a ribbon of cement walk a foot thick and about 100 feet long, to serve as an earthquake detector in his scientific studies of seismic disturbances, will be started in the near future by Orrin L. Kennedy, San Bernardino attorney and scientist, who predicted the earthquake of April 21, 1918, almost to the minute.

Survey for the unique walk has been made and the stakes are waiting to establish the grade and line for the contractor. Work probably will be started this season—although Mr. Kennedy declares it is not needed to forecast any quakes this summer. There will be none of any consequence, he says.

Mr. Kennedy has constructed a laboratory in the wilds, on the edge of the famous San Andreas fault near Verdemont, northeast of San Bernardino in the mountains. There he spends much of his time, studying conditions and examining the great fault, which is known to some as the Portola-Tomales fault, and which extends across the State, in a nearly direct line, from the ocean near the mouth of Alder Creek, north of Point Arena in Mendocino county, to Tomales, thence to San Francisco, south to Hollister, Santa Cruz county, and on to the Imperial Valley.

It was on this fault that Mr. Kennedy stood and predicted the Hemet and San Jacinto, a little more than a year ago.

HOW PREDICTOR WORKS.

The fault, according to Mr. Kennedy's explanation, takes up the shock in the earth's surface, and his study of earthquakes has convinced him that the slip in the earth's crust occurs several days in advance of the actual quake. These slips are shown in the fault, and when the San Andreas fault shifts again—if it ever does — Mr. Kennedy says, the correct "earthquake walk" will crack. The extent of the crack will forecast the severity of the quake that will follow, he says.

On April 14, last year, Mr. Kennedy read a newspaper report that a shock had occurred in the fault where it crosses the Bristol ranch in Bear Highland. He then hurried to the spot where his laboratory now stands. There he explained to a number of people that went with him that the fault showed a slip and that a quake would follow within a short time. He added that it would come within "two minutes." As he finished the sentence, the quake began.

NO IMPENDING SHAKE.

The fault takes up expansions and contractions in the earth's surface, Mr. Kennedy declares, serving to protect the contour of the crust from any danger of a sudden convulsion.

That there will be no earthquakes of any moment during 1919 is the reply of Prof. Kennedy to the predictions of a clairvoyant that a lively shake will come this summer. He says:

"To allay some misapprehension as to a shake predicted by some remote clairvoyant, I wish to state that no earthquake of any consequence is indicated, and nothing but slight tremors can occur in 1919, in this part of the world.

"My efforts are to get at the science of tremors, so as to take the ugliness out of the subject and to reassure and reconcile the human mind to the gentlest of nature's manifestations, namely her corrective wave.

"There will be a rattling of the window pane this summer, but the dishes will not be upset in the cupboard.

"The line of correction is long. A tremor was felt in this belt in 1899. Next place, San Francisco, 1906; Imperial, 1914; here again, 1918. The quake is like a mule — does not kick the same place twice. In other words, the line adjusts about 200 miles, then in two or three years takes the wrinkles out of a place up or down the line, and the fact that it shook here last year is absolute assurance that it will not shake here again until it has visited other places on the line—with the bare exception of very insignificant tremors."

Work is Started on Novel Earthquake Detector.

He'll Study Fault by Ribbon of Cement.

Orin L. Kennedy, shown below, attorney and scientist, is pointing to the San Andreas fault, whose course across California is shown in the accompanying map. His laboratory cabin is shown above, with some visitors in the foreground.

FIGHTING MEN LEARN TO BE EXPERT MINERS.

HELPS-DODGE CORPORATION HELPING APT WORKERS; BEST STRIKE YET.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Aug 1. — The Copper Queen branch of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation for months past has been training apt miners to be foremen and upper employees. Available without cost to any employee is a course of forty-four lessons or lectures, each prepared by a specialist. The course in no wise is technical, but is designed to give practical instruction in mining as locally conducted, with especial stress laid upon the hearing of men and in methods for breaking down ore in the most effective manner.

Many of the students are returned soldiers, who now include about a fourth of the company's working force. Some of these young veterans had no prior experience in mining, but most of them are proving intelligent and apt, it is stated. The class for some time has averaged about 200 members. The work is along the general policy laid down many years ago by Dr. James Douglas of recognition, of individual good will and effort, a policy that has led to the gathering in Bisbee of one of the most loyal and most skillful bodies of American miners known in any American camp. A large proportion of the men are married and own their homes, while any employee who wants a home will be helped by the Copper Queen or its neighbor, the Calumet and Arizona.

Shattuck-Arizona, on its seventeenth level, has developed the most important strike ever made on the property, it is stated, with sulphide sampling from 6 to 40 per cent. copper. Larger pumps are to be lowered to permit development of the 1800-foot level under the new body. The 1800-foot shaft is 100 feet in water, which is kept down by constant pumping of 900 gallons a minute. The company has spent $4,000,000 on the property since its purchase in 1909.

Calumet and Arizona's half-yearly production was 20,080,000 pounds of copper, a decrease of 5,000,000 pounds over the same period last year.

GERMANY TO RELIEVE ACUTE COAL SHORTAGE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Coal will be brought from Germany this winter to relieve the acute shortage in Central Europe and reduce shipments from the United States, if the plans laid before the supreme economic council materialize. The council today stated that a committee will meet with the reparations commission to evolve a plan by which immediate coal production will be made attractive to Germany.

In the opinion of the council's members this would mean a lessening of the reparation strain on Germany through other channels. In order to facilitate the delivery of coal the council even considered special inducements of clothing and food to the German miners to get them to work. This plan superseded that of a central Europe control, discussed yesterday.

The council is likely to meet next at Brussels at a date not yet fixed.

BODY OF WOMAN IS FOUND ON TRACKS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KALAMAZOO (Mich.) Aug. 3.—The police are puzzled by the mysterious finding of the mangled body of a richly dressed woman on the Michigan Central tracks, a mile and a half west of Kalamazoo yesterday morning. Both legs had been severed, one thumb was missing and the chest had been crushed. The woman wore a dark blue silk dress, expensive shoes but was hatless. Not the slightest clew as to her identity could be found. The officers are working on the theory that the woman either fell or was thrown from the train.

The woman apparently was about 40 years old and weighed about 160 pounds. She had brown hair and blue eyes. On her right hand was a gold ring with a mount for a long setting which was missing.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 3.—An unidentified woman about 65 years old, knelt beside the railroad track here yesterday and was run over by a train. Her body, bearing no identification, was brought to the morgue.

ON OIL FIELD ACTIVITY.

Reports filed with R. P. McLaughlin, State oil and gas supervisor, during the week ending July 26, show seventeen new wells, making a total of 347 reported since the first of the year. Seventeen wells were reported for test of water shut-off, sixteen deepening or redrilling and four abandonments.

BIG CROP REGARDLESS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Aug. 3.—Walnuts in the Saticoy district are showing considerable blight and the aphis has also developed quite rapidly lately according to leading walnut growers of the county. In spite of this, however, the crop promises to be one of the largest ever harvested at Saticoy.

BARGAIN IN PLANES FOR RETIRED FLYERS.

GOVERNMENT TO SELL CURTISS STANDARDS TO VETERANS AT $400 EACH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Secretary of War has promised the House Committee on Aviation that every American flier who desires an airplane to keep his hand in shall be permitted to buy one suitable to his need from the army surplus for $400. Representative Fiorello H. Laguardia, member of Congress, and until recently a major in the American aviation service, a witness before the Frear subcommittee, today told the committee he was convinced that many American fliers out of the army but fascinated with flying would avail themselves of this opportunity and "keep their hand in" by occasional flights. For this purpose, Maj. Laguardia said, the Curtiss low-power plane is ideal because a man who is not "absolutely fit" would be unsafe in a higher powered motor.

Members of the committee told Maj. Laguardia that Secretary Baker had testified that this opportunity had been open to American fliers for some time. This the witness denied, but he was told that even if that were true, as a result of the work of the committee that opportunity would be open to American fliers from now on.

The witness testified that the Curtiss company was paying the government $700 for planes and $400 for motors and selling them to civilians for from $1500 to $5000 but declared such sales would be impossible as soon as it became publicly known that suitable planes could be bought from the War Department for $400.

Legal.

"On the job"

Certain-teed forms a complete, seamless surface that sheds rain, snow and sleet year after year with almost no attention. It is always "on the job."

The most severe weather makes no impression on Certain-teed—nor can sparks, fumes, gas, smoke or insects impair its protective strength.

Yet Certain-teed costs no more—less in fact than other types of roofs. It is easily and quickly laid by anyone who will follow the simple directions that come with the roll. Upkeep expense is too slight to consider.

Your buildings, old or new—large or small—in city or country—should have the protection of Certain-teed.

Certain-teed is made in rolls, both smooth and rough surfaced, (red or green) also in handsome red or green asphalt shingles for residences. Certain-teed is extra quality—the same means artistry of quality and satisfaction guaranteed. It will pay you to get Certain-teed—most dealers sell it. Ask for Certain-teed and be sure to get it.

FIVE HUNDRED GOOD SPORTS WANTED
NEVADA OIL CLUB

We have 320 acres located and recorded under the petroleum placer mining laws of United States and Local laws of the State of Nevada, also an option on 1,000 acres of land. The territory is unproven so far as oil is concerned, BUT gas has been struck, and is now flowing from two shallow wells, and we have the very best of geological reports from a reputable oil field geologist, and the territory is reported in Bulletin 530 Geological survey by the United States Government.

We want five hundred men who are willing to take a chance and put up $100 each in a company to be formed on these holdings and help us put down a test well. If we strike a dry hole you lose your hundred; if we bring in a gusher you get a pro rata interest in the best part of a brand new oil field. You know what that means.

As this is strictly a speculative proposition we want no hard-earned money or Liberty Bonds.

If the total amount is raised it is agreed that a Corporation shall be formed, and that the capital of said Corporation shall be divided into 100,000 shares of One Dollar ($1.00) each and that each and every one of the five hundred members shall receive 100 shares of the capital stock of said corporation in consideration of each one hundred dollars contributed and said stock to be issued as fully paid and non-assessable, the remaining fifty thousand (50,000) shares of stock to be placed in the treasury of the Corporation.

If the full amount is not raised on or before December 15, 1919, your money will be returned to you, less five per cent. to cover costs of advertising, book-keeping, and any necessary legal work.

Buy as many shares as you desire, using the attached application which we want you to read carefully. The money will be used under the direction of the directors of the Corporation for the actual expenses of putting down a well.

This is a gamble but the wheel is straight, and if we win the odds will be large enough to satisfy any man.

Use the application and send your money to the bank.

GENTLEMEN:

In connection with your escrow No. 6168, I herewith hand you the sum of $..... to be held and disposed of by you as follows:

(1) Should you receive on or before the 15th day of December, 1919, in said escrow, sufficient sums of money which, together with that herewith handed you, aggregate $50,000.00, accompanied by instructions of the several depositors in harmony with these, and should you, on or before that time, be furnished a certified copy of Articles of Incorporation of a Company to be formed under the laws of the State of Nevada, incorporated by George W. and should you also receive for my account a Certificate of Stock in my name, for a number of shares in said Corporation, equivalent at par to the amount of money handed you herewith, and should you also receive evidence satisfactory to you that the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California has authorized the issuance and delivery of such stock, you are authorized and directed to pay ninety-five per centum (95%) of said sum, to said Corporation. In the meantime, you are authorized to pay five per centum (5%) as directed by the above named intended incorporators, or a majority of them.

(2) Should any one or more of the foregoing conditions be not complied with by the date stated, you are thereupon to return ninety-five per centum (95%) of said amount to the undersigned in full payment and satisfaction of all his rights hereunder, which he hereby agrees to so accept.

This subscription is made in consideration of the undertaking by the said incorporators to procure subscriptions aggregating the sum above set forth, and in further consideration of the subscription of each and many persons similarly subscribing, and the undersigned hereby subscribes and agrees to take the number of shares called for by this subscription on the conditions above set forth, and agrees to the formation of the corporation for the purposes and upon the terms herein recited.

PRODUCER SETTLES HERE.

Close upon the arrival of Mrs. Louis J. Gasnier and her daughter Maude from New York City came the announcement yesterday that Louis J. Gasnier, the producer of Astra films and Lew Cody Productions, had severed all connections with eastern producers and would make pictures in Glendale exclusively. Mrs. Gasnier and Miss Maude, who is Gasnier's mascot for all his enterprises, remained in Gotham as long as there seemed a likelihood of the producer's return to New Jersey to create features either for himself or for the Pathe with which he was associated as vice-president and general manager for more than a score of years. But when it appeared that Gasnier had been entirely won over to Southern California, his wife and daughter entrained for the Coast. Now Gasnier will build a home in Hollywood.

Plans were announced yesterday as including the establishment of a $1,000,000 studio for which the present plant will be the nucleus. The launching of three companies in addition to the Lew Cody Productions Company and James W. Horne's serial unit, co-featuring Warner Oland and Eileen Percy, and the possible creation of an independent distributing plan.

Gasnier joined Pathe when but twelve persons constituted Pathe Freres. He is now regarded as an artistic producer in pictures. It is said that he is spending approximately $150,000 on his premier Cody feature which Christy Cabanne is making.

In Paris Charles Pathe "discovered" Gasnier. The latter was eighteen and the director of the Forte St. Martin Theater. He broke into the profession of the stage at the age of sixteen, having run away from home to become a trouper.

He came to the United States to establish the Pathe plant in New Jersey. With him was Joseph Dubray, head of all Pathe's camera forces. Dubray is now with Gasnier at the Astra studio, "shooting" for Lew Cody. Miss Gasnier yesterday was present at the launching of production on "The Third Eye" the Astra 14-part film which James W. Horne is making. She greeted "mon papa" in French on her arrival, for this remarkably talented Miss of seven years has five tongues at her command.

BURBANK REOPENS.

By Grace Kingsley.

Oh, for the good old days when the pretty lines of musical comedy were found in the book as well as in the chorus! When the musical comedies had runs instead of runways; when there were songbirds as well as chickens; when it wasn't considered necessary to fill the stage every minute with some senseless whirligig of motion; when the songs didn't sound as if the writer had taken a foolish powder, and when the book wasn't full of jokes that for many years have been household words in every phonograph factory.

In other words, when such shows as "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" were written by such writers as George M. Cohan. Of course, Cohan doesn't write 'em any more. He spends his time now kidding the other shows in his brilliant revues. He finds material enough, heaven knows. "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" is the show with which the Burbank Theater reopened yesterday to a big crowd evidently ready to welcome back the old favorites. The lilting music is all there, notably the song theme itself, named after the show, the famous "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," which is sung by everybody in the cast at some time during the show, is echoed by the chorus and by duets and quartettes. And there are all Cohan's bright lines, which need no burnishing. But it was always a flexible show, so there are a number of up-to-the-minute songs as well, with local hits enough to please the most blase.

A good cast presents the piece, including that pocket Venus, Arline Levy, who boasts about the prettiest legs in captivity, as Flora Dora Dean, Marie Rich as the demure Mary Jane Jenkins—by the way, Miss Rich reads Cohan's clever lines delightfully, registering a terrific hit yesterday—Vida Raymon as the shrewish, Mrs. Dean; George W. Banta as Tom Bennett—Banta sings his songs very pleasingly; while Larry Richardson is capital as the square-built "Kid Burns," making, indeed, the biggest hit of the show.

With such a first-rate beginning and such first-rate material, the new Burbank venture should be a success.

MARION DAVIES IS EASY TO LOOK AT.

If you want to see the most beautiful girl that has made her debut on the screen in many a day, be sure and see Marion Davies at the Kinema this week, in Robert W. Chambers's story, "The Dark Star."

As for the story, it would appear that when Robert Chambers departs from the well-known chamber stories, so to speak, he's out of his element. Anyhow, when he wrote "The Dark Star," if it really is presented on the screen at the Kinema just as he wrote it, he would seem to know more about face powder than gunpowder, more about French bedroom clocks than bomb clocks, more about boudoir kitties than soldiers' kits, more about perfume than war gas. In other words, "The Dark Star" is just a collection of all the bromide things you've seen done in serials—the old stuff about the bombs and spies and stunts by sea and land.

If you still are thrilled by this sort of thing, you'll like "The Dark Star." It's all about the machinations of a German spy and spyess against a brave young Frenchman and an American girl, and if you like action, you get it here. But just imagine running a war on the memory of a girl who copied some German plans when she was a youngster! Well, it isn't quite that bad, but the spy and spyess aforesaid got their "papers" that way, when they couldn't get the originals!

The picture is notable as introducing the young and lovely Marion Davies, musical comedy star, to the screen—at least this is the first time I have seen her. And though the youth and loveliness are undeniable, Miss Davies, I must say, presents all the finished acting ability of a Keystone bathing beauty. But don't miss seeing her—she's the easiest young lady to look at the screen has produced in many a moon. The whole cast is notable, including Norman Kerry, Dorothy Green, and other favorites.

A really beautiful dance act, and one which will doubtless improve in the ensemble work with repetition, is that of Marjorie Mauchline and her six dancing girls in "An Arabian Night." Miss Mauchline herself is dainty, graceful and expressive.

Clune's Broadway.

If Roaring River's idea of peace is that presented in "The Peace of Roaring River," I'd hate to see the old place when it was in a turmoil! For "The Peace of Roaring River" at Clune's Broadway has more turmoil to the square inch than even the Houdini serial can boast.

Why is it that excellent actress, Pauline Frederick, seems never any more to be fitted with stories suitable to her art? "The Peace of Roaring River" has to do with a girl who, tired of the drab life of a factory slave, lets herself be persuaded by a well-intentioned but vulgar old soul to answer a matrimonial advertisement. The ad, however, wasn't really written by the young man himself, but as a means of revenge by the village pest—a girl in love with the man herself. I don't know what sort of revenge she expected: certainly she tore up the earth when the girl really arrived in town.

Ah, but girls, you'll find out from this picture how to turn a woman-hater into your own true love! Just take a shot at him! That's what Pauline did—and Thomas Holding began to love her, oh, how he began to love her, from that very minute!

She took a shot at him when he didn't know her, and, of course, before explaining about the letters, instead of afterward. Otherwise the only story there could have been would be the working out of the problem of the two in a human way—which wouldn't be the movie-maker's idea of drama at all. Miss Frederick, Mr. Holding, Corinne Barker and the others do as well as could be expected.

Ballet at California.

The California Theater management promised a "surprise" for the current week, and it proves to be an elaborate ballet number, in which seven beautiful girls take part, so the front seats are sure to be in big demand at least, this week. The number is called "The Spirit of the Woods," and was conceived by Mme. Matildita, the famous dancing teacher, and staged under the supervision of Managing Director Harry Leonhardt, with lighting effects by State Manager Whisler and Chief Electrician Robert Keyes of the California staff. The girls in this number are headed by the premiere danseuse, Bessie Crouch, assisted by Blanche Courtney, Genevieve Collignon, Tirene Crouch, Geraldine Lorn, Ruth White and Elise Walling. It is one of the most elaborate acts ever put on the California's mammoth stage, and is bound to prove an enjoyable treat to the thousands who are flocking to see Elinor Glyn's sensational story, "The Career of Katherine Bush," which is the Paramount-Artcraft feature this week.

Movie Dances Announced.

Tuesday, August 5, will see the inauguration of the series of movie dances, to be conducted at the Mitchell Hollywood studio, at Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga avenue. The dances will be under the direction of Jimmy Mitchell, who will be assisted in the work by the publicity men from many of the picture studios.

Tuesday night will be Bullseye Night, and in celebration of the event, the studio will be decorated throughout with the pictures and posters of the Bullseye companies. Some of the Bullseye Company who will be present for the affair are Nat Spitzer, Jay Mulhouser, Charles Parrott, Stanley Blystone, George Larson, Clarence Morehouse, Thomas Caswell, Charlie Dorety, Sid Smith, James Parrott, Beatrice Lovejoy, Esther Jackson, Matie Connoly, Dollie Stoddard, Evelyn Nelson, Betty Saunders and Margaret Villmore. Specially-arranged electrical effects and novelty dances are being planned for the occasion.

Some of the companies assisting Mr. Mitchell in perfecting the plans for the movie dances and the decorations at the Mitchell studio are the Bullseye, Gale Henry, Brentwood, Lasky and a number of others. The final plans for the summer season are expected to be made by the end of next week, when the outlying studios will have been heard from. The film folk and movie fans are urged to attend the gatherings in order to promote a greater spirit of personal fellowship.

VARIED BILL AT THE HIPPODROME.

A pleasantly-varied bill makes for good entertainment at the Hippodrome, in the new show opening yesterday. A number of good vaudeville acts kept the audience amused with comedy and song.

"Dust of Desire," the photoplay, may seem a little disappointing. Except in a very few places, interest and real action are lacking, but at least two scenes will cause little thrills to run up and down your spine. In one of these, Beth Vinton, played by Ruby de Remer, unhooks one edge of a trap door and sends the villain for a nice cool swim in the aqueduct under the house, but the poor villain can't swim, so he doesn't appreciate it (this scene is laid in South America, and they do say it's warm down there.) But the hero shows his spunk, or whatever it is heroes are made of, by jumping in and saving him. Whereupon the aforesaid villain reforms, only to meet an accidental death at the hands of his jealous wife (in the other scene.) But outside of that, there isn't very much happens.

The Ben Hassen troupe of tumblers are in the star position on the vaudeville bill. Dale Wilson, comedienne, comes next in order, while Powry's trained dogs will delight the children. Tracy, Palmer and Tracy are two girls and a man, who give some music, songs and dances. Ella la Vale, an aerialist, and Frand & Peggy Pymmone, pair of funsters, complete the bill.

ELEANOR GIVES HINTS.

A close correspondence is being kept up between dainty Eleanor Woodruff, leading woman at the Morosco, who created the role of the snobbish wife in "Civilian Clothes," and Olive Tell, who was chosen for the same role in the New York production. Original difficulties encountered by Miss Woodruff in the character have been communicated to Miss Tell, whose expressed appreciation attests all the more to Miss Woodruff's accomplishments.

The local run of "Civilian Clothes" looks as if it were to continue perhaps several weeks longer; it entered No. 6 yesterday, with seats filled, as per usual.

NEW MAJESTIC PLAY.

LEWIS STONE COMPANY PRESENTS "TALKER."

By Edwin Schallert.

After you have left the Majestic Theater this week you will not be exactly sure whether you have seen a comedy or a problem play. Half of "The Talker," by Marion Fairfax, is about as giddy as any comedy can possibly be; the other half is as serious as any play of the type would dare to be since the days of "Way Down East." All that is "L'Allegro" about this peculiar drama happens in the first act and a half; and all that is "Il Penseroso" from then on to the close of the third act. There is very little humorous relief from the middle point, and yet despite the rather violent and dismaying change of mood, there is no fault to find with the sequence of the events.

The idea of the play is a vital one. It concerns the effect of talk that is purely talk—modern and daring—by a strong-minded woman on a woman of weak discernment. In this case the latter happens to be the husband's sister, the wife being "the talker." The fundamental weakness of the play lies in the apparent hypnotic effect of the older woman's words upon the younger, although such a possibility cannot be absolutely denied.

In most respects, especially in its powerfully brilliant portrayal of domestic life from the comedy angle, "The Talker" is almost nudely true. Its truth to reality oftentimes destroys its truth as drama—two subtly differentiated things—as the impressionists and others long ago discovered in relation of actuality to realization in painting.

It might be that a few artistic touches to brighten the landscape of the later scenes of "The Talker," would make it one of the best comedy dramas. Seldom has an audience found more delight in sharp witty lines than those which marked the clash between the husband and wife over their domestic relations. They got no end of fun out of the clever business of George C. Pearce, a new member of the company, who recalled something of that "Prince of Pilsen," Jess Dandy's semi-slapstick in portraying the after-effect of too much imbibing. Pearce absolutely carried this part of the play away with him. He is one of the best comedy [illegible] that has appeared in many a summer's day at local stock theater.

"The Talker" as a whole revealed the combined work of the members of the company to advantage. Stone had some big comedy and dramatic moments that he made stand out as finely distinct achievements. Florence Oakley gave one of the best shaded portrayals as Kate Lennox. Stronger and clearer delineation of the character of the sister by Bettie Wales would add much to the effectiveness of her scenes, and the play as well. The part is however, unfortunately weak. Byron Beasley was capital in a brief bit.

There were some hitches to the performance, which are noticed, because unexpected after the splendid first night productions given by the company.

You will enjoy "The Talker" especially the first two acts, which will fascinate with their brilliant humor; the last part of the play is supposed to happen three years after the other two, which is its chief excuse.

Superba.

The tone color of Spain can be utilized seemingly with great advantage to produce a harmonic landscape for romantic drama on the screen. In such a setting blooms and flourishes "The Spitfire of Seville" at the Superba Theater this week. While it has not a great story or vibrant dramatic appeal, it possesses novel situations and an interesting plot that moves with but few halts.

Hedda Nova, the featured player, appears as a tomboy of the toreador country, who also has her Carmen-like nature—nearly always predicable of the Spanish heroine in the photoplay. The possibilities of the role were far from exhausted by Miss Nova, as her spitfire character was not sustained during the intervals between occasional outbursts. While her ability to realize did not convince, she made a delectable Spanish beauty in her Carmenesque scenes.

The situation where the artist mistakes the girl heroine for a boy revealed a clever method for opening the Pandora's box of necessary complications and troubles for the leading characters. The photoplay puts a new angle on the bedroom scene, with a certain degree of spiciness. Thereafter follow in quick sequence vengeance, jealousy, love and all the needful material for the romantic and atmospherically inviting drama. The ending, where the artist forsakes the American girl for the Spanish heroine, has not the exact proportion of conviction which marks the story as a whole. It looks as if the piet were so tightly wound up that the spring broke.

In its staging and settings this Universal release averages among the best recently seen at the Superba Theater and as a feature it holds fascination which, while it may not stand deep analysis, will nevertheless appeal to the beholder.

A very jovial comedy—one of the best of the Lyons and Moran output is "Waiting at the Church." These boys are getting funnier and more clever each film.

Hall Caine Story Shows at Garrick.

The Lasky production of "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" holds a strong appeal for the public, as evidenced by the attendance at the reshowing yesterday at the Garrick Theater. Hall Caine's story is famous for its carrying fire and sword into the walled city of convention, relating the story of a woman forced into marriage with a dissolute English nobleman, who, after she breaks with him, has to make unusual sacrifices for her love for another man before she finally attains happiness.

The story by Caine is built very cleverly on a subtly wrought foundation of artificiality. The manner in which this is done makes the unfolding of the story strong and convincing. For this reason "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," with its cotarie of capable players, including the beautiful Katherine MacDonald as the star, Milton Sills, Jack Holt and Fritzi Brunette, proved a very fascinating feature upon its recent showing here.

Linne at Grauman's.

The music for the dancing act which is to be a feature of Grauman's programme this week will be directed by Hans S. Linne, well known as conductor of classic dance and orchestral music. Mr. Linne has just returned from a seventy-eight-week engagement with a corps de ballet on the B. F. Keith circuit.

The dancers for the Grauman act will be nine young girls from the Belcher school. They will be clad in Grecian garb and their costumes, poses and steps will symbolize such subjects as Art, Love, Youth, Rhythm, Frivolity and the like.

The solo dancers will be Anna Heloise, Irene Adams and Arnold Tamon. In the corps de ballet are Naomi Black, Betty Gassett, Marie Fanjoy, Bett Lee, Ilka Maurie and Natalie Fanjoy.

NOVEL COMEDY AT THE PA[illegible]

One crook at a time is all for a playright, but two crooks—well, too many crooks, too many.

In the first place, Browning had just seen the "successful" crook play of the season, and she didn't like it. The characters were merely dummies, so she sat down and wrote her own, having first invited a quartette of the underworld to her house to study. What she saw and what they did is told in "Many Crooks," at the [illegible] week.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Organ[illegible] ironical, formal demand that pric[illegible] goods.

A tri-partite control composed [illegible] and the employees is demanded [illegible] addressed to the American peo[illegible] men, the conductors and the Am[illegible] ment was issued announcing the [illegible] Congress Wednesday.

"It marks," says the statement, [illegible] from demands for wage increa[illegible] gains in industry be overlooked."

This sentence sums up in a few [illegible] been hints and indications, but w[illegible] for the first time. Everywhere in o[illegible] the most serious and far-reaching pr[illegible] to face.

Characterizing the proposal as [illegible] labor's bill," it is put forth as a [illegible] remedy for the high cost of living. [illegible] the railroads are the key [illegible] industry of the nation. It demands [illegible] "genuine co-operation and part[illegible]ship based on a real community [illegible] interests and participation in [illegible] control," of which President Wilson [illegible] spoke to Congress, and which the [illegible] statement says has been ignored by [illegible] labor and the private owners of the [illegible] railroads.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

"We ask," it says, "that the rail[illegible] roads of the United States be vested [illegible] the public; that those actually en[illegible] gaged in conducting that industry, [illegible] from Wall street, but from the [illegible] railroad offices and yards and over [illegible] railroad lines, shall take charge [illegible] the service for the public."

Briefly, labor's plan demands:

That private capital be eliminated from the railroads.

That the private owners receive for them government bonds "with a fixed interest rate [illegible] here for every honest dollar [illegible] that they have invested."

That the tripartite control, heretofore referred to, be established in corporations which shall lease the roads and in which the public, the operating managements and labor shall be represented equally.

That the public, the operators and the wage earners share equally all revenue in excess of the guarantee to private capital, by granting to the operators and the employees one-half of the savings which are expected to be made by such a perfected organization, and to the public the other half as consumers, either by increasing services without adding costs or by reducing costs.

"This role originates with labor," the statement, "because labor [illegible] to have firm organizations through which it may become articulate."

The trainmen are not represented in the statement, because W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood, was [illegible] of the city, but it was said that he will join in it.

LABOR'S BILL.

The statement follows:

"The innuendoes in telegraphed [illegible] quotes from Washington, appearing also in the speech of Representative Blanton of Texas, that the railroad unions are holding up Congress and the government, may as well cease. This appeal is made to the American people direct. It invites the judgment and common sense of public sentiment, of all the [illegible] which earns a wage or a salary. We recognize that the only [illegible] which we can exist under the present system is to demand further increases in wages. But we agree with Representative Blanton that [illegible] affords but temporary relief. [illegible] not offer a remedy.
